KIDNAPED — Lord Donoughmore, 71, an Irish peer, above, and his wife, are missing and believed kidnaped by the Irish Republican Army, according to police in Ireland. They say that three armed, masked men invaded Donoughmore's home and abducted him and his wife.

More action expected today

Assembly OKs major bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Both houses of the legislature face more major bills today following marathon sessions Wednesday that sent a packet of important bills to Gov. John J. Gilligan.

The House was set to consider a measure to regulate "twice-a-month" blood donor centers blamed for hepatitis in several cities, while senators called up a constitutional amendment to extend the term of the director of public works.

During a long day Wednesday, there were these top developments:

—Senate Republicans, clinging to their claim of a major budget surplus, added about $40 million to Gilligan's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill, most of it for tax relief.

—The House concurred in Senate amendments and sent the governor bills permitting right turns on red at intersections and letting a child 12 or over pick between separating parents in divorce proceedings.

—Senators agreed to House changes and completed passage of measures taking unemployment coverage away from nonteaching school employes during summer months, expanding urban development (impacted city) laws to include construction of parking garages, and creating a state fund for deposit of black lung insurance funds by coal operators.

—The House agreed to a joint conference committee report on a bill giving Ohio a "no fault" divorce law allowing couples to have marriages dissolved. The Senate still must act on the report.

—Senators soundly rejected a bill that would let the state regulate the use of information about citizens stored in consumer credit and other types of computers. One opponent charged it would only serve to create a state information "czar" in the Department of Administrative Services. Defeated 10-21, the bill is dead at least for this session.

—The Senate added its approval to a House measure outlawing so-called pyramid sales plans in Ohio such as chain letters and similar schemes. It now must go back to the House for consideration of amendments.

—The House approved Senate changes in a bill requiring slow moving vehicles to have lights visible from 1,000 feet at night. It goes to the governor.

—Senators approved and sent to the House a bill extending the ban against gas and oil drilling in Lake Erie from July 1, 1974 to July 1, 1976. The House already had passed a similar measure that prolongs the ban until 1977. A conference committee is expected.

—The House defeated 45-47 (with 50 required) a major bill that would let the Department of Natural Resources, with legislative approval, establish and regulate a flood plain management system for the state. Those who balked at the legislation feared it could become "a land grab," they said.

—The House approved 91-1 a major Senate bill establishing a "bill of rights" for mental patients. It clarifies commitment protections, assures periodic review of the status of patients, including hearings, and establishes their civil rights upon release, including those of employment.

Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, is sponsor of the blood donor bill aimed at newly established "plasmaphereses" centers which extract blood, remove plasma, and reinject the portion left, including red cells, back into the donor's blood stream.

More than a half dozen centers currently are operating in Columbus, Akron, Toledo, and other cities under no federal or state regulations. The new extraction process enables donors to sell their blood as often as once every two weeks.

Unsanitary conditions and other problems with the centers have resulted in at least 50 cases of hepatitis in scattered areas of Ohio, health department spokesman have tesitfied. The centers would have to obtain licenses and undergo periodic inspections under the pending bill.

If approved by both chambers, Ohioans would decide next November whether to change the term of the director of public works from one year, under the amendment before the Senate. It would let him serve at the pleasure of the governor, rather than have the chief exedcutive face the formality of an appointment or reappointment every 12 months.

GOP wants to spend more

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Majority Republicans in the Ohio Senate are ready to tack about $40 million on Gov. John J. Gilligan's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill.

Sen. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, reiterating his claim of a state surplus "of at least $50 million," announced the GOP "approach to state needs" Wednesday.

He is chairman of a Senate Finance Subcommittee which is considering how to spend initial profits from the new state lottery—estimated at $43.5 million by Gilligan for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Subcommittee members, three Republicans and two Democrats, get down to work on specific amendments today. Democrats will repeat their claim of no surplus.

The Republican bill, sponsored by Dennis, retains $27.4 million of Gilligan's proposal— for Vietnam bonus payments and vocational education construction—but rearranges most other priorities and adds $40.5 million in tax relief.

It takes out of the Gilligan bill such things as $4.5 million to provide free mass transit for citizens over 65.

Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, the majority whip of the Democrat-controlled House, Wednesday gave the subcommittee petitions he said contain the names of 15,000 elderly citizens who want the free transit.

Dennis did not defend GOP deletion of the subsidy, but Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said he believes "the state could help the public transit systems more by providing them with funds for capital improvements."

Also taken out of Gilligan's bill, after being labelled a "pork barrel" by Dennis, were $262,000 for the state to take over three Cleveland parks, $100,000 for Ohio's participation in the 1976 U.S. Bicentennial observation, and $2.7 million for emergency medical treatment in a half-dozen Ohio cities.

The Republican tax package, totaling $40.5 million, includes $30 million for repeal of the personal intangibles tax, $7 million for an increase in the personal exemption under the state income tax from $500 to $600, and expansion of the homestead property tax exemption to slightly higher income brackets.

New items that would be added by Dennis include $3.4 million to reimburse medium size Ohio cities for losses in school subsidies and $1.2 million to purchase military retirement credits for the State Police and Firemen's Pension and Disability Fund.

Dennis also added $5 million for tornado disaster relief for Greene and Hamilton counties.

Sens. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, and Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, listened almost without comment as Dennis explained the Republican proposal.

Ocasek did say at one point, "It looks more like a tax relief bill than a supplemental appropriations bill."

Name Ehrlichman and Mitchell top coverup figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says the Watergate cover-up by former members of President Nixon's inner circle began almost from the moment the original break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters was discovered.

The prosecutor said Wednesday that John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell "not only falsely withheld their knowledge (of the break-in) from government investigators, but also made use of that superior knowledge in performing various criminal actions designed to frustrate the investigation."

In legal briefs filed with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski said that while former White House domestic adviser Ehrlichman and former Atty. Gen. Mitchell were fully aware of the details of the break-in, they told FBI agents all they knew came from the newspapers.

"The government is prepared to prove that at the time of their respective FBI interviews each defendant had extensive knowledge of the facts surrounding the Watergate break-in, knowledge which far exceeded that of the investigators themselves," Jaworski said.

He filed the briefs in preparation for the Sept. 9 trial of Mitchell, Ehrlichman and four others accused in the cover-up.

Among other accusations, Mitchell and Ehrlichman are charged with lying to the FBI agents who interviewed them.

Both say the law under which they were charged with lying does not cover investigations like the one into the original Watergate break-in.

In his brief, Jaworski argued that while there are a few cases in which lying to FBI agents has proven to be a nonconvictable offense, this is not one of them.

Instead, he said the course of the investigation "provides an unfortunate example" of the way the Justice Department's job "can be perverted by the submission of false information to its investigators."

Sirica has scheduled hearings next week on various requests from the defendants, who are seeking dismissal of the charges, a different trial location and access to all evidence gathered by Jaworski's staff.

Also Wednesday, the President's two brothers, F. Donald and Edward Nixon, appeared before staff investigators of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., said the brothers declined to answer some questions put to them and failed to appear at a second session. An attorney for the brothers, Elmer Stone, said they were "in full compliance" with the committee's subpoena to testify in connection with an investigation of money given by billionaire Howard Hughes to C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, the President's close friend.

Earlier this year, the committee reportedly received testimony from Herbert V. Kalmbach, the President's former personal attorney, linking the brothers to gifts allegedly made from a $100,000 Hughes payment to Rebozo.

Middle East POW exchange complete

By The Associated Press

Israel and Syria exchanged their last POWs from the October war today, and Red Cross planes flew them home from Tel Aviv and Damascus.

Israeli soldiers before dawn released 367 Syrians, 10 Iraqis and five Moroccans captured on the Golan Heights and loaded them on a Swissair jumbo jetliner and a United Nations Fokker Friendship for the hour-long flight to Syria.

As the planes left Israel, a third Red Cross flight departed from Damascus with 56 smiling Israeli POWs aboard.

The Israelis, in khaki fatigues and bare headed, entered the plane under the silent gaze of hundreds of Syrian men, women and children gathered to welcome their soldiers.

The POW exchange promised in the disengagement pact negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began Saturday when Syria exchanged 12 wounded Israelis for 25 wounded Syrians and one Moroccan.

As the prisoners left for home, United Nations peacekeeping troops began patrolling the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

Wildly jubilant crowds of Israelis and Syrians poured onto the airfields at Damascus and outside Tel Aviv to welcome the POWs home.

Hundreds of frantic Israelis, shouting with joy after months of worry, surged around the plane from the Syrian capital and lifted the freed men onto their shoulders.

Welcoming ceremonies collapsed in chaos as the crowds fought past police barriers.

Girl soldiers in miniskirts pushed through the jostling mob, handing flowers to the bewildered POWs.

The scene at the Damascus airport was even wilder.

Thousands of jubilant Syrians broke through wire barriers and lines of paratroopers to surround the jumbo jet from Israel when it landed. The giant plane had to stop in the middle of the airfield almost a mile from the terminal as waves of men, women and children swarmed across the runways.

Viets stop Red push

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces 25 miles north of Saigon smashed a two-prong North Vietnamese attack Wednesday night and killed 145 of the attackers, the Saigon military command reported today.

A communique said 13 other North Vietnamese were captured, while government casualties were 27 killed and 63 wounded.

The North Vietnamese were trying to recapture the village of An Dien, which the South Vietnamese had retaken late Tuesday

'Airline schedule' for space slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans only one manned space flight in the next five years. But starting in 1979, Americans will fly into orbit on an airline schedule, with 725 flights projected over a 12-year period.

That's more than one mission a week, with four to seven persons on each, including a crew of three.

Among the travelers will be men and women scientists and researchers of many lands. The flights will be for working personnel only; there will be no sightseeing trips into space.

Dr. Myron S. Malkin, director of the space shuttle program, said the cost of developing two shuttle vehicles by 1979 will be $5.15 billion—one-fifth the cost of the Apollo program.

He said NASA probably will need seven shuttles in the 1980s, with five extra craft being purchased from the contractor, Rockwell International, at about $250 million each.

To make this launch rate possible, and economical, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is developing the shuttle, a vehicle that will be launched like a rocket, fly like a spaceship and land on a concrete runway like an airliner.

The size of a DC9, an airplane that carries 90 to 110 passengers, it will be able to make 100 or more round trips into orbit.

NASA officials discussed the shuttle and its over-all space transportation plan for the 1980s at a briefing Wednesday. NASA sees itself becoming a "trucking agency" to deliver people and payloads into space for commercial users, other government agencies and foreign governments.

In effect, passengers will buy seats on a shuttle to conduct experiments in orbit for periods up to 30 days, sharing the estimated $10.5 million cost of each mission. An Apollo space mission cost $450 million, and nothing was reuseable.

John F. Yardley, associate administrator for manned space flight, said the shuttle and its two solid fuel launching rockets are reuseable. The rockets will parachute back to earth for recovery.

Initially, the shuttle will be used to place communications, weather and scientific satellites into orbit, eliminating the need for conventional throwaway rockets. If a payload should have trouble, a shuttle crew could fly up to repair or retrieve it.

Far-reaching ethics plan pushed at governors meet

SEATTLE (AP) — The nation's governors have endorsed a far-reaching ethics proposal calling for broad financial disclosure by public officials and reforms in campaign financing.

The resolution, a bid by the 66th National Governors' Conference to bolster the image of government amid the Watergate scandals, was passed unanimously on the meeting's closing day Wednesday, with two abstentions.

A move by New York's Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson to scale down the measure, offered by Wisconsin's Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and Republican Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, was rejected 16 to 9.

Although the conference ended without addressing itself directly to Watergate and the possibility of a presidential impeachment, the need for higher ethical standards in politics was a recurrent theme throughout the four-day session.

Both the governors and many outside speakers said states have outpaced the federal government in the field of political reform and in providing measures to help the nation's consumers.

The resolution declared that "a shadow has been cast across this land that can be best be erased by the bright light of public scrutiny" and pledged vigorous efforts at all levels of government in four areas:

—Campaign financing, including limits and disclosure for contributions and spending, "selected pilot projects to determine feasibility of public campaign financing," independent enforcement and strong penalties.

—Strict ethical codes for government officials, including clear definitions of conflict of interest, "appropriate and timely disclosure of personal finances" by both public officials and candidates and independent enforcement.

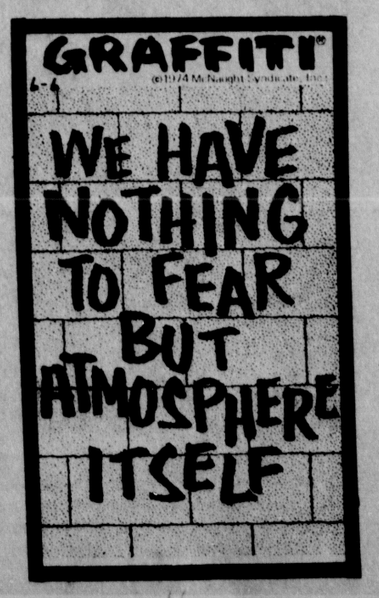

—Open meetings of public bodies except in "limited, specific circumstances," with penalties for noncompliance and requirements for advance public notice and written minutes.

—Registration and full disclosure of lobbying activities by all special interest groups.

The governors called on Congress to make permanent the five-year revenue-sharing program adopted in 1972, under which some $5 billion in federal funds is being returned each year to states and localities.

They urged prompt enactment of a federal health insurance program without endorsing a specific plan.

Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, a Utah Democrat, was elected to head the conference for the next year.

Milk fund tape vague, incomplete

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key tape in the milk-fund affair is incomplete and inconclusive, say several House impeachment probers who listened to it.

The recording is of President Nixon ordering an increase in federal milk price supports in 1971. Several members of the House Judiciary Committee who heard it say it neither proves nor disproves whether the President was influenced by a promise of $2 million in campaign donations from dairy cooperatives.

They also say the recording ends abruptly with an exchange between Nixon and then Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

According to Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Connally said, "I'd like to talk to you for a couple of minutes on another matter." Nixon replied, "Sit down," and the tape recording ended, Rangel said.

The recording was furnished voluntarily by the White House several months ago before it began resisting requests for subpoenas for additional recordings. White House lawyers have said that in such tapes it gave up only portions relevant to Watergate.

The committee devoted the full day Wednesday to reviewing evidence in the milk fund affair. Today it was scheduled to review White House wiretapping of newsmen and administration officials; a plan that Nixon approved briefly to gather domestic intelligence through burglary and surveillance of mail, and activities of the White House plumbers unit that broke into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., said, "I think you can read into it what you want." Froehlich said he heard no evidence of wrongdoing by Nixon, although he said the tape shows the President raised milk prices for political reasons.

Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said: "I was of the opinion that milk prices were increased in response to a pledge of campaign contributions and nothing I heard has dissuaded me. It has only reinforced my opinion."

There was some disagreement as to whether political contributions were discussed at the meeting.

The recording is of a March 23, 1971, meeting among Nixon and seven advisers.

The day before the largest co-op, Associated Milk Producers Inc., gave $10,000 to a Nixon committee. This was the first of what was then promised to be $2 million.

A White Paper issued by The White House has said Nixon ordered the price increase during the afternoon meeting after being urged to do so by Connally. It said Nixon was influenced mainly by pressure for a price increase from Congress. It denies Nixon was influenced by the promise of money and says that although Nixon knew of the $2 million promise that nobody mentioned it at the meeting.

After listening to the tape behind closed doors, Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., said much of the talk dealt with efforts then under way in the House and Senate to raise milk prices through legislation.

Froehlich said that toward the end of the meeting, after Nixon ordered Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to reverse himself and raise prices, "They were talking about getting the best political mileage out of the decision."

He said someone suggested contacting House speaker Carl Albert and Ways and Means chairman Wilbur D. Mills—both of whom wanted a price increase—and using Nixon's decision to influence them to act favorably on the President's legislative program.

The committee also reviewed evidence, details of which had leaked out earlier, showing that dairy cooperative officials tried to raise a quick $300,000 for Nixon within hours after his price support decision, and even before it was announced publicly.

They also read a sworn allegation from former Nixon fund raiser Herbert W. Kalmbach who said the late Murray M. Chotiner asked a top dairy cooperative official on behalf of the White House to reaffirm the $2 million hours before the price increase was announced publicly.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Ernest Jenks

JEFFERSONVILLE — Mrs. Joan (Hidy) Jenks, 53, Ohio 729-NW, died at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in Kettering Medical Center, Kettering. She had been in failing health for the past year and seriously ill the past month.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert G. Smith, vice president for university development at Ohio State University, has resigned his post effective Sept. 1.

Grand jury voted to name Nixon as co-conspirator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair today confirmed published reports that a federal grand jury voted earlier this year to name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up.

St. Clair told newsmen he was informed of the grand jury's action three or four weeks ago by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Asked what the President's reaction was, St. Clair said, "his view, of course, is that they just don't have all the evidence ... I think he felt it was quite inappropriate ... He was confident that the true facts would come out in time and that he would be exonerated."

Unindicted co-conspirators are not charged with a crime and cannot be prosecuted under the indictment in which they are named.

The same grand jury returned indictments March 1 against seven former Nixon administration and campaign aides for allegedly conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

The grand jury also handed U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica a sealed report and a satchel filled with evidence it had accumulated on the President's alleged role in Watergate.

The Los Angeles Times reported today that the grand jury had voted 19 to 0 to include the President among the unindicted co-conspirators in the case.

The newspaper said the jurors first said they wanted to include the President among the defendants but were advised by Jaworski that there were legal questions involved in indicting an incumbent president.

St. Clair said the grand jury's action has "no legal effect."

"It wouldn't be the first time a grand jury was wrong," he said.

St. Clair made his comments as he entered a closed session of the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

Asked if they had been told of the grand jury's action, several committee members, including chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said they had not been told.

Sniper slain by policemen

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A shotgun-wielding ex-convict killed a policeman and wounded eight other officers and two civilians before he emerged from a flaming rooming house and was shot to death early today, police said.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said Elza Carr Jr., 33, had held police at bay with an automatic shotgun for more than four hours before he came out of a flaming, tear gas-filled rooming house on Omaha's Near North Side.

The chief said Carr was firing the weapon at officers as he opened a door on the porch. Police returned the fire and Carr was killed, he said.

Andersen said Patrolman Paul Nields, about 26, died at a hospital of a head wound suffered at about 12:45 a.m. when he entered the house as police urged the sniper to surrender.

Authorities said Nields, married and the father of two, was among officers who launched tear gas about 2½ hours after Carr had fired from upstairs in the two-story frame structure.

Flames engulfed the house in late stages of the incident, apparently ignited by tear gas cannisters. Three persons in the house when the shooting started managed to escape uninjured.

Andersen said pellets from the man's weapon had hit eight other officers, a man who had been visiting Carr and a bystander.

Showers and thundershowers today and tomorrow form the main Ohio weather picture under a flow of warm southerly air into the state.

Spotty showers fell in the western portions of the state during the previous 24 hours with Cincinnati having 0.14 inches and lesser amounts in other spots. High temperatures in Ohio Wednesday ranged from 79 in the Cincinnati area to 84 at Cleveland's Lake Front Airport.

The National Weather Service said the southerly flow of air over the state is likely to continue with the low pressure trough remaining over the plains and high pressure along the East Coast. While the showers are forecast over the western portions of Ohio today there is only a slight chance in the eastern portions.

Considerable cloudiness is forecast for tonight and Friday with a chance of showers over the state. Highs today are expected from 75 to 80 with lows tonight in the 60s and highs Friday in the 70s.

A chance of showers Saturday, fair Sunday and Monday. Warm and humid with highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s.

Heavy rain washes over central U.S.

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms extending from Minnesota to Kansas triggered heavy rains and scattered hail today. The Gulf states also were soaked.

The town of Franklin in southern Nebraska was swanped by 2½ inches of rain in 20 minutes. Ayr, also in southern Nebraska was swamped by 2½ inches of rain in 20 minutes. Ayr, also in southern Nebraska, was hit by golfball-size hail and winds up to 50 miles per hour.

Other storms centered over the South, and a tornado touched down at McAdam in central Mississippi.

Flooding was forecast in Nebraska and Mississippi in the wake of the downpours.

Snow fell across some mountain passes in northern Colorado, resulting in the closing of at least one road.

Clouds shrouded parts of the Far West, but most other sections outside the midcontinent and South were fair to partly cloudy.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 89 at Carlsbad, N.M., to 40 at Evanston, Wyo.

Stock prices in upswing

NEW YORK (AP) — Another prediction of a declining prime rate carried the stock market's recent rally into its fourth day today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.97 at 833.15, and gainers outpaced losers about 5-4 on the New York Stock Exchange. The advance brought the Dow to nearly 31 points above last Friday's close.

A.W. Clausen, president of the Bank of America, told a reporter this morning the prime rate seemed to be at a turning point and could decline sharply once it began heading downward from its present 11½ per cent level. He said he generally agreed with Wednesday's forecast from Walter B. Wriston, chairman of New York's First National City Bank, that the key rate on loans to big business could be as low as 7 to 8 per cent by year-end.

Universal Oil Products was the most-active NYSE issue, up a point at 16.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 83.93. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .19 to 47.72.

Reservoir work upheld by court

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A federal appeals court today upheld continued partial construction of two reservoirs in southern Ohio, despite the lack of adequate environmental impact statements. The court ruled at the same time certain conservative groups, property owners and the Ohio Contractors Association should be allowed to intervene in suits filed against the projects by the State of Ohio.

The decision by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals partially affirmed and partially reversed U.S. District Court action on the suit, which sought a halt of all work at the Caesar Creek Lake project in Warren County and East Fork Reservoir project in Clermont County.

The state last July asked for an injunction to halt both projects on grounds that the Army Corps of Engineers had violated the national Environmental Policy Act by beginning construction of the projects without filing sufficient environmental impact statements.

The state also charged the corps had violated several wildlife and water pollution acts.

The district court later last summer ordered the corps to submit adequate environmental impact statements. It ruled that future contracts would have a substantial impact on the environment and prohibited the corps from stripping away top soil, from relocating and closing roads, from clear-cutting trees, from removing brush and ground cover, and from doing anything else that would alter the natural environment.

But the district court permitted completion of specific phases of the contracts and allowed the corps to continue acquiring land for the projects.

The lower court then refused motions by other parties to intervene on grounds that until the reserviors were actually in existence, any discussion by other parties on their effects would be "speculative."

But the appellate court wrote today, "We are reluctant to prohibit persons from challenging expected violations of water quality standards until reservoirs are actually constructed if it is alleged that the present plan for construction will necessarily cause such a violation."

However, the appellate court agreed that a total shutdown of the projects would not have served the public interest.

The case was sent back to the lower court to permit intervention by the other parties.

Appeal studied in reserve case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The executive director of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) says the organization will discuss a possible appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court of an appeals court decision in the Reserve Mining Co. case.

A three-judge panel of the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of appeals ruled Tuesday that Reserve's practice of dumping taconite wastes into Lake Superior does not constitute an immediate health hazard.

The appeals court sent the case back to U. S. District Court, however, with instructions that the parties find an acceptable method of disposing of the waste rock on land.

Columbus man drowns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Columbus man fell from the prow of a boat and drowned in 15 feet of water at Hoover Reservoir Wednesday evening.

Police said Bill Suttle apparently lost his balance and fell from the boat.

Alabama girl spelling champ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie Ann Junkin, 12, of Gordo, Ala., won the 47th annual National Spelling Bee today by spelling hydrophyte correctly.

Miss Junkin, representing the Birmingham Post-Herald, won out over Gail Meier, 14, of Bartlett, Tenn., representing the Memphis Press-Scimitar, who mispelled mantelletta.

Miss Junkin then correctly spelled mantelletta and then went on to spell the winning word.

Hydrophyte means a plant growing in water and mantelletta means a knee-length outer garment worn by prelates.

Chocolate pie ends libel suit

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Faced with a choice between a libel suit or surrendering a reporter to be hit with a pie, the University of Washington Daily opted for pie.

At issue was a file photograph of Diane Cheap, a 1970 graduate, as she received a debating award. It was reprinted in the Daily's April 16 issue to illustrate John Snell's column poking fun at beauty contests.

Mrs. Cheap, a high school teacher in Snohomish, Wash., said through her attorney and former debate partner, Arthur D. McGarry, that the article was libelous, slanderous and made her the subject of ridicule among her students.

She threatened a $1,000 libel suit unless the Daily agreed to turn over the person responsible to be hit with a custard pie.

"My first idea was to dump a batch of Kool-Aid on his desk, but I was afraid he'd sue me," she said.

The Daily consulted with college lawyers who said her case looked pretty solid. So on Wednesday afternoon, Snell, McGarry and Mrs. Cheap held a brief ceremony outside the Communications Building.

Snell stood in a bathing suit, swimming flippers and a Tshirt emblazoned with the words "Daily Libel Team."

Mrs. Cheap, switching from custard to chocolate cream at the last minute, piled on a massive helping of whipped cream and let fly.

"If this makes her feel better, it's cool," said Snell, a sophomore from Walla Walla, Wash.

"I've had clients who have gotten more money out of a settlement but not more satisfaction," McGarry said. "If only all libel suits could be so easily settled."

Hoffa attacks parole limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former teamsters chief James R. Hoffa says he would have remained in prison had he been aware that President Nixon's pardon barred him from union activities until 1980.

"I would have stayed in prison for two more years. I would not have accepted the restriction," he told reporters Wednesday during a recess in arguments on his suit to eliminate the curb.

Hoffa's attorney, Leonard B. Boudin, contended—and the government conceded—that Hoffa was not told of the restriction until after his release from prison Dec. 23, 1971.

War veterans and officials mark anniversary of D-Day

ST. LAURENT, France (AP) — War veterans and officials from seven countries mark the 30th anniversary of D-Day today with a ceremony at the vast U.S. military cemetery near this Normandy village.

Almost 10,000 servicemen are buried in the cemetery on a cliff overlooking Omaha Beach, the bloodiest of five beaches the Allies stormed on June 6, 1944.

Gen. Omar Bradley, who commanded the Americans at Omaha and adjoining Utah Beach, heads the American delegation to the two-day celebration. About 1,500 Allied veterans of the landing are attending the observance, the biggest ever, of the invasion.

Bradley, at 81 the only living five-star general in the U.S. Army, attended a dinner Wednesday night and the dedication of a museum at Ranville but missed other events. Aides said he found the pace tiring and had to rest.

Ceremonies were held Wednesday at the eastern end of the 40-mile invasion front, where the British, Canadians and a French unit landed at 7:30 a.m. on D-Day.

Two other events were scheduled today to commemorate American feats of arms on DDay.

A unit of U.S. Rangers stationed in Germany was to reenact the climb 225 Rangers make under withering fire up a 100-foot cliff to capture a German strongpoint at Pointe du Hoc. The men of the 2nd Ranger Battalion used ropes and wooden ladders borrowed from the London Fire Brigade to scale the crags.

Some surviving Rangers were on hand to watch the re-enactment.

Some 120 civilian and military parachutists were to jump into the village of Ste. Mere l'Eglise, where the first American paratroopers, from the 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions, landed in France. They met with devastating fire in the square at St. Mere l'Eglise but regrouped and pushed on.

Astronaut Alan Shepard was to be a guest for the jump and later was to show a film of his moon landing.

The longest game of tiddly-winks was played in 1970 by eight Chicago students. The game lasted more than 120 hours.

Investors exercising judgment

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A fascinating change in the investment scene that might pose big problems for professional money managers, but which often is overlooked, is the tendency of investors today to exercise more independence of judgment.

In the 1960s, millions of Americans turned over their savings to money managers with only one request: "Make me some money." The money managers agreed to the arrangements, and sometimes they produced results, too.

Then the disillusionment. The stock market broke, and with it snapped the untested faith of customers in their advisers. So also did the myth of superior wisdom and insight.

Unlike the 1960s, when playing the game was easy, money managers now are being tested. Month after month the assets of mutual funds decline as customers redeem their shares, often at big losses.

To a much greater extent, it seems, small investors are relying on their own wits and knowledge, which in some instances is superior to the advice that was offered by the socalled experts.

Many brokerage houses also are having a tough time competing, even though competition is reduced by the demise of scores of firms.

Money managers can't seem to develop selling programs that have appeal — which is understandable, profit being the only story that all investors believe in. And profits can't be shown in today's market.

In a paper prepared for a Conference Board panel here today on "Portfolio Strategies for the Seventies," the vice president of a major fund group asked:

"Do any of you here really feel that you can set forth a definitive strategy today that you could leave unchanged for a year, much less four or five?"

If this is so, what program can the funds and the brokers sell to their customers? The fund vice president reached this conclusion:

"A soundly conceived and administered investment decision-making process is today's best bet for sound strategy in the 1970s. Our life style is too difficult for it to be otherwise."

1970s. Ten years ago he mightn't have hesitated before putting up his money, and might even had admired the appearance of wisdom.

Anderson Fork hearing set for Sabina June 26

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in cooperation with the Anderson Fork Creek Watershed Steering Committee, will conduct a public hearing in Sabina Wednesday, June 26, to review a request for planning assistance for a watershed project covering a 37-square-mile area in Clinton and Greene counties.

The hearing will start at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Sabina Elementary School, two blocks west of Ohio 729 on Ohio 3. The steering committee's pending application for planning assistance under the federal Small Watershed Act of 1954 will be reviewed at the meeting.

The watershed act authorizes the federal government to give technical and financial help to local organizations in planning and carrying out watershed projects. Local, state and federal units of government cooperate in flood prevention and control, land drainage and the management of water and related land resources. The law is administered by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The application for planning assistance was filed in 1959 and amended in 1970 by the county commissioners of Clinton and Greene counties and the soil and water conservation districts of the two counties. The proposed project area would include the watershed of Anderson Fork in northern Clinton County and southeastern Greene County.

Representatives of the Department of Natural Resources' watershed planning section will be at the meeting to explain the current requirements for carrying out a program under the Small Watershed Act, to assess the watershed community needs and to determine the level of public support for the project.

As stated in the application, the watershed project was requested to reduce flooding and sediment damages to agricultural lands, to reduce erosion, to improve agricultural drainage, to improve wildlife habitat and to enhance agricultural productivity. Although the project is in a preplanning stage, the sponsors and steering committee forsee the utilization of stream channelization as a part of the project.

Interested citizens are encouraged to attend the hearing to better understand the economic, social and environmental implications of a watershed project for individuals and communities in the watershed area and the surrounding region.

Written statements of support and opposition will be accepted at the public hearing and may also be sent before July 26 to Director William B. Nye, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, 43224.

Ethics probe data sent to Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown has sent transcripts of hearings on alleged campaign abuses to the attorney general to determine if perjury charges should be brought against two witnesses.

Brown said Gary Vigorito and Don L. Hanni Jr., two former campaign workers for U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn, denied under oath they had any part in distributing literature about Glenn's Democratic primary opponent, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum.

Brown said his review of the transcripts showed that four witnesses accused Vigorito, Glenn's former northeastern coordinator, of delivering illegal bumper stickers to Glenn's Youngstown headquarters.

The stickers did not list a source, which is a violation of state election laws.

Two witnesses also said Vigorito delivered to the Mahoning County headquarters a letter linking Metzenbaum with Red Front groups.

Glenn defeated Metzenbaum in the May 7 primary and now faces Republican candidate Ralph Perk, Cleveland mayor, in the November election.

Four witnesses testified that Hanni, formerly Glenn's Mahoning County coordinator, passed out both the letter and the bumper sticker.

Hanni had accused Vigorito of bringing the materials to Youngstown.

The charges came to light after Hanni publicly announced his resignation from the Glenn campaign, in protest, he said, of the campaign literature.

The election law violation carries a $200-$2,000 penalty. Perjury can mean 1-10 years in prison.

OARDC seeks federal aid

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center will seek federal disaster assistance to repair $60,680 tornado damage at its western branch near South Charleston in Clark County. Authorization to apply for the federal aid was among actions recommended by Director Roy M. Kottman and approved recently by the center's board of control, meeting on the campus of Ohio State University.

In other actions, the board approved these appointments to the OARDC faculty. Receiving courtesy appointments were John D. Walker, William E. Gill, and Wilbert C. Geiss.

Dr. Walker was appointed assistant professor in the Department of Agronomy. He is head of the crops technology curriculum at Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute at Wooster, and will cooperate in studies on herbicides and weed control in field crops.

Gill, an Extension agricultural engineer at OSU, was appointed associate professor in the Center's Department of Agricultural Engineering. He will cooperate in research with big-package haymaking machinery and will initiate new research on improving bottom unloaders for silos.

Geiss was appointed to the rank of instructor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. He is an agricultural economics instructor on the ATI faculty and will cooperate in marketing research.

The Board approved a new contract and two industrial grant-in-aid agreements. Total funds involved amount to $40,110.

The contract provides $9,700 from the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to support development of a feasible solid waste management plan for Wayne County. The systems approach study will be conducted by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology.

Coal mine dust hassle develops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers union has accused Consolidation Coal Co. of deliberately falsifying underground mine dust sampling records supplied to the federal government.

The union, in an article in the June 1-15 edition of the UMW Journal, said the U.S. Department of Justice has "launched a major investigation into the allegations," centering on Consolidation's Central Division in eastern Ohio.

A Consolidation spokesman in Pittsburgh confirmed Tuesday that the federal government is apparently conducting an investigation.

However, vice president Hazlett Cochran said, "we have convinced ourselves that we are complying with that law (Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Law) at the present time, with respect to our dust sampling procedures."

The Journal article said Consolidation "allegedly has been substituting dust samples taken during idle shifts when little dust is present in place of regular samples taken during working shifts that proved the company was regularly violating respirable dust regulations."

The story said company officials have allegedly been opening dust sampler cassettes and removing dust to reduce the dust level and falsifying miners' signatures to date cards attesting to the dust levels.

In May, Cochran said, U.S. Marshals appeared at the Central Division office in Cadiz, Ohio, "and took into their possession certain equipment and records pertaining to our dust sampling program . . . .

"Now Consol's policy, and we have also always so instructed our employes, is to fully comply with all laws appliable to our business."

Cochran said Consolidation is cooperating with the federal investigation and is conducting a investigation of its own.

Why Fulbright lost

Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas accepted his defeat for re-election with notable grace and civility, but he was plainly shocked by the size of the vote against him. Gov. Dale Bumpers clobbered him in the Democratic primary, and the question is: Why? The answer seems to lie in a combination of factors.

Bumpers is young, personable, folksy, a prime exemplar of that overused word, "charisma." He has it in abundance, and made excellent use of it. There is little doubt that his popularity brought him many votes.

Bumpers pretty much shied away from explicit discussion of issues. He talked mostly in generalities, and except on one occasion talked at debating his distinguished opponent. This placed Fulbright at a great disadvantage. He is a politician who likes to explore issues; his reputation in the Senate is based on just such a thoughtful approach. Under the circumstances, however, he was unable to draw clear lines between his views and those of his opponent.

Then there was the "throw out the rascals" aspect of the campaign. While Governor Bumpers did not put it quite so crudely, he did dwell on the importance of sending to Washington new men capable of restoring confidence in government. In the Watergate era it was a telling argument.

Fulbright was vulnerable, too, as one who had in some measure lost touch with his constituents while building a national and international reputation as chairman of the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee. The people of Arkansas seem to have concluded that, while this well deserved reputation sheds some glory on their state, they prefer having a senator who will pay more heed to the folks at home and less to foreign affairs. It is a preference they resoundingly expressed. In consequence the Senate has lost one of its ablest members.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by John P. Roche

What era of detente?

There is a fine educational story about a young lady in the third grade who, in connection with a sex education course, interrogated her family.

"How was Mommy born?" she asked her grandmother. Grandma, prepared for almost any problem, replied, "Why, dear, one morning the stork came and left her off with Gramp and me." Dissatisfied, she went to her mother. "Mom, how was I born?" "Well, love, one morning we came down and found you in the middle of the rose garden." The child subsequently reported to her class, "Not a normal birth in our family in three generations."

I was reminded of this by the superb letter about detente that Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn wrote to some members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Congressmen Benjamin Rosenthal (D., N.Y.) and Don Fraser (D., Minn., and National Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action) invited the Soviet exile to testify on the general subject of U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations. Both Representatives have, despite all the evidence to the contrary, persisted in announcing that the "Cold War" is over and a new, harmonious era of detente has replaced it. Rosenthal, in particular, has demonstrated bitter hostility towards the roles of Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe in presenting to the people behind the Iron Curtain certain facts of contemporary life. For example, the role of the Soviets in the Yom Kippur War against Israel.

I never fly false colors. I am, as I told Rep. Rosenthal at a hearing of the House Foreigin Affairs Committee last year, a dedicated supporter of "symmetrical detente," that is, genuine conciliation in which each side gives and each side takes. I am also one of the five-member, bipartisan, United States Board for International Broadcasting, nominated by the President and approved by the Senate, which has the task of overseeing the work of these two radio stations. In short, I admit that I have a, perhaps, irrational addiction for freedom and have no favorite dictatorships. In addition, I do not believe that babies are brought by storks or found in rose gardens. So much for the confessional.

But back to the important matter: Solzhenitsyn's letter. Apologizing for his inability to testify in person, he wrote: "First, what I do not consider to be a relaxation of international tensions is a pseudo-detente. This is a situation when. . .sacramental significance is attached to the signatures and even verbal promises of rulers, who even in their own country never supported their constitution.

"When one side grants a certain number of smiles and even signs agreements, guaranteed by nothing, while the other side generates an endless number of real concessions and services to strengthen (the other). When, with belated astonishment, the agreements signed are discovered to have been interpreted and carried out NOT AS had been understood and expected, so that again and again delegations are sent out to obtain, through additional concessions, the original interpretation."

Solzhenitsyn continued with his indictment of pseudo-detente: "I think that I am not speaking too paradoxically or come too close to the absurd by suggesting that, if during some 10-14 troublesome days the rest of Europe is occupied by, without much effort, by victorious (Soviet) armies, your trans-oceanic country's wrath—and even the drastic measures taken then by your government to end cultural exchange in ballet and operatic performances—will be quickly protested by indignant and reasonable voices in the press and the Senate saying that (Americans) should not ignore reality, that what has happened shouldn't be taken more seriously than what took place in Eastern Europe, that resistance to the aggressor may only enrage his and intensify reactionary forces, and that efforts should be doubled and tripled to achieve further 'dentente'."

Solzhenitsyn has done his homework: when the Soviets invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968, the United States promptly retailiated by cancelling a visit to the "socialist homeland" by the University of Minnesota Band.

But his conclusion is vital: "Detente is not only necessary but mankind's only salvation. . .but it must be truly guaranteed detente. This principle must not be allowed to reel down the treacherous road of self-deception." In short, Congressmen Rosenthal and Fraser: babies are not brought by storks.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, JUNE 7

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Much activity and movement indicated. What appeared to be status quo is actually in the process of change. Be prepared to improvise.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Caution should be day's keynote. Let others take the initiative. Retain your quiet, efficient manner and remain in the background as much as possible.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You now have greater freedom of choice and movement than you have had in some time; can also expect some invaluable help from a member of the opposite sex.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

An idea which comes to you in the a.m. has good financial potentials. But don't make your final decision for 24 hours or you may have to revise.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Curb your innate aggressiveness now. Use more subtle tactics to get what you want. Benefits CAN be attained, but all will depend on your approach.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may be offered an unusual proposition. Investigate with a view to long-range benefits, and consider whether or not it suits YOUR standards. Some misleading influences.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Especially fovored now: professional endeavors, opportunities to increase prestige. You may be given added responsibility but, with it, there's increased potential.

SCORPIO

"WELL, LOOK WHO'S NOW PAYING FOR A SHORTAGE PROBLEM."

Southeast Ohio 'poor relations'

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's Appalachia Region and the nation's Appalachian states should form a partnership to find a "meaningful solution to their mutual problems, an Athens publisher said Wednesday.

G. Kenner Bush, publisher of the Athens Messenger, said "perhaps a new and highly motivated regional organization could carry a big enough stick" to make somebody listen.

Bush told a luncheon meeting of the Southeastern Ohio Highway Users Conference that the state's 11 Appalachian counties had always been "poor relations" when it came to funding highway projects.

He noted that nine years after its authorization, the 172-mile Appalachian Highway is only half completed.

"Yet during that same period, the state spent $4 billion on interstates up north, and proudly points out that the system is about 95 per cent complete," he said.

Bush, director of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, said the region's efforts for improved highways have found support from the Ohio Contractors Association, U.S. Rep. Clarence F. Miller, R-Ohio, and Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Bush said Gilligan's recent effort to include funding for the Appalachian Highway in a supplemental appropriation's bill "didn't get off first base. But as recently as last week, the governor assured us he would find another way."

The Highway Federation is a national business league which involves more than 600 roadway-rubber tired vehicle companies.

Robert L. Pendergast, the federation's Ohio representative, estimates that about $2 billion is needed for Southeastern Ohio generally during the next 16 years to bring the region's roads, Interstate, primary, secondary and Appalachian to standards necessary to support a potentially strong growth in the region's coal, water and electrical power industries.

"The money would come from the federal aid highway bill and Ohio's constitutional earmarking of gasoline tax money and from other highway users' fees," Pendergast said.

But Bush noted that southeastern Ohio is near the bottom of the list in the share of federal expenditures.

The heart of the state's Appalachian region includes Lawrence, Gallia, Athens, Washington, Meigs, Monroe, Vinton, Jackson, Morgan, Hocking and Noble counties.

Although these counties comprise one-third of the state's land area, they contain only 10 per cent of Ohio's population, Bush said.

"Therein lies the basis of our problem," Bush said. "In Ohio when you're out looking for votes you go north, not southeast.

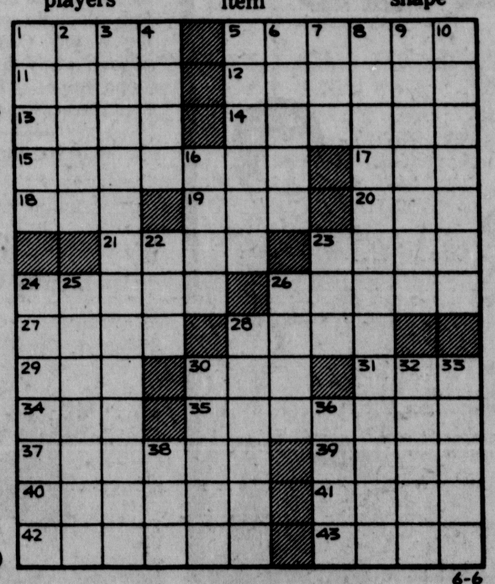

Bush said that the Appalachian highway is more than "just another highway," to the region's residents. "It's the hopes and aspirations of people" who want a better life, he added.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: RANK AND RICHES ARE CHAINS OF GOLD, BUT STILL CHAINS. — GIOVANNI RUFFINI

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Ignorance is a state of meaning

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the socially active university professor with a Ph.D. who wasn't sure of what R.S.V.P. meant until he saw it in your column: You replied "Ignorance is simply the absence of knowledge which is no crime. We are all ignorant, only on different subjects."

Abby, ignorance is "not knowing something we should know." Nescience is "not knowing something one would have no reasonable expectation of knowing."

Your not knowing the distinction between "ignorance" and "nescience" is nescience on your part. The professor's not knowing the meaning of R.S.V.P. is ignorance on his part. P.J.R.: WORD FREAK

DEAR FREAK: Since words are my tools, I felt ignorant not knowing the meaning of the word "nescience." Then I polled three newspaper editors, two lawyers, a psychiatrist, the heads of the English department in three of our leading universities, a world famous novelist, a United States Supreme Court Justice, and an expert who writes a syndicated column on words, and not ONE of them have ever heard of the word "nescience." So, now I feel more nescient than ignorant.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl, and my problem involves my psychiatrist. I trusted him completely and told him things I never in a million years would tell my mother, because he led me to believe that everything I told him would be held in strictest of confidence.

Can you imagine how I felt when I overheard my mother telling a relative on the phone some of the things I had told my psychiatriast? I can't tell you how this upset me!

In high school I stayed away from counselors, teachers, shrinks, etc. in order to avoid this.

When I saw my pshchiatrist, I asked him why he did this to me. At first he denied it, then he told me that my mother had become "concerned" about me, so he told her everything. Abby, I thought I could trust him, and he betrayed me!

What is the law concerning a doctor's keeping information confidential? He said he had a right to talk to my mother without my permission. Did he? I am not a minor.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Your doctor has committed a breach of ethics, and you would be perfectly justified in reporting him to the Ethics Committee of your local county medical society and-or psychiatric society. I suggest you do just that.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get a reply from a place of business when I write them requesting specific information?

I wrote to these people three times—and even then I was ignored. I didn't ask for any special favors; I inquired about buying something they sell. What is the matter with people these days? Please tell me how to get an answer out of them.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: To insure a reply-and usually a prompt one, enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. If you are ignored, give up. They probably don't need the business, and they certainly don't deserve it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self addressed envelope, please.

Today In History

Trash eyed as energy source

Trash is one of Ohio's most abundant potential resources, and the Ohio Enviromental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) is developing a program to harness that potential through energy and resource recovery.

"Ohio has a big solid waste disposal problem," said Dave Sharp, Ohio EPA's solid waste program coordinator, "and we're just recovering from the effects of fuel shortages and scarcities of raw materials."

"By developing a comprehensive state program for resource and energy recovery from trash, we'll be solving a problem with a problem."

Sharp explained that $1 billion worth of energy is contained in the national annual accumulation of trash, equivalent to 290 million barrels of oil. Metals, paper, glass, and other valuable materials can also be removed from the trash for recycling and reuse.

"Right now, we're using garbage disposal methods that were begun by the ancient Romans, like pit burial and burning," Sharp said. "Often, municipal landfills and incinerators results in air and water pollution problems. Even the best systems are having a tough time keeping up with the tremendous yearly increase in trash accumulation," he added.

"It's time to bring solid waste management into the twentieth century."

Sharp said the Ohio solid waste plan, which was announced by Governor John J. Gilligan in April, would strive to establish resource recovery and energy producing facilities in most densely populated sections of the state. Smaller communities would probably find it more feasible to contract with neighbors to promote a regional waste disposal system.

Sharp said that financing a resource-energy recovery operation will be a responsibility of the Ohio Water Development Authority (OWDA), which already has the authority to issue revenue bonds for the construction and operation of such plants. This facet of OWDA's program has been largely inactive until now.

"Local communities in Ohio are already spending almost $300 million on solid waste management, and that cost is expected to increase, even with present conventional disposal methods," said Sharp. "What we are offering is a plan which may decrease solid waste costs while recovering valuable energy and materials. It's both environmentally and economically smart."

"It's the ultimate in recycling; the justification for all the volunteers who have manned local recycling centers for the past four years trying to show that waste materials could be reused."

Sharp said a package of legislation is expected to be introduced into the Ohio Legislature by early 1975, giving local governments and the Ohio EPA the capability to implement the solid waste program.

For more information on Ohio's proposed solid waste program, write the Ohio EPA Public Interest Center, Box 1049, Columbus, 44216.

Beauty queen overdose victim

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The mother of deposed Miss World Marji Wallace says her daughter took an overdose of sleeping pills because "she may have felt it wasn't possible to go on."

Mrs. Alice Wallace said Wednesday told newsmen her daughter was responding to treatment but was still in critical condition from the overdose Monday.

Miss Wallace, 20, was a close friend of racing driver Peter Revson, who was killed recently in an accident. She was stripped of her beauty title because of publicity surrounding her relationship with English soccer star George Best.

Campaign literature transcripts forwarded

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has forwarded to the attorney general the transcripts of his May 2 and May 22 investigative hearings into the alleged distribution of illegal campaign literature in the Glenn-Metzenbaum contest for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Ohio law requires the chief election officer to investigate violations of the election laws and report his findings to the attorney general for possible prosecution. Ted Brown said that his review of the transcripts indicates that four witnesses accused Gary Vigorito of delivering the illegal stickers to the Youngstown headquarters, while two witnesses also accused him of delivering the illegal flyer.

The transcripts also list four witnesses who identify Don Hanni, Vigorito's chief accuser, as a distributor or an accomplice in the distribution of the illegal stickers. The testimony of both Hanni and Vigorito conflicted with that of other witnesses, giving rise to the additional possibility of perjury charges against one or both of the men. Both men denied any role in the distribution.

Brown explained that the law requires all publications promoting the election or defeat of a candidate to contain the name and residence address of the person responsible for its issuance or distribution, or of the chairman or secretary of the organization responsible. Neither of the campaign pieces that were the subject of the hearing (a bumper sticker linking Senator Metzenbaum with President Nixon as "tax consultants" and a letter linking the Senator with Communist-front groups) contained the required identification.

Secretary of State Brown said that the purpose of the law is to prevent the dissemination of spurious charges. "The philosophy of the statute is that one will think twice before making reckless charges if the statements must be tied to their source. If he must stand up and be counted, he is less likely to make statements he is not prepared to back up."

Terming the present law against campaign abuse "not very comprehensive, Brown pointed out that there is no way to compel a prosecution or to correct an abuse while the campaign is still underway. The chief election officer says that the newly created Ohio Elections Commission should be required to investigate complaints of improper campaign activities, hold hearings on the complaints, and issue cease and desist orders enforceable in court.

Secretary Brown submitted his proposal to the legislature in both 1973 and 1974, but said the proposal "got lost in the shuffle" as legislators gave priority to other matters. He said he will submit the bill again in the next legislative session.

Latin aid under fire from Hays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, asserted Wednesday that military credit sales to Latin America are actually a giveaway program "because those people are never going to pay us back."

Hays challenged Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger about the administration's request for $200 million for the program in fiscal 1975.

The Ohio congressman charged that U.S. arms sold to Latin American nations "are used to fasten dictatorships more tightly around the necks of the people."

Schlesinger responded by saying that United States military programs are a "force for liberalization in Latin America."

The exchange occurred as Schlesinger testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Hays challenged Schlesinger to mention a single instance in which a Latin American country aided the United States in any war over the past 60 years. He charged that Latin American nations use U.S. arms only against each other or against their own people.

Schlesinger replied that Brazil was "one of our most faithful allies" in Italy during World War II and again in Korea in the 1950s.

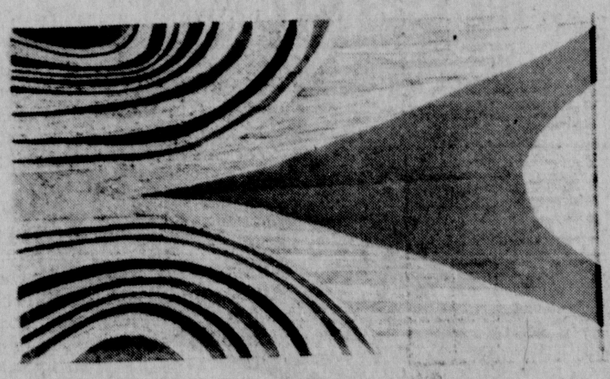

Hays said Brazilian troops in Italy "were never closer to the battle front than 500 miles behind the lines.

"That doesn't fit my definition of assistance," he added.

Former resident weds in Baylor University chapel

MRS. LARRY R. GERFEN

Miss Velinda Jo Melton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jo Melton, Russellville, Ala., former residents of Washington C.H., exhanged marriage vows with Larry Ray Gerfen, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Raymond F. Gerfen of San Antonio, Tex.

The Rev. Marshall Edwards of the Columbus Avenue Baptist Church in Waco performed the double-ring marriage ceremony. Jill Seifert of Tennessee, organist, and Vanessa Hyatt of Georgia, vocalist, presented wedding music.

Three large baskets of gladioli and palms formed the background with a kneeling bench from which the couple took Holy Communion.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Melton chose a formal organza and Chantilly lace princess A-line gown with lace bib bodice, high ruffled neckline, with long fitted sleeves, bedazzled with a crochet beading and a deep lace flounce hemline swept to a cathedral train. The bride wore a gold locket-watch, a gift from the bridegroom.

Her jeweled lace Juliet cap held the tiered English illusion lace-edged veil. She carried a nosegay bouquet of two white orchids bordered by stephanotis and lace with pearl streamers.

Maid of honor, Linda Siemoneit of Richardson, Tex., and bridesmaid Paula Gerfen of San Antonio, Tex., wore matching floor-length pink floral A-line gowns of voile with high neckline, biship sleeves, banded at the empire bodice and a flounced hemline. They wore matching hair braid pictured hats with crystal trim. Each carried a bouquet of two purple orchids bordered by pink loveknots.

Chantele Aldridge of Lakeland, Fla., the flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of pastel pink organza, a headpiece of pink carnations, and carried a white basket of pink carnations.

John White of Waco, Tex., served as best man. The groomsman was Joseph Dougherty of Chicago, Ill., and the ushers were Dan Melton and Perry Melton, brothers of the bride of Russellville, Ala., Michael Flannigan of Waco, Tex., Michael Smith of Midland, Tex., and Jim Dykes of Irving, Tex.

The bride's mother chose a floor length lavender gown with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a formal length pink gown with which she combined matching accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Hostesses for the reception held in Memorial Hall drawing room at Baylor University were Vicki Oslin, Lorrie Laurel and Ann Wright. The rice attendants were Kristi and Kim Daykes, and Gina Dykes presied at the guest book.

The bride's table held a three-tiered pink cake decorated with pink roses, lavender grapes and love doves, flanked by a silver punch bowl and an arrangement of white flowers. The groom's table held a chocolate cake with green trim.

The rehearsal dinner took place at the El Matador Inn in Waco, with the groom's parents as hosts.

The couple is residing in Waco, Texas.

Hamburger fry is planned by Auxiliary

The meeting of the Burnett-Ducey VFW Auxiliary 4964 was opened in ritualistic form by Mrs. Clark Rumer for the 15 present.

Mrs. Kenneth Harley gave the secretary's report and it was announced that several of the members are ill. Reports of visits with some of them were made. Mrs. Maurice Farmer won the attendance award and business of a general natural was discussed.

Mrs. Farmer and Mrs. Jess Whitmer served refreshments.

The next meeting will be June 17 when a hamburger fry will be a feature. The men of the Post will be hosts.

There will be one meeting in July, one in August and one in September due to Labor Day.

All members are urged to help at the lunch stand and at the next Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collector's Association show, June 22 and 23.

Mrs. Florence Harper, 396 Ely St., and her sister, Mrs. Laura Gabelman of Columbus, attended the graduating ceremonies for Mrs. Harper's youngest grandson, John Roger Keaton of Middletown on May 31. John will enroll in a college this fall.

Noon luncheon enjoyed by Methodists

The United Methodist Women of Grace United Methodist Church met Wednesday for the noon carry-in luncheon with the Copley Circle as host.

Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee opened the meeting by reading an inspirational prayer. Mrs. Paul Ream was in charge of preparing the devotion center and devotions. Her theme was "Seeing God in Nature," and she read from Psalms 19. She also read poems relating to the beauty of nature.

Mrs. Suzanne Sams read minutes of the previous meeting, gave roll call and read correspondence. The treasurer's report was made by Mrs. C. L. Lewellen. It was voted to give a gift to each of the graduating seniors of the church.

Rev. Allen Puffenberger was introduced by Mrs. Ralph Child. He presented the program and conducted an interesting discussion as to how the parable of the prodigal son could apply to lives today. Everyone enjoyed a recording by Dr. Clarence Jordan, of Georgia, and a Baptist, who told the parable 'The Prodigal Son' in the 'Cottonpatch version.'

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Club meets for luncheon

Mrs. Hugh Smith entertained The Stitch and Chatter Kensington Club at a dessert luncheon Monday at The Sulky.

Following the luncheon, the group assembled at the nearby home of Mrs. J. G. Jordan, Carolyn Rd., for an afternoon of sewing and conversation. Just before the departure to their various homes, Mrs. Jordan served brownies and iced tea.

Those sharing in the pleasant afternoon were: Miss Norma Dodd, Mrs. Claude Davis, Mrs. Thomas Willis, Mrs. Ernest Brookover, Mrs. John Case, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jordan. The time and place for the next meeting will be announced later.

Maple Grove social planned

The menu for the annual social to be held at the Maple Grove United Methodist Church June 12 consists of chicken and ham sandwiches, escalloped chicken, homemade noodles, potato salad, baked beans, cake, ice cream and homegrown strawberries.

Serving will begin at 5 p.m.

Beta Omega chapter lists activities

The Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met in the home of Mrs. Charles Moore for the business meeting. Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, president, led the Opening Ritual followed by a pinning ceremony for Mrs. Steve Jennings.

Members voted to send a contribution to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund. Mrs. Wayne Clark told members that approximately $450.00 will be given to Fayette Memorial Hospital, from the proceeds of the annual Spring Charity Ball held in April, sponsored by the Beta Omega and Alpha Theta chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority.

Mrs. Gary McMurray, president for 1974-75, took charge of the meeting. Members decided to have a garage and bake sale at the home of Mrs. Lester Bowers, 1025 Leesburg Ave., from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. June 22.

Members also voted to have the following projects during the year: a concession stand at Old-Fashioned Bargain Days, a stand at the Flea Market, make visits to the Quiet Acres Nursing Home each month, sponsor Daffodil Day, Planned Parenthhood and the annual Spring Charity Ball.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Shoemaker, outgoing president, for a job well done during the 1973-74 year.

Mrs. Moore served refreshments to Mrs. Ralph Leeds, Mrs. Harry Haines, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. Jennings.

Couple resides in New York City

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL STEWART

Miss Patricia Ann Hayward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hayward, Rt. 2, (Leesburg Rd.), became the bride of Michael J. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael V. Stewart of New York City, N.Y.

The Rev. Mark Dove, associate minister of Grace United Methodist Church, performed the double ring ceremony before brass candelabra with emerald green foliage and ivory satin bows, and standing baskets of white marguerite daisies. The aisles were marked with white maguerite daisies, and ivory satin bows.

Mrs. Emily King, vocalist, sang "Never My Love" and "Follow Me" as the bride approached the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She sang "Hawaiian Wedding Song," and during the marriage ceremony, "One Hand, One Heart" as the couple knelt at the altar. Mrs. Gene P. Hughes was the organist.

The bride chose for her wedding day a formal gown of candlelight imported satin organza and French handmade lace, styled with a high neckline, long full sleeves with wide cuffs overlaid with lace and fastened with tiny pearl buttons. The lace bodice, sheer lace yoke and high neckline of lace were re-embroidered with miniature seed pearls. The gracefully flared skirt and the wide detachable circular train were enhanced with triangular overlays of the candlelight lace. A cap of the handmade French lace re-embroidered in pearls held her three-tiered bouffant veil of imported English illusion with scattered lace appliques touched with pearls. Her pearl earrings were a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried a cascade of white snowdrift pompoms, sonia roses and gypsophelia, with showers of ivory bridal satin and green smilax.

Matron of honor Mrs. Janet Bishop, of Ann Arbor, Mich., wore a floor-length gown of aqua spring print in soft shirtwaist styling with small rounded collar and long full sleeves, and self material belt at the waistline. The collar and cuffs were edged with ruffled lace and the softly flared skirt was finished with a ruffled flounce topped with lace edging.

Bridesmaids Miss Joan Hanratty of Long Island, N.Y., Miss Joanie Fuchsman of New York City, and Miss Jeanie Geanvito of Columbus, wore peach print gowns styled identically to the honor attendants's. The little flower girl, Jeneen Hayward, niece of the bride, wore a dainty floor-length frock of peach print in similar styling. All wore wide-brimmed picture hats of beige milan straw trimmed in chiffon with flowing streamers that matched their gowns.

They carried bouquets of sonia roses, and marguerite daisies with gypsophelia and showers of green smilax with matching ribbon. The flower girl's bouquet was a smaller design with a single rose.

Karl Bohn of New York City, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Bill McSherry, and John Stewart, both of New York City, the latter brother of the groom, and Keith Hayward of Rochester, Minn., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Hayward chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length sleeveless gown with halter design bodice with front V-neckline and demurely open at the back. The bodice and flowing skirt were fashioned of wide striped aqua, peach and beige jersey. A wide aqua and peach belt with gold buckle encircled the waistline. She carried a purse corsage of Gemini roses.

The formal length aqua chiffon gown worn by the mother of the bridegroom was designed with a bodice threaded with silver, with V-neckline and long full matching chiffon sleeves with silver threaded cuffs and a skirt of chiffon over matching taffeta. Her shoulder corsage was of Gemini roses.

Hostesses for the buffet reception and dance held at the Snow Hill Country Club, Wilmington, were Mrs. Vicki Stepp, sister of the bride, Mrs. Sandy Hayward, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mark Henson of Leesburg, junior host. Centerpieces of aqua, peach, yellow and white spring flowers centered the bride's table. The wedding cake was topped with sonia roses and aqua marguerite daisies, and encircled with green smilax aqua daisies and white snowdrift pompoms. Individual tables were centered with brandy snifters filled with aqua daisies and beige, aqua and peach candles in crystal holders.

The rehearsal dinner was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The new Mrs. Stewart was wearing a green linen shirtwaist dress with beige accessories when the couple left for a wedding trip to Virginia.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Ohio University, Athens, is a buyer in a New York buying office. Her husband, a 1969 Fordham University graduate, is engaged in banking with a New York bank. They are now residing in New York City.

Circle 2 welcomes new member

Circle 2 of the Women's Association met Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Grove Davis, leader, opened the meeting with group singing, devotions on the need for Christian interest and a prayer.

Sixteen members responded to roll call. Mrs. Vina Wood, a new member, was welcomed into the circle. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Lillian Dellinger, treasurer, reported $333.00 received and receipts of the 'least coin' collection.

Mrs. Avonelle Stonebreaker gave devotions and prayer for the 'least coin' collection. Mrs. Gerald Wheat read the letter of mission interpretation and Mrs. Louise Drake read locations and work of the missionaries of the month from the Yearbook of Prayer. Mrs. Emma Kelley reported on a visit with the Rev. and Mrs. Hand family in Canton

Mrs. Maryon Mark led in the Bible Study from "The Sayings of Jesus." She described the ways of atonement in the Jewish and Christian faiths, and closed with "A Woman's Prayer."

Following the benediction, the group enjoyed visiting around a lovely tea table with Mrs. George Kratz, Mrs. G.E. Bidwell, Mrs. C.S. Kelley, Miss Etha Sturgeon and Mrs. I.L. Pumphrey serving as hostesses.

Washington Garden Club program on 'flower arranging'

The June meeting of the Washington Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Eulahlia Wade with 12 members present. Roll call was answered by naming things that interested you at Wahkeena.

Club members told of interesting wild flowers, trees and mosses they had seen on the recent trip to Wahkeena at Lancaster.

June 18 is Fayette County Workshop for all garden clubs to be held at the Fish and Game Association Lodge, Stafford Rd. A carry-in dinner will be featured. Mrs. Howard Junk will be guest speaker for the morning session on "Flower Arranging." In the afternoon, club members will make their own flower arrangements.

The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs State Convention will be July 31, Aug. 1 and 2 at Stauffer's Inn in Cincinnati. Reservations are to be sent to Mrs. Dorsy Bumgardener by June 30.

Mrs. Robert Wilson led the program on a discussion of flower arranging. She told of the different types of flower arrangements. One is a line arrangement in which the lines are the most important feature and in which the plant material is sparse. There is no massing of plant material at the base; when that is done the arrangement becomes line-mass. A minimum of material may be added at the base for weight and stability.

A massed-line arrangement may be defined as one in which both line and mass are important to the design. This is the style which one sees most frequently today in America.

A mass arrangement may be defined as one in which a large mass of flowers is emphasized rather than the individual flower heads. In always has a fullness, and a minimum of voids. There are two types of mass period arrangement and contemporary stylized mass arrangements.

She also told of designs, line, form, texture, pattern and color that the designer uses when arranging flowers. She made a flower arrangement using driftwood, lily, honeysuckle vine.

Mrs. Orville Hurtt was winner of a contest and Mrs. Bud Hooks received a prize.

Mrs. Wade and Mrs. T. N. Willis served refreshments. The July meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Wilson with Mrs. Jean Craig as assisting hostess.

40-horse hitch to visit Kings Island

KINGS MILLS — The famed Schlitz 40-Horse Hitch is coming to Kings Island. The $50-million family entertainment center on Interstate Highway 71, 20 miles north of Cincinnati, will be the first theme park visited by the Schlitz Forty. It will be at Kings Island June 13-16.

The Forty will be on public display in a 200-foot long tent in front of the main entrance to the park, and will be driven around the massive Kings Island parking lot once each day while it is here.

Often billed as America's greatest parade spectacle, the 40-Horse Hitch is a re-creation of the 19th century circus feature. The new "Forty" was organized and is driven by Dick Sparrow, 44, an Iowa farmer and horseman.

Since its debut in the July 4, 1972, Schlitz Circus Parade in Milwaukee, Wis., the new Forty has appeared at a number of major events, such as the Cotton and Rose Bowl parades. It recently appeared at the Derby Festival Parade in Louisville, Ky., and in the "500" Festival Memorial Parade in Indianapolis, Ind. In 1973, the Forty was at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus.

The Belgian draft horses in the Schlitz team are harnessed four abreast in 10 ranks. Altogether, with the giant circus band-wagon pulled by the Forty, the rig stretches out 135 feets.

Sparrow's road show consists of 50 or more horses including the 40 Belgians on the first team, plus a few spares and several saddle horses used by outriders. The horses travel in four semitrailer trucks. A fifth semitrailer hauls the bandwagon, the first vehicle of its type built in more that half a century. It was completed last year, built especially for the Forty. It is 22 feet long, 12 feet high and weighs five tons.

The Belgian horses weigh an average of one ton. They stand 16½ to 18 hands (a hand is four inches), are color-matched (light sorrel) and have blond manes and tails. Their harness was hand made by Amish craftsmen.

Belgians are the most numerous draft breed in the United States. Other heavy draft breeds are Clydesdale, Percheron, Shire and Suffolk.

"The Belgian is the only breed we could have used for a 40-horse hitch," Sparrow said, "because there are so many of them in this country. I had my pick of the right horses for certain positions in the hitch, as to size, color and temperament."

Temperament? "Sure," says Sparrow. "Horses are just like people. Some of them are as eager to please as some people are, and some can be just as ornery."

Privacy bill loses out in Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators have turned down a major bill that would let the state regulate the use of credit and other personal information stored in computers.

After prolonged debate, the vote Wednesday was 10 for to 21 against.

Sponsoring Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, conceded the bill is dead for now.

Aronoff's bill, introduced last January, would have allowed Ohioans to take exception to information about them in computer banks, and forbid the transfer of such information without their permission.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-8 Cincinnati, led the floor fight against the bill. He said it was poorly-prepared and would create an information "czar" in the Department of Administrative Services.

Maloney's reference was to a provision in the bill that would require that the location of each computer and the type of information it contained be reported annually to the director of the department.

"I'll vote for privacy legislation that protects the privacy of the people of this state," Maloney added.

Body is identified as that of Ohio girl

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say dental records have established the identity of a body found here as being that of Taunye Lynn Moore of Mount Gilead, Ohio.

The hacked and dismembered body of the teen-age girl was found April 9 stuffed into three plastic bags in an alley near a motel.

The apple remains the most important fruit grown in Canada.

Pesticide payoffs to become limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has boosted pesticide indemnity payment rates for beekeepers, but officials say tighter qualification rules will lessen the sting for taxpayers.

Congress set up the indemnity program in 1970 farm legislation to help compensate beekeepers for accidental losses due to pesticides. The law also stipulated beekeepers could seek payments for losses dating back through 1967.

As of May 30, USDA officials said Wednesday, indemnity payments for losses in 1967 through 1973 totaled $12.6 million paid to approximately 1,800 individual beekeepers.

Lately, a spokesman said, the payments have been averaging about $2 million per calendar year. The higher payment rates announced by USDA are expected to increase total payments "some but not much" in 1974, he said.

As approved, the new indemnity procedure calls for payments of $22.50 for a bee colony destroyed by pesticide, a $7.50 increase from the previous scale; $15 for a severely damaged colony, up $5; $7.50 for a moderately damaged colony, up $2.50 and $7.50 for each queen nucleus destroyed, up $2.50.

Officials said beekeepers no longer will be paid for more than one loss to a colony in the same calendar year. Multiple losses to a single colony can occur during repeated mishaps with pesticides.

"The beekeeper who suffers multiple losses of the same colony will be permitted to claim the most severe damage suffered by a colony during the year," the department said.

Further, a previous option which permitted beekeepers to make claims on the basis of net loss of income has been eliminated. All future claims must be filed on the basis of the flat rates just announced.

Officials say there is evidence bee losses due to pesticides are declining, partly because in many areas beekeepers have had harsh words with commercial pesticide applicators.

In 1972, according to USDA, indemnities were paid on pesticide damage to 207,000 bee colonies, down from 284,000 in 1971. Although final totals have not been complete, the indications now is that payments were made on 145,000 colonies last year, officials said.

Nationally, about 4.1 million bee colonies are kept for commercial honey production in the United States. Leaders include Florida, California, Minnesota and South Dakota.

No accord in walkout

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— More than 4,000 construction workers remained on strike in the Cincinnati area today, but more negotiating sessions have been scheduled today and Friday.

Seven unions remained out, including the 300 members of key Local 100 of the Teamsters Union, which is striking seven local ready mix concrete firms.

Some 300 rodmen settled for a 75-cent-an-hour raise Wednesday night, bringing base pay for journeymen to $9.64½ cents an hour.

The 800-member electricians union ratified a two-year contract with a 75-cents-an-hour raise this year and an 80-cent raise next year. Base salaries will increase to $10.80 an hour in the second half of the contract, union officials said.

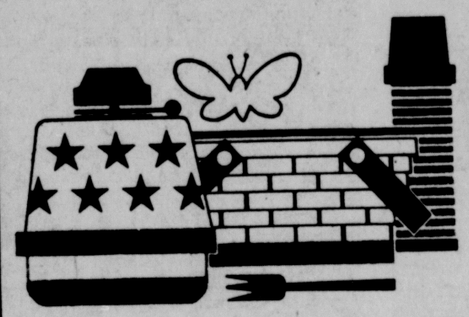

Carpenters, Millwrights and Operating Engineers settled earlier. The strike began Friday.

Still on strike, aside from the Teamsters, are the asbestos workers; laborers; pipe fitters; plumbers, and marble, tile and terrazzo helpers.

Taft, Metzenbaum cast opposing votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two U.S. senators cast opposite votes Wednesday when the Senate rejected 59-31 an amendment by Sen. George McGovern to slash funding for the B1 bomber.

Republican Robert Taft Jr. voted with the majority while Democrat Howard Metzenbaum favored the amendment.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Kelly Garrett, who has left a Broadway musical to star in CBS' summer revival of "Your Hit Parade," won't exactly be traveling down memory lane to reach her new destination.

She says she does recall the show starred Gisele MacKenzie and Dorothy Collins, among others, "but I don't ever remember watching the show."

Miss Garrett, of Santa Fe, N.M., who comes from a family of 10 children, says her home lacked a TV set.

"We never had television in Santa Fe," she said. "With 10 kids, you were lucky to have food, forget television."

The old "Hit Parade" show had its heyday in the mid-1950s but folded in 1959. It's coming back Aug. 2 for five weeks with Miss Garrett and three other regulars who haven't been named yet.

Miss Garrett, an ebullient soul, credits the new job to the rave reviews she recently received for her singing in "Words and Music," a Broadway showcase of tunesmith Sammy Cahn's hit songs over the years.

She said her career started taking off when she got good reviews two years ago while in another Broadway show, "Mother Earth." It led to major TV guest shots and work in the nation's better night clubs.

A key part in her career struggle involves music arrangements. Young saloon singers who are just starting out frequently are dismayed to learn one simply doesn't tell the house pianist, "Maestro, 'Fever' in the key of C, if you please."

One needs prepared musical arrangements. And they cost dough, as much as $700 a song when prepared by top craftsmen.

Miss Garrett was asked how she overcame her musical balance of payment problems when she first sought Hollywood night club work.

"I was very lucky," she said. "When I went there, I met some very talented people who believed in me. One was a fine piano player, Bill Baker, an arranger who'd worked there for years.

"He did me so many favors. If I had an audition, he'd play for me free. I never had any money, but he'd put together arrangements for me when I was going into a club. You don't forget people like that."

Lottery ticket sale set Aug. 12

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ohio will have its first lottery-made millionaire sometime in late fall, Deputy Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said today.

"We expect the first lottery tickets to go on sale around the state on Aug. 12," Ferguson said.

Ferguson said the first $300,000 drawing will be held Aug. 29 during the Ohio State Fair.

Griffiths awarded optometry degree

Allen D. Griffiths, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Griffiths, 620 Highland Ave., was awarded the degree Doctor of Optometry from Ohio State University at the June 7 commencement exercises in Saint John Arena.

Dr. Griffiths is a member of the American Optometric Association, Ohio Optometric Association, Optometric Extension Program, Beta Sigma Kappa (professional honorary fraternity), Alpha Tau Omega, Social Fraternity, Central Ohio Association of Children with Learning Disabilities, Council for Exceptional Children and Saint Anthony's Catholic Church in Columbus.

Because of his interest in the visual and perceptual problems of children with learning disabilities, he has, along with his wife who is presently a teacher in the Worthington School district, co-authored an article: "Learning Disabilities: Etiology", which will soon be appearing in the "Optometric Weekly."

His present plans are to practice optometry part-time with his father in Washington C.H. and part-time in association with James C. Bieber, O.D. whose office is in the Tremont Medical Center in Upper Arlington. He will also be doing graduate work in the College of Education at Ohio State, Department of Exceptional Children.

Allen and his wife, the former Patty Wilson, both 1965 graduates of Washington High School are currently living in Columbus.

Middletown man killed by locomotive

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Raymond Wright, 52, of Middletown, was killed Wednesday night when he was struck by a Penn Central freight train.

Police said Wright was apparently standing or sitting on the tracks at the underpass at Roosevelt and University Boulevards.

Plan recovery of materials from old tires

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. says it has a plan to help clean up the environment and ease the energy crisis at the same time.

The key is 200 million tires worn out each year in the U.S., according to Charles J. Pilliod Jr., chairman of Goodyear, and H.I. Koolsbergen, chairman of the Oil Shale Corp.

Pilliod and Koolsbergen announced plans Wednesday to use oil shale recovery technology to recover energy and reusable materials from scrap tires.

The executives say that heating eight million tires with hot ceramic pellets and refining the result could yield 15 million gallons of oil, 73 million pounds of carbon black and two million pounds of steel.

Transport center dedication set

EAST LIBERTY, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's $30 million Transportation Center, under construction the past four years and billed as one of the top safety testing facilities in the country, will be dedicated July 10.

Attending the ceremonies at the 8,100-acre center near this Logan County village will be safety experts and vehicle and transportation leaders from across the nation.

James F. Asmus, center director, said the center is ready to be opened officially, although construction of the facility will not be completed until 1975.

The dedication will include demonstrations on the 50-acre asphalt vehicle dynamics testing area, on the 2,500-foot skid pad and on the 7½-mile test track.

Films will be shown of an actual test in the crash simulator, the largest impact testing equipment in the Western Hemisphere.

Four major testing areas are in use and additional ones are under construction.

Also being built is a circular brake soak tank near the dynamics testing area in the center of the large test track. It is designed to contain as much as two feet of water so that autos and trucks may be driven in the water to soak brake systems prior to testing.

Completed facilities, in addition to service buildings, include a fuel plaza, weigh scales with a special split platform to allow weighing of various vehicles at a maximum capacity of 30 tons and a brake slope test facility.

The latter features two steep slopes which allows the testing of holding power of truck and auto brake systems.

The U.S. Transportation Department plans to construct a $9.6 million National Vehicle Compliance Test Facility at the southern edge of the high speed test track.

The facility will be operated by the National Highway Safety Administration to test motor vehicles, tires and other motor vehicle equipment to determine if manufacturers are complying with federal standards.

Asmus said private commercial developers already are making plans to construct housing developments near the center.

Tape gap caused by recorder?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Loose or bent contact points or a vibrating recorder motor could have caused the now famous 18½-minute gap in a White House tape, two Cleveland Heights men claimed Wednesday.

James R. Jordan and his brother, Arthur K. Jordan, told newsmen their analysis contradicts the report issued Tuesday by a court-apointed panel of tape experts.

The Jordans' report has been filed with U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica in Washington, D.C., the brothers said.

The panel determined that five erasures had been made by using the controls of Presidential Secretary Rose Mary Woods' Uher 500 recorder.

The Jordans, who operate a radio-television repair service, said the panel's report showed no indication that Miss Woods' recorder had been examined for short circuits. The brothers' report was filed by Miss Woods' lawyers to support her contention that the erasure was not deliberate, the Jordans' said.

Using a Uher 500 and a copy of a White House tape, the Jordans demonstrated for newsmen Wednesday that loose contact points in the plug that connected Miss Woods' foot pedal to the recorder could have caused the machine to switch from "play" to "record," erasing the tape.

Artificial blood researcher eyes more funding

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati medical inventor, basking in publicity over the possible development of an artificial blood, hopes it will mean money for research.

"It was time something like this happened," said Dr. Leland Clarke Jr., 55, research professor at the University of Cincinnati Children's Research Center.

"It gives me a start to realize that when I open my mouth for these interviews people abroad hear what I say."

Clarke has nearly completed preclinical work on an industrially produced coolant liquid — called fluorcarbon. He said it could be used both as an artificial blood and as a breathable, oxygen-bearing liquid.

Military chief wins approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Gen. George S. Brown has been confirmed by the Senate to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Confirmation came Wednesday for Brown, 55, currently Air Force chief of staff. He will succeed Adm. Thomas H. Moorer in a two-year term in the nation's top military post.

Believe Beatles to stay apart

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr is willing to bet $2,400 the Beatles will never play together again.

"I'll bet anyone 1,000 pounds that we don't play together again this year or, for that matter, ever," the former Beatles drummer told newsmen as he arrived at London Airport on Wednesday from Los Angeles.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I follow your questions and answers in the paper regularly and now I have a question that I hope you can answer for me. The home I live in has redwood on the outside. I want to put on aluminum siding, but have been told that it should not be used over redwood. Is this true?

A. — This is an unusual question, since most persons like redwood as an exterior material. But there is no reason why aluminum siding cannot be used over redwood. As with any other material, the important thing is to build out the old surface to provide a good nailing surface. This may necessitate partial or complete furring of the present siding. Furring strips, as you probably know, are narrow strips of wood or other material used to get an even surface. The care with which furring is done saves much time and work on the other stages of the project.

Q. — In painting a room, should the woodwork and trim be done before or after the walls and ceiling?

A. — The best procedure is to paint the ceiling first, then the walls and, after those are completely dry, the woodwork and trim.

Q. — I have to paint some masonry. My grandfather says he used to make his own masonry paint when he was young and that it was excellent. Unfortunately, he can't remember the exact ingredients. Can you help me?

A. — Yes, but in your grandfather's time, the quality of masonry paint wasn't as good as it is today. However, here's the way to make home'mixed masonry paint: Mix 5 parts of white portland cement with one part of hydrated lime. Add water until the mixture has the consistency of condensed milk. Mineral coloring may be added to obtain a light tinting. Dampen the surface before applying the paint. Use a brush, roller or spray equipment. Using a short, stiff-bristled brush will help fill the pores of the masonry. After the paint becomes firm, keep it damp with sprayed water for several days. Once the surface has been painted with this type of paint, you can't put some other kind over it without using a sealer. Incidentally, if you are going to use the mixture on rough cinder block, add 2 parts of fine sand to the mix. This will more effectively fill the pores of the block. Or you can buy a block filler at some paint stores.

Q. — A friend of mine says you told a reader some time ago that a wall should be washed from the bottom up. I maintain that this can't be so, as dirty water will keep running down on the cleaned section. Can you tell my friend that his memory of what he read isn't very good?

A. — Sorry, but your friend remembers exactly what he read. While it is true that if you start at the bottom and work upwards, some dirty water may run down the wall, it can be wiped off quickly and easily with a clean cloth. On the other hand, if you start at the top of the wall, dirty water running down the wall will settle on the uncleaned surface, making it far more difficult to remove. Actually, if you work carefully, little or no dirty water should run down the wall. Starting at the bottom assures that, if it does, it can be wiped off without any trouble.

South Koreans leaving shacks as living conditions improve

SEOUL, Korea (AP) - Ko Hung-choo is on his way up in the world after starting out as a poor laborer's child and then living with his own family in a squatter's shack on Seoul's outskirts.

The stocky 40-year-old father of three boys has now quit his job as a barber and with his savings is getting ready to buy a vegetable store. And Ko has moved out of that hated squatter's shack and into a city-built, low-income apartment.

Ko's gradually improving life and way of thinking probably show a lot about millions of South Koreans who have benefited from the nation's striking economic growth in recent years.

Most of these people seem willing to put up with the increasingly dictatorial rule of President Park Chung-hee as long as the economic gains continue.

..KO SAYS his income has jumped from the equivalent of $30 a month five or six years ago to about $75 before he quit working at a nearby barber shop to buy a store. Being a merchant, he thinks, will move him even farther up the economic scale.

"Things are getting better partly because the pay of workers is up . . . and partly because of the government's efforts to see that the living standards of the general public get better," Ko said in an interview at his home.

His small two-room apartment is in one of 17 austere brick and cement, five-story buildings perched on a rocky hill on Seoul's northwest outskirts. Thousands of shacks used to fill the area, but they were torn down to make room for the governments low-in-come apartments.

This is a modern building with a toilet and water and the heating system isn't bad. It's much better than before," Ko said.

HE PAYS only about $5 a month on a 15 year mortgave for his two rooms. And rerents one of the rooms to another man. Ko, his three sons and wife all live in the other 6-by-12-foot room.
live in the other 6-by-12-foot room.

Heat from the charcoal briquets used for cooking warms the traditional Korean "ondol" floor. He has jammed a television, stereo , several chests and other odds and ends into their single room.

At night there is barely room for all five of his family members to lie down to sleep. But Ko likes the added income from renting the other room, and he hopes some day to be able to move out and into his own house.

The Kum Wha "citizens apartments" where Ko lives are only a few years old, but already the buildings are looking shabby. One of them is being torn down because it was so poorly built that officials were afraid it might collapse on the residents.

The problem that is bothering Ko the most is inflation. Prices have gone up more than 20 per cent so far this year. He and his wife now spend about $60 monthly for food and other household necessities, about 50 per cent more than last year.

SOUTH KOREA's economy has grown at an average of nearly 10 per cent over the past decade under President Park's leadership.

Last year it grew by almost 17 per cent, but this year growth is expected to be about 8 per cent, according to the government

Park took power in a coup in 1961 . He was elected to three four-year terms and then declared martial law in 1972 and had the constitution altered to give him dictatorial powers.

Successful author blends writing with law career

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Books Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Unable to decide whether to be a lawyer or a writer, George V. Higgins decided to be both.

So, while working fulltime as an attorney during the day, Higgins spent his nights and weekends at the typewriter. After six weeks he'd produced the first draft of what went on to become the successful novel, "The Friends of Eddie Coyle."

His next two novels — like "Coyle" about the Boston area underworld — took a little longer. Higgins estimates "The Digger's Game" took over 15 or 16 weeks at the typewriter while "Cogan's Trade" required 8 or 9.

The modishly-dressed, fast-talking Higgins, who seems to have a knack for blending jobs, says he learned to write quickly while working as a reporter — a job he had while attending law school at the same time.

"You learn to come to the point as a reporter," the 34-year-old Higgins says, adding that it was while covering a variety of trials as a newsman that he became interested in the law. "Watching trials you get to see what lawyers do," Higgins says, "which is something you don't get in college."

HIGGINS, who lives with his wife and two children in Hingham, Mass., gave up reporting after he got his law degree and went to work for the Massachusetts Attorney General's office.

"I tried my first case the day after I was sworn in at the bar," he recalls with a smile. "Not only did I win it, I got the defense lawyer to take me to lunch. I wanted that case real bad.

GEORGE V. HIGGINS

Actually I want them all so bad I can taste them."

In his off-hours he wrote, "something I always wanted to do — write books. I started writing when I was in high school. I wrote, maybe, a dozen novels before "Coyle." None of them was published. Thank heavens! That wasn't my reaction then, but now I 'm glad they weren't picked up."

Higgins, whose books have brought him enough money to set up his own law firm in Boston, says he used to do his writing at home but now does it at the office "to keep from waking the kids up.

"THE TOUGHEST part of writing for me is getting the first sentence. I might have to try 14 or 15 times before I get that sentence but once I do I'm in business and I go. I get impossible. I just don't want to quit. There have been times when I've written 40 pages in a day and other times when I started at 7 a.m. on a Saturday and kept on going — with breaks, of course — until 3 p.m. the following day. I love to write. I think it's the most fun there is next to trying cases and I really don't know which I like best."

Higgins, who says "I have destroyed eight typewriters in my lifetime," currently has "two novels waiting to be published. One's about cops and the other's about people in politics. Note that it's not about politics just like my first three novels were not crime novels but books about people in crime.

"Speaking of those, I think 'Cogan's Trade' will be the last, because I can't go any further at this time with novels about hoods."

HIGGINS is also working on a book about Watergate and when that is finished there ought to be another in the works because "I get severe attacks of anxiety if I've got a book coming out and I don't have another one under way."

Then, with a laugh, he concludes: "I always said that if once I could get started in writing they couldn't stop me."

Actor's son given sentence

BRIDGEPORT, CALIF. (AP) Scott Newman, son of actor Paul Newman, has been fined $1,000 and placed on two years' probation for kicking a law officer who was transporting him to jail after a Feb. 5 arrest for drunkeness.

A Mono County Superior Court judge who handed down the sentence found Newman, 23, innocent of felony battery, the original charge.

When Eileen Widder of Forest Hills, N.Y., sought a new photographic challenge, she turned to photographic needlepoint.

"Needlepoint's popularity with both men and women seeking a creative diversion is really booming," she says. "It's challenging and yet relaxing. The results are colorful, decorative and long-lasting. . . and by combining two hobbies, designs from your own photographs can be adapted to add a unique personal touch."

Eileen is the prettier half of the Widder team, well known in Photographic Society of America salon circles as the husband-and-wife duo with the highest ratings and as top award-winners in world-wide salon competitions. They specialize in all types of techniques involving color which they process and print in their apartment.

Getting materials for needle-point work has become fairly easy now because specialty shops offering supplies, instructions and designs have sprung up in almost all communities throughout the country.

"To adapt photos for needlepoint work, however," Eileen cautions, "avoid subjects with too much fine detail or soft focus areas. The photos must be suitable almost as graphic designs or have poster-style impact."

NEEDLEPOINT PORTRAIT of Albert Widder was created by his wife, Eileen, from a photo. It was reduced to a simple black-and-white design by copying and recopying on high-contrast film and then traced on needlepoint canvas with waterproof ink. The final stitching with yarn makes a unique, decorative conversation piece of home decor.

In creating a needlepoint portrait of her husband, Albert, she used the positive print as a paper negative, contact-printing it on high-contrast Kodalith film. From this she made a high-contrast print, then copied it again on Kodalith film to achieve a black-and-white negative with no middle tones.

The process of transferring images from negative to positive on high-contrast film until a photo is reduced to to its simplest graphic design, is one of the usual creative techniques in photography.

The next step is to transfer the design to the needlepoint fabric. Eileen describes several methods of accomplishing this and suggests that a No. 14 canvas (14 threads to the inch) is best for portraits. The finer the canvas, the easier it is to interpret detail.

"I put the high-contrast negative into an enlarger and project the image to a desired size on a sheet of white paper," she reports. "Then I trace the design with a bold marking pen. No more darkroom work is needed.

"The needlepoint canvas is placed over the drawing and it is traced onto the canvas. The canvas is quite coarse so the picture underneath is seen easily. Use only waterproof marking pens or India ink, otherwise the ink might bleed when the canvas is blocked."

Though this is the simplest and quickest way to get the design onto the fabric, some people might prefer to make a photographic print the desired size from which to make a tracing.

Others may find it easier to work from graph paper designs. In that case, the enlarger image may be projected on graph paper instead of plain white paper, and then drawn. Or, for a photographic graph paper design, procure a transparent sheet of black squares — 10 or 20 to the inch — from an art supply store, place it on the enlarging paper for an exposure, then make another exposure of the design enlarged in the usual way on the same sheet of paper. The result will be a design on a graph paper background.

Still another way is to use the transparent sheet of black squares as a negative. Put it in the enlarger negative carrier and double-print it with the negative of the original design. The size of the graph squares can be varied with this method.

To make a needlepoint of one of her solarized color photographs which appeared on a PSA Journal cover, Eileen Widder used a different technique. She molded a clear plastic wrap over the cover to protect it, then placed the needlepoint canvas over it. Following the original colors, she painted what she saw with acrylic paint. The paint can be diluted with water and it becomes waterproof when dry. Then she followed the colors with matching yarn to make an artistic needlepoint facsimile.

Photo hobbyists who are slide fans, but who do not have a darkroom enlarger, may project effective transparencies on white paper and sketch the picture for needlepoint adaptation. That's substituting a slide projector for an enlarger or a case of being resourceful.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's litter in the streets. It's air that smells. It's a river where fish can't breathe.

You know what pollution is.

But not everyone does.

So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.

Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Ford tells Ohioans 1974 elections crucial

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford told a Republican fund-raiser here Wednesday night that Watergate would have nothing to do with the 1974 elections.

"There is no Republican candidate I know of on the ballot who has anything whatsoever to do with Watergate," the vice president said at the $125-aplate Central Ohio Republican dinner.

As the estimated 1,000 GOP faithful from 40 counties applauded, Ford voiced faith that President Nixon had nothing to do with Watergate or any cover-up that followed.

"It is my judgement," he said, "that the President of the United States is innocent of any involvement of the break-in of Democratic headquarters.

"It is my personal judgement . . .," he added, "the proponderance of the evidence is that he is innocent of any involvement in any cover-up."

Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, GOP nominee for the U. S. Senate, introduced Ford.

Former Gov. James A. Rhodes, the nominee again for that office left to make a commencment address before Ford's talk.

A host of other state candidates and several congressmen were on hand. U. S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. sent regrets, saying a pending vote in the Senate kept him from attending.

Ford attacked the Democratic-dominated Congress for "attempting to tie the hands" of Nixon in his upcoming negotiations with Moscow by making further cuts in his defense budget for the coming fiscal year.

"Those forces in the Congress of the United States want to gut it at the wrong time," he said of plans to reduce the troop strength from 2.2 million to 1.3 million.

Nixon, he said, plans to negotiate with Russia's leaders on reducing military strength in Europe by both sides, and a congressional limit on troops would be "a disservice to the United States."

Ford also defended the President's actions in the energy crisis, claiming Congress wanted to limit the supply of fuel and allocate it.

"That doesn't help anybody," he said.

"The only way you can reduce energy costs is to increase the supply," he said.

About 100 demonstrators carrying signs reading, "Throw the Bum Out," marched across the street from the hotel where Ford spoke.

Ford was already in the hotel when they arrived.

The former Michigan congressman said Republicans should concentrage on this year's elections and not worry about 1976.

"If the Republican party takes a disastrous defeat in 1974, 1976 may be irrelevant," he said.

"If the Republican party stands up and can be strong in 1974 it can prevail in 1976," he said. "1974 is the crucial test."

Ford spent about 5½ hours in Columbus. On his arrival at Rickenbacker Air Force Base Wednesday afternoon, he was greeted by Republican State Chairman Kent McGough, Columbus Mayor Tom Moody and Col. Myron Bowen, base commander.

Before going to the hotel, Ford attended a private reception with major contributors at Darby Dan Farms, owned by land developer and sportsman John Galbreath.

The three All-America Rose Selections Award winners this year should please fanciers of the grandiflora, hybrid tea and floribunda roses. The three champions of 1975 include one of each, Arizona, Oregold and Rose Parade.

Arizona is a bronze and copper grandiflore; Oregold, pure yellow hybrid tea, and Rose Parade, coral pink floribunda.

Arizona was originated by Olie Weeks of Ontario, Calif., who also produced 1973 and 1974 winners, Gypsy and Perfume Delight, and shared in the development of many other AARS selections, including Royal Highness, Angel Face and Mister Lincoln.

Arizona is as colorful as the state for which it was named and it has the unusual combination of bronze and copper, with shadings of yellow, red, pink and orange. It has a light tea fragrance, well-shaped buds that open into 3½ to 4-inch blooms.

The plant grows vigorously, has good sturdy stems, each carrying several blossoms in candelabra effect, satisfactory for cutting. The new foliage is shiny, mahogany, turning dark green with leathery texture.

The AARS reports Arizona is quite free from mildew and has above average resistance to blackspot.

Oregold, an import from the German nursery of R.M. Tantau, is described as one of the rare good yellow roses. It has pointed buds of buttercup yellow that spiral open into high-centered, five-inch blooms. It has the fine form of Peace rose, with 35 to 40 petals of heavy substance. The blooms generally are borne singly on eight to 14-inch stems, providing nice, long cut flowers.

The plant grows three to four feet tall, is bushy and compact, but quite thorny.

Parents of Oregold are Picadilly X Konigin der Rosen and its ancestry includes winners Tropicana, Kordes Perfecta and Peace.

Floribunda Rose Parade is an attractive blend of light coral pink, with 2½-inch flowers shaded with peach, contrasting with the dark green foliage. It is of medium height with full-petaled blooms much of the season, excellent for mass plantings. The blooms have a rich perfume.

Benjamin Williams of Maryland was the hybridizer of Rose Parade.

Tips on tipping given by expert

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE,Wis. (AP)—Are you one of those people who never knows how much to tip, withers under the glare of waitresses or perfunctorily leaves 15 per cent?

If so, take a tip from John Schein, a traveling salesman from Oshkosh who has taken it upon himself to straighten out the world's convoluted tipping systems.

"All we're trying to do is restore tipping to its original concept," said Schein, the founder two years ago of Tippers International, which he says now has a membership of 2,500.

"We want to give tips for good, prompt service, not because we are embarrassed or feel guilty."

Schein recommends sticking to the usual 15 per cent for good service, with up to 20 per cent for exceptional service and down to nothing for rotten service.

"Things are out of hand when you're expected to tip 20 to 25 per cent for average or substandard service," said Schein, a nuts and bolts salesman.

He says a kind word often achieves the same result as money.

"Find out the name of your waitress, talk to the hostess, compliment the chef and bartender. You can actually leave smaller tips and get better service," he said.

Schein says the experienced tipper learns a few tricks of the "art," such as flipping silver dollars to the doorman and porter when checking into a hotel for a few days—"I never have any trouble getting a cab or help with my bags."

Schein's list of standard tips includes:

Fifteen per cent for waitresses, bartenders, cabbies and room service; 10 to 25 cents for restroom attendants; 20 per cent for beauticians; 50 cents for barbers; $1 for wine stewards; 25 cents for grocery boys; 50 cents per bag for bellboys and skycaps, and 75 cents for errands by hotel personnel.

Little girl dies in home blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dangie Tucker, 4, was killed in a fire that swept through her downtown Cincinnati home early today.

Firemen said the girl's father told them he escaped through an outside stairwell and her mother was not home.

Neighbors said they heard an explosion just before the fire.

The girl's body was found by firemen under a living room couch, three feet from the front door of the house.

School paper staff fights censorship

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A federal appeals court today was to be asked to rule whether a high school principal violated students' constitutional rights by suppressing an issue of the school newspaper.

Oral arguments were to be presented before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on a suit filed by a group of Reynoldsburg, Ohio, High School students against principal Joseph Endry and the Reynoldsburg Local School District.

Attorneys for the students maintained in briefs filed with the court that Endry violated students' rights of freedom of speech by refusing to distribute the Nov. 22, 1971 issue of the school's newspaper, "Doubloon."

The case was dismissed earlier in U.S. District Court in Columbus.

In testimony earlier in district court Endry said he had refused to distribute the issue in question because of an editorial entitled "Where Are You Mr. H.S. Athlete," which he said he considered inflammatory and which he feared might lead to fights among students.

The editorial claimed the archetype high school athlete was dead at Reynoldsburg High School and that the kind of school spirit his type engendered was gone.

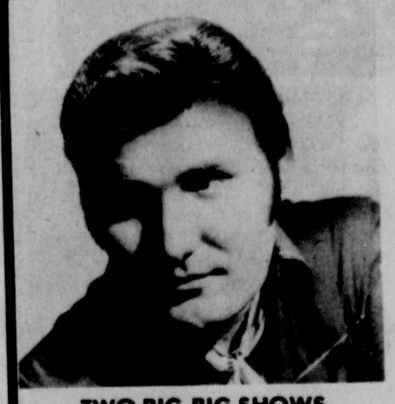

"Some of our boys in sports are not true athletes. A number habitually smoke and even more frequently drink," the editorial said. The editorial and the other articles in the issue had been approved by a faculty advisor.

Attorneys for Endry argued in their briefs that he had 22 years of school experience at the time of the incident and that "...it is clear that the First Amendment does not give minor high school students the right to openly invite the disruption, or actually disrupt, the educational process."

Danish youth to become MT's 6th foreign student

Bent Emil Lyngholt Hansen, 18, of Varde, Denmark, will be the sixth foreign exchange student to attend Miami Trace High School under the American Field Service program.

The 176-pound, six foot Bent, with reddish blond hair, will arrive here next fall to enter high school as a senior.

Bent's father, Johannes Verne Hansen, is a farmer and Bent also is interested in farming, according to the information sent by the AFS to the high school. In school in Denmark, his studies included three years of German and three hours a week for five years of English, which should simplify his life here in America.

He will make his home for the school year with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, Ohio 38-NE, where he will see farming American-style close up. His American brother will be Bill Schaefer, an MTHS senior, who is active in vocational agriculture. Also in the Schaefer family are another son, Tim, 13, who will be a freshman at MTHS next year, and a daughter, Sandy, 12, who will be in the seventh grade at Bloomingburg. Bent is sponsored by the AFS adult chapter at MTHS.

The other AFS students who have attended MTHS are Grete Havag, of Norway, Evelyn Baldovino, of the Philippines, Gabriel Blanco, of Spain, Claudia Becht, of Germany, and Sheila Gordon, of South Africa.

Population growth for the United States from 1970 to mid-1972 was 2.46 per cent. Population growth for the Appalachian region was 2.44 per cent.

Europe trusts Switzerland

GENEVA (AP)- High regard for the Swiss continues as Switzerland emerged as the most trusted nation in a poll conducted in France, Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium by Ronald Inglehart of Michigan State University and David Handley, University of Geneva, in cooperation with the European Communtiy Information Center.

In a field of eight countries Switzerland ranked first with a trust rating of 7i per cen against a negative total of 11 per cent.

12-year-old boy found hanged

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Richard Blust Jr., 12, of Cincinnati, was found hanged in a wooded area near his home Wednesday. A baseball glove was found nearby.

His parents spent the night looking for him after he failed to show up for baseball practice at Ryan Park for the St. Catherine Roman Catholic school team.

His father is athletic director for church activities. Richard had been deeply involved in all sports plus many extra school activities for the past five years, police said.

"I'm not sure he really liked sports, at least not baseball," said his manager Carl Buschbacher. "He wasn't that enthusiastic about it.

"He was a starter on the team but several weeks ago he began missing practices. Then he didn't show up for one of our games and I started someone else in his place."

Police investigators learned the boy told his mother that his arm hurt Tuesday and didn't want to go to practice. She told him that he had the responsibility to show up and tell the manager.

His father, in a telephone call said the same thing, police said.

"He never showed up for practice," Bushbacher said.

Sister Paula, principal of the school, said the seventh grader was a Boy Scout, served mass and had a paper route in addition to playing sports.

"He was always cheerful and good humored and performed his duties at mass very faithfully," she said. "He was the kind of boy you never thought this would happen to."

At our recent basketball tournament," Buschbacher recalled, "Richard ran the popcorn machine and dispensed soft drinks every night.

"He worked as hard as any adult.

"I wonder if I pushed him too hard? I've been asking myself that over and over again since it happened and can honestly say I don't think so.

"His father has a very responsible position as athletic director. He coordinates our entire sports program, which has a $10,000 to $11,000 budget. But he didn't push him that hard either."

A veteran policeman wondered whether Richard was involved in too many activities he wasn't mature enough to handle. But maybe that's not the answer either, said the detective, who asked not to be quoted by name.

"How could anything be so bad that a 12-year-old boy would take his own life? What went through his mind?

"We have been having increasing problems with teenage and sub-teen suicides. Perhaps one of the troubles is that they don't think of death as being permanent. They see it every day on television," the detective said.

A $25-million convention center under construction in Kansas City will more than double the city's current $30-million annual convention business volume by 1976, says Mayor Charles Wheeler.

VERNON STANFORTH AND SHEILA GORDON

MT student Norway-bound

Vernon Stanforth, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stanforth, Pleasantview Road, Jeffersonville, will leave June 24 for a summer in Norway in the American Field Service program.

Stanforth will be staying in Skein, Norway, which is just south of Olso. He will be making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Oystien Lunden.

Stanforth's Norweigna stay will last 10 weeks.

Sheila Gordon, 18, who recently completed a year at Miami Trace High School,, will be leaving June 28. She has been makin her home with Mr. and Mrs. Will Braun, 1188 Hess Road.

Miss Gordon will join other AFS students for a few weeks of travel around the United States and will leave for her native South Africa in mid-July.

American Legion Post 25 will host district meeting

Paul H. Hughey Post 25 of the American Legion will host the Legion's seventh district convention Saturday and Sunday.

The guest speaker for the meeting will be David A. Cropper, of Portsmouth, who is the state commander of the American Legion of Ohio. A World War II veteran, he is a member and past commander of James Dickey Post 23 in Portsmouth, Ohio's largest American Legion Post. It has more than 2,000 members.

DAVID A. CROPPER

The seventh district is composed of 33 posts in eight south central Ohio counties, with a total membership of 6,700.

The district attained an all-time high in membership this year and led all Ohio districts in recruiting new members. To honor its achievement, the district will be given priority seating and will lead the parade at the state convention in July.

The agenda for the district meeting includes the election of new officers in addition to receiving reports on various Legion programs.

Several local Legionnaires are serving as officers this year. They include Eugene Ladrach, district commander; Phil Ford, district adjutant; Vora Brown Jr., sergeant at arms; and R.B. Tharp, judge advocate.

Troop slash being sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration forces are rallying opposition as the Senate nears a vote on proposals to force major U.S. troop reductions overseas.

Secretary of State Heenry A. Kissinger, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger on Wednesday all argued against troop reductions.

The Senate votes today on an amendment by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield to force a reduction within 18 months of 125,00 U.S. ground troops and airmen stationed on foreign soil.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was ready to propose a 100,000-man reduction if the Mansfield amendment failed.

Kissinger warned in a letter to Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee that a major troop reduction overseas could undermine negotiations with Russia for mutual reductions in Europe and could jeopardize efforts to achieve a permanent peace in Asia.

Kissinger said the U.S. already has cut its troops in Europe from 400,000 in the early 1960s to about 300,000.

In the same period, he said, Soviet forces in Eastern Europe increased from 475,000 in 1962 to 575,000 now.

One-sided reduction by the United States, he said, would remove Soviet incentives to agree to mutual and balanced reductions by NATO and Warsaw Pact nations in negotiations under way in Vienna.

It takes from 30 to 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Bible scholars to work on translation

NEW YORK — Twenty-eight Bible scholars will spend the summer in Scotland, working in four editorial committees on the translation of 12 books of the Old Testament.

This is but one phase in the 10-year process of translating the entire Bible, a project sponsored by the New York International Bible Society.

The new translation, called "The Holy Bible - New International Version", when complete is the work of over 100 Bible scholars from five different countries of the world.

The New Testament is already in print, and so far nearly a million copies have been printed. It has met with such success, according to Dr. Edwin H. Palmer, Executive Secretary of the project, that many are asking for portions of the Old Testament, particularly the Psalms. He added:

"We will try to complete the Old Testament as quickly as possible, but we do not wish to rush into print and thereby sacrifice the quality secured in the New Testament by a constant checking and rechecking through several successive committees.

"It is far more difficult to translate the Old Testament than the New. One problem is to know what certain Hebrew words really mean. In the case of Greek, the language of the New Testament, there is a great body of literature outside the Bible, so that it is possible to ascertain the meaning of the New Testament Greek words. In the case of the Old Testament, however, there is very little contemporary literature outside the Old Testament itself in Hebrew."

The Ugaritic language, related to Hebrew, has been helpful since a quantity of literature in it was found in 1929. Said Dr. Palmer:

"Many of our men who will be in Scotland are specialists in Ugaritic. In addition, some of the scholars who will be at work in Scotland this summer are up to date on the newer archaeological discoveries in the Holy Land." Dr. Palmer added:

"Some of our men go to Israel on summer archaeological expeditions. This year they are spending their time with us giving the new translation the benefit of their extensive knowledge and experience."

Sessions of translation will be held at Scotland's oldest university in St. Andrews, from June 17 through August 24.

The Rev. Youngve R. Kindberg, President of New York International Bible Society, said that it is hoped that the complete Bible will be translated and available to the public by 1978. He added:

"It is not merely a revision or paraphrase of the Bible as are many of the versions done since the King James was published in the 17th century. It is an entirely new, highly readable translation whose every word and phrase will speak to people, especially young people, in the language of our time."

The New York International Bible Society had its beginnings in 1809 as a ministry to seamen who thronged New York City's port areas. Before its first birthday it had become national and worldwide in scope. It now services more than 8½ million requests annually for Bibles, New Testaments and Bible booklets published in many languages.

The publishing of the new Bible in the United States will be handled by Zondervan Bible Publishers of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Nixon meets high-level Arab group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is welcoming a high-level Arab delegation to the White House as he continues to stress improved U.S. relations with the Middle East nations he will tour this month.

The group headed by Prince Fahd, Saudi Arabia's interior minister and second deputy prime minister, was invited to Nixon's Oval Office for mid-morning talks to be followed by a working luncheon.

A White House spokesman said the discussion would center on ways "to expand U.S.Saudi Arabian cooperation in the economic, industrial, scientific and technological fields and in the area of the Kingdom's defense requirements."

Prince Fahd's oil-rich country is one of five Middle East nations Nixon will tour June 12-18. The others are Egypt, Israel, Syria and Jordan.

In a major foreign policy address at Naval Academy commencement ceremonies, Nixon said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's negotiation of Israeli-Arab disengagement removed a roadblock to Middle East peace.

Frank R. Henize, 22, Post Rd., assistant supervisor, and Judith K. Houser, 19, Mount Sterling, at home.

JUVENILE TRAFFIC

Larry D. Davis, 17, son of Mrs. Sarah Davis, Sabina, was adjudged a juvenile traffic offender by Judge Rollo M. Marchant for driving an automobile with a raised bumper. The judge ordered that the youth not operate the vehicle until the bumper was corrected.

Dennis P. O'Cull, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Cull, Stuckey Rd., was found to be a juvenile traffic offender for driving with a raised bumper. Judge Marchant approved of the discipline of the parents.

DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Phyllis A. Newland, Greenfield, has filed in Common Pleas Court for divorce from Glenn W. Newland on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Nov. 19, 1956 in Liberty, Ind., and have four children. The plaintiff is seeking alimony, custody and support.

Dale E. Everhart, 1127 Lakeview Ave., has filed for divorce from Betty Everhart on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Jan. 4, 1974 in Newport, Ky., and have no children by this marriage.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Dennis L. Stepter, 6 Sunny Dr., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Paula Stepter, New Haven, Conn., on grounds of neglect of duty. The defendant was adjudged by the court to be a suitable person to have custody of the parties' minor child. She was therefore awarded custody and support.

OSU builds helicopter tie-downs

COLUMBUS — Construction started last week on 40 new paved helicopter tie-downs and paved hoverlanes at Ohio State University's Don Scott Field.

Designed by Bender, Grindle, Raike, Inc., engineers, architects, surveyors of Ashland for the Ohio Adjutant General's Department, the new facility will be one of the most modern in the United States. It will feature flush-mounted in-pavement lighting to insure safe operation of hovering aircraft.

Area floodlights and fencing will also be installed as part of the project to improve security of the installation.

With approval of the National Guard Bureau in Washington D.C., the contracts for both general construction and lighting were awarded to Jess Howard Electric Co. of Blacklick in the amount of $453,014.22.

Traffic Court

Only two persons were scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Wednesday on traffic charges.

Acting Judge John P. Case found Ray V. Blair, 38, of 919 Pam Dr., guilty of driving while under suspension of his operator's license, sentencing his to 30 days in jail and ordering that the defendant pay a fine of $100. The judge suspended 20 days of the jail term.

Three persons forfeited bond on charges of disorderly conduct filed on private warrants.

Nancy L. Clifton, 20, Columbus, and Jess and Norma Redman, 59 and 43, respectively, of Mount Sterling forfeited $25 bond each.

The first known Olympiad was held in 776 B. C.

AAA opposes truck weight increases

Ohio AAA Clubs do not favor increased weights and sizes of trucks combinations on Ohio highways because of safety factors involving the motorist and the increased cost in millions of dollars necessary for additional maintenance and upkeep says Mrs. Fred Shoop, Secy-manager of the Fayette County Automobile Club.

Representing the Ohio AAA Clubs, Clifford E. Reich, director of research and development for the Ohio AAA Association, testified last week in opposition to House Bill 1303 before the House Transportation Committee in Columbus, pointing out that "present truck combinations are large enough in Ohio."

The bill in its present form would increase the size and weights of trucks on Ohio's highways from 19,000 to 20,000 pounds for single axle load; from 32,000 to 34,000 pounds for any two successive axles; from 38,000 to 40,000 pounds for any two successive axles spaced eight feet or more apart; from 78,000 to 90,000 pounds for total weight permitted; from 55 to 60 feet for the overall length of a commercial tractor and semi-trailer and from 65 feet to 70 feet for any other combination of vehicles.

Reich explained that "permitting longer, heavier trucks on Ohio's highways would jeopardize the safety and well being of every motorist in Ohio and would hasten deterioration of our highways and destruction of our bridges.

Several county engineers testified before the same committee that this would be a definite cause for deterioration if truck weight and size would be increased because of the repetitive trips.

The AAA official cited safety factors that would be involved "such as drivers being fearful of the wind blast effect caused by trucks when they are passing or are being passed, and that an AAA study shows that where tractor-trailer trucks are involved in accidents, they are twice as likely as passengers cars to be fatal."

Reich urged the committee to give serious examination before recommending any increase in size or weight for trucks and called to the attention of the committee the influx of many more smaller cars on the highways because of the energy crisis and that both the truck and passenger car speed limit is the same.

In addition to costing additional millions of dollars annually to offset the increased wear on highways and bridges if HB 1303 were to become law, the AAA spokesman said that if the bill is passed the state would fave the possibility of losing Federal aid highway funds since the weight and size regulations would be in excess of Federal standards adopted in 1956.

J. Philip Richley, Ohio Department of Transportation Director, corroborated this fact in his testimony, suggesting that no action be taken now to increase weights and sizes until there is further federal action. Richley pointed out that the trucks trips do not start and end on the freeway system and that city streets, county, township and state roads are used by the big truck combinations.

Colorado, Montana and Nebraska rescinded previous executive orders that allowed trucks at the higher state weight limits to operate on the Interstate System to prevent loss of Federal aid highway funds so sorely needed by state and local communities.

Vietnam veterans can change preference on bonus request

COLUMBUS — John W. Bush, director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission today announced that according to a recent ruling, a veteran can request the preference he has made on his application be changed from educational assistance to a cash bonus.

"This can be done," Bush said, "if the veteran does so before any part of the educational assistance bonus has been applied to its intended use, that is, paid either to the veteran, or to the educational institution or training school."

He further stated that an applicant could request a change from his choice of a cash bonus to educational assistance, if he had not cashed his cash bonus check.

"insofar as reimbursement to the veteran is concerned," Bush added, "payment will only be made for education or training received after Jan. 1, 1974, regardless of when tuition or training fees were paid."

Director Bush said that the first Educational Certificates of Entitlement will be mailed at the same time as the first bonus checks, beginning June 7.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH

Stamps in cartoon style are being used by Australia to help publicize its changeover to the metric measurement system.

Lionel Bowen, Australia's postmaster general, said that the stamps are intended to create public awareness of the switch and to draw attention to the four aspects of the metric system — length, volume, mass and temperature. He feels certain that the stamp illustrations in the form of cartoons have "humanized" the subjects and have created visual messages which emphasize how metric conversion affects people's lives.

The four new stamps all have the same value, 7 cents. The stamp for length shows a cartoon character saying "5 ft. 11 in. is 180 cm." The one for mass has the stylized man quipping "15 stone is 1100 kg." The temperature stamp blurb is "100 F is 38 C." On the volume illustration, the character stipulates "7 fl. oz. equals 200 ml."

Your local dealer should have these stamps available at approximately 36 cents for the set. For further information Australian stamps you may write directly to the Australian Information Bureau, 636 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10020.

The Republic of China on Taiwan has issued four more stamps in its 1974 Taiwan scenery set. The first group of adhesives was released last March.

The lowest value shows the Dr. Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall dedicated by Chiang Kai-shek Nov. 12, 1965, the 100th birthday of Dr. Sun. Another stamp depicts the Reaching Moon Tower at Tapei Lake. The third in the set features the landscape of Lanyu located Southeast of Taiwan. The highest value illustrates the modern inter-island bridge at Penghu connecting 64 isles in the Straits of Taiwan.

In the summer of 1976, Canada will host the Summer Olympic Games. In honor of this occasion, the Canada Post Office is issuing a series of commemorative stamps during the next two years and collectors will want to acquire them for their regular or specialized albums.

The first Canadian Olympic commemorative was issued in September 1973. It was a set of two gold and silver stamps, each bearing the Canadian Olympic logo of five inter-locking rings crowned with an "m" to symbolize the three-tier champions' podium and Montreal the host city.

The second issue, released in March of this year, consisted of four 8-centers showing the summer sports of hiking, cycling, jogging and swimming. The third set issued in April was composed of three semipostals, the first surcharged postage stamps in Canada's history.

The trio of issues, as well as first-day covers, can be purchased directly from the Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Canada, KLA OB5. A postcard will get you all the details as to how much money to send for the various items.

Many stamp collectors are also becoming coin collectors. So here are a few new books which may help you in this hobby. "Coin Collecting As a Hobby" by Burton Hobson presents all aspects of the hobby, including U.S. and foreign paper money. "How To Build A Coin Collection" by Fred Reimfeld tells the beginner how to start, develop and maintain both U.S. and foreign currency. "The Coin Makers" by Thomas W. Becker is also good background for a neophyte collector, since it features 107 photos of coins, old and new, noting how coinage began and its history over the years. The coin books are available at your local stamp or coin store or department.

Thief lifts surprise tapes

DALLAS (AP) - The thief who stole a tape recorder and several tapes from the car of Francis Andrews of Tomball is in for a surprise—the only sounds recorded on the tapes are heart sounds.

Andrews, 42, who lists his occupation as "hearsounds" work, told police he was in Dallas working at the Veteran Administration Hospital when someone broke into his car and stole the tapes. Also lifted was a "digital heartsound scope" he invented and values at $25,000.

'King of Herm' presides over tiny realm in Britain's Channel Islands

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - He was wearing a pink shirt and pink and black tie instead of royal robes, and there was no crown on his silver hair—but the "King of Herm" had a regal demeanor befitting the sole "ruler" of the smallest of Britain's Channel Islands.

As such he presides over a school, a hotel, a quaint pub, a 900-year-old church, 45 residents and more than 100 purebred Guernseys, each with its own name.

When he isn't being addressed by his unofficial title King Peter, he is known as Maj. Peter Wood, Tenant of Herm, an island a half mile wide and one and a half miles long.

It was in an effort to lure more U.S. tourists to the Channel Islands, which are tucked in between England and France, that he was in this country.

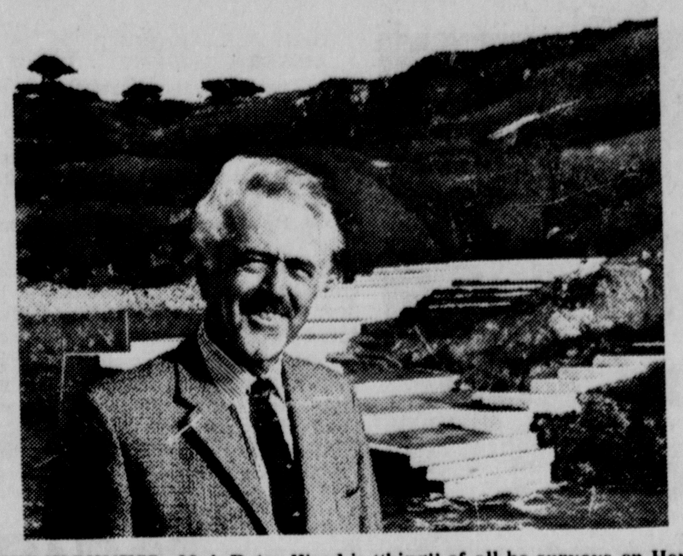

..WOOD, former major in the Royal Engineers, fell in love with his miniature empire on a holiday visit.

He leased the island in 1949 from the States of Guernsey, with whose help he has changed it from a weed-grown eyesore to a successful farming and vacation spot.

Everything was completely derelict after Herm's occupation by the Germans during World War II," he recalled. "There was no electricity, and we had to have drinking water shipped in,. There were so many things to be done. That first winter I listed them all and picked out the five most important to get at first."

His priorities included establishing a water supply system, putting in a sewage disposal plant and underground electric cables, rebuilding the houses, establishing communications such as telephones and a ferry to Guernsey, and developing a means of earning a living.

"We have the biggest milk producing farm in the Channel Islands," Wood said. "Besides the raw milk that is shipped across and bought by the Guernsey government, we export daffodils - and tourism.

HIS HIGHNESS—Maj. Peter Wood is "king" of all he surveys on Herm, smallest of Britain's Channel Islands, which he has leased since 1949 from the States of Guernsey

"I converted the cottages around the harbor into groups of hotel bedrooms, all operating around the country house which is the main building. There are about 90 beds for overnight visitors, but we have 500 or 600 daily visitors from Guernsey."

What is there for guests to do on an island without cars, without organized activities or formal entertainment?

"There is nothing to do there at all but to walk and make your own entertainment," Wood admits. "The first day is often frustrating, but when people are thrown back on their own resources they get immense pleasure out of the fact that they can entertain themselves.

"People who live in motorized areas feel guilty that they don't use their legs more, and on Herm you have to walk everywhere. There are lovely hills and valleys, absolutely clear air, heavenly views, exhilarating sea. There are dances in the evening. We have a gramophone and a piano and the guests themselves get things going. And there's a sweet little fisherman's pub."

..THERE ARE some dozen families residing permanently on the island, with all the men working for Wood in various capacities.

A few farm and garden, others are engaged in maintenance of the service systems and as carpenters, and there is a hotel manager and an accountant.

"To all the children who grow up on Herm, their father is not a shadowy character who disappears by day," noted Wood, who has six children, of whom four were born on the island. "Because they see him at work they know that what he's doing is necessary to the community."

There is a school for the four or five children of elementary school age, built on the side of the cottage of the fully-qualified teacher. If a doctor is needed he comes from Guernsey, which is three miles away.

"The church is a little stone-roofed building, pure Norman, the oldest intact building and the only one I didn't have to do any repairs on. You get the feeling it is a holy place - it gives a sense of peace. I hold what I call a family service and people are welcome to come in their beach clothes," said Wood, a trim, bearded man in his late 50's.

"If I can deal with it myself I do so," he said of the rare cases of crime that come up and that otherwise are referred to authorities on Guernsey. "We have an ancient jail on Herm, but it hasn't got a door."

Fly-in slated at airport this Sunday

The annual Fly-In at the Fayette County Airport will be held Sunday, weather permitting.

Sponsored by the Fayette County Pilots Association, the Fly-In provides pilots throughout the state an opportunity to visit the airport and participate in a number of flying competitions.

At the same time it offers community residents the opportunity to view the wide variety of aircraft flown by the pilots who participate. In past years this has included antique and experimental aircraft.

Breakfast will be available from 8 a.m. until noon, and sandwiches, pop and ice cream will be available throughout the day.

The competition will include bomb dropping and spot landing events, and a group of U.S. Air Force F-100 jets have scheduled a flight over the airport. A number of trophies will be awarded, including recognition of the youngest and oldest pilots, and the pilot who arrives from the most distant point of origin.

Proceeds will become part of the airport improvement fund.

The rain date for the event has been set for June 16.

Injuries prove fatal

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Joseph Delaney, 70, of Cincinnati, died at a hospital late Wednesday of injuries received when he drove his car into the path of a bus at Sasmann Avenue and Reading Road, police reported.

More automobiles are assembled in Kansas City than in any American city except Detroit.

County unemployment rate 8.5 per cent

Approximately 8.5 per cent of Fayette County's total civilian labor force of 10,550 was unemployed in April, according to the report of the Division of Research and Statistics of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services released today.

Included in this estimate, were 9,650 employed and 900 (275 women) who were without work. The population of the county in 1970 was approximately 25,500, an increase of 700 during the previous 10 years. About half of the people live in Washington C. H. and half in the rural area.

In greatest demand in the county last April, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services notes, were registered and practical nurses, computer analysts, operators, programmers and supervisors, draftsmen, tool and die makers and construction laborers.

The average starting hourly wage schedule in industry here for both men and women is: unskilled $2 to $2.50; semiskilled $2.50 to $3; skilled $3 to $4.

In recent years, the average weekly earnings of factory employes in the county have been about one-sixth below the state average, the Employment Bureau reports.

According to the Census Bureau's 1970 tabulation about one-fifth of the county's population commuted to work in neighboring counties.

During last April, more than one-fourth of all the workers living in the county were on factory payrolls, one-seventh were government employes and nearly one-tenth were employed in agriculture.

The principal manufacturing industries are food, fabricated metals, lumber, electrical equipment, paper products, machinery, chemicals, electrical equipment and printing and publishing. Products of these industries include processed food, fabricated millwork articles, prefabricated steel buildings, electric motors, electric bench grinders, radio-controlled garage door openers, mortician's supplies, mobile homes and insulated clothing and gloves.

Among the men seeking work through the Bureau of Employment, three-tenths had structural work backgrounds, about one-seventh were in machine trades and one-tenth were clerical, sales or service personnel.

Of the women registered with the Employment Service here in April, nearly one-third were in the clerical-sales classification, one-fourth had held service positions and about one-sixth were bench workers.

Approximately five-sixths of the total seeking jobs through the Employment Service were under 45 years of age. Some of them, both men and women, had previous experience as material handlers, assemblers, truck trivers, machine operators, clerks, cooks and waitresses.

Area man guilty of false try for auto license

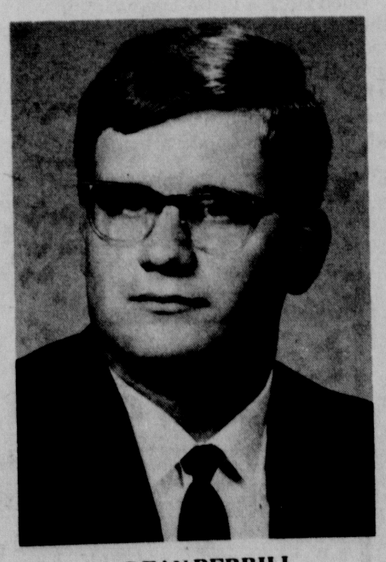

An area resident was found guilty in Municipal Court Wednesday of two charges filed by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Terry L. Lowe, 18, Ohio 41-S, was found guilty by acting Judge John P. Case of making a false application for an operator's license and of driving while his license was under suspension.

Lowe was fined $200 and sentenced to 60 days in jail, 58 of which were suspended.

The longest hunger strike recorded was one of 94 days by nine inmates of Cork Prison, Ireland, from Aug 11 to Nov. 12, 1920.

Five homers smashed by Indians

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The fans left the fireworks to the baseball team in Cleveland Wednesday night.

Home runs exploded at Municipal Stadium instead of people. It resulted in a 9-3 Cleveland victory over the Texas Rangers in relative peace and quiet.

"I really liked it when the fans stood up and cheered our boys when they hit their homers," noted Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte. "That's the kind of fans we want to come out and see us. They can enjoy our success with us. Those others, I don't ever want to see around."

It was a far more civilized scene than Tuesday night when their game was torn apart by a riot. Hundreds of fans, apparently hyped up by "10-cent beer night," threw debris and flooded the field, chasing the players to cover. The Indians had to forfeit the game.

On Wednesday night, only about 8,000 persons showed up—about one-third of Tuesday night's audience. The public address announcer told them that fines would be levied if anyone ran on the playing field. And they cheered the announcement.

There were mostly cheers from then on, as Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan hit three-run homers for the Indians in a seven-run sixth inning. The only boos through the entire evening came when Texas Manager Billy Martin walked to the mound to change a pitcher.

In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Kansas City Royals 5-4; the Oakland A's blasted the Detroit Tigers 9-1; the California Angels turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5; the Chicago White Sox stopped the New York Yankees 7-6 in 15 innings and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

Orioles 5, Royals 4

Mark Belanger's bloop double with two out in the ninth inning scored Frank Baker from first base, capping a three-run rally that lifted Baltimore over Kansas City.

A's 9, Tigers 1

Gene Tenace blasted a 415-foot grand slam home run in the fifth inning, leading Oakland over Detroit.

Vida Blue, 5-5, scattered four hits in seven innings for his fourth consecutive victory and fifth in his last six decisions.

Angels 6, Brewers 5

Joe Lahoud blasted a two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning, giving California a victory over Milwaukee.

White Sox 7, Yankees 6

Red Sox 5, Twins 3

Luis Tiant scattered 10 hits and Rick Burleson knocked in the winning run with a single in the sixth inning, pacing Boston past Minnesota. Tiant posted his fifth straight victory and boosted his record to 7-5.

Dodgers and Rau whip Pirates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It didn't bother Doug Rau to see Richie Hebner heading for first base with Pittsburgh's first hit after 7 1-3 no-hit innings Wednesday night as much as its did to see Richie Zisk hightailing it for the plate with the Pirates' first run.

"I wasn't really concerned about the hit, although I thought about a no-hitter in the fifth inning," the Los Angeles left-hander said. "The hit didn't get me down as much as the run since it made it a one-run game again."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies held off the Atlanta Braves 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the San Francisco Giants 4-1, the Montreal Expos trounced the Houston Astros 8-3 and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3. Cincinnati and New York were not scheduled.

Phillies 4, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt's three-run homer, his 12th, and Bob Boone's solo shot produced a four-run third inning that gave Jim Lonborg all the support he needed to keep the Phillies one-half-game ahead of runner-up St. Louis in the National League East.

Cardinals 4, Giants 1

Lou Brock and Tom Heintzelman cracked three hits apiece and Brock stole his 33rd and 34th bases of the season while Sonny Siebert gained his sixth victory with last-out relief help from Orlando Pena.

Expos 8, Astros 3

Willie Davis, Bob Bailey and Hal Breeden drove in first-inning runs against Claude Osteen and Mike Jorgensen and Jim Cox drove in two runs apiece in the last two innings. Mike Torrez pitched eight innings for Montreal before Chuck Taylor finished up.

Padres 4, Cubs 3

Fred Kendall doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth after the Cubs had tied the score in the top of the inning on Bill Madlock's pinch single.

Major league baseball drafts; over five hundred players chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball dipped into the lucrative free agent market place again today, completing the summer draft of high school and collegiate prospects.

Scouts and farm directors ran through 23 rounds of the regular draft Wednesday, picking 523 players in the hopes of duplicating the 1973 success of teams like the San Diego Padres, Texas Rangers, Minnesota Twins and Milwaukee Brewers, who all came up with instant major leaguers from their draft choices.

San Diego, which drafted outfielder Dave Winfield straight into a major league uniform last year, had first choice this time around and selected shortstop Bill Almon of Brown University.

Almon, who set eight season records at the Ivy League school, has not hired a professional negotiator and plans instead to do his own contract bargaining with the Padres.

After San Diego drafted Almon, Texas had the second choice. A year ago, the Rangers chose and immediately signed a local prospect, pitcher David Clyde. Perhaps Clyde's success influenced this year's home state selection, right-handed pitcher Tom Boggs of Austin. Then, midway through the second round, the Rangers announced they had signed Boggs, just as they had signed Clyde during the draft last year.

Milwaukee, which drafted shortstop Robin Yount into the majors a year ago, picked Claude Edge, a right-handed pitcher from Sacramento, Calif., first this time. Shortstop Ted Shipley of Vanderbilt University was Minnesota's first round pick. A year ago, the Twins drafted pitcher Eddie Bain straight into a major league uniform.

Shipley was one of six shortstops chosen in the draft's first round. The one who got the most attention was Eddie Ford of The University of South Carolina, son of New York Yankee pitching coach Whitey Ford.

The younger Ford was selected by the Boston Red Sox after the Yankees had selected another shortstop, Dennis Sherrill of Miami. "I think he would have liked to go to the Yankees," said Ford's father, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this summer. "I'm sure he's disappointed."

NFL eyes league for Europe soon

NEW YORK (AP) — First Seattle, then the world.

That seems to be the general direction of expansion as the National Football League brought Seattle into its ranks, then on Wednesday seriously was considering opening a separate pro league in Europe next spring.

The NFL owners, who wrap up their three-day meeting today, took Seattle into the fold Tuesday. On Wednesday, the owners modified the punt return rule again, then expressed enthusiasm over the proposal of a six-team, six-week league in Europe, recommended to start next spring.

Bob Kap, active in European soccer and instrumental in bringing several soccer-style kickers to the United States, presented the plan. The teams would be stocked by players from the NFL, who would return then to the U.S. for the regular NFL fall season.

The proposed cities are: Istanbul, nicknamed the Conquerors; Rome, nicknamed the Gladiators; West Berlin; Barcelona; Munich, and Vienna. Except for Istanbul, which has a stadium that seats 55,000, all these cities have stadiums with seating capacities of more than 75,000.

Seattle and Tampa, which was voted into the NFL in April, raised the NFL ranks to 28 teams. Both clubs are to begin play in 1976, although the timetable could be moved moved up a year, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle says.

As for the punt rule, last season, any player on the punting team could race downfield to cover the kick when the ball was snapped. In April, the NFL attempted to stimulate more punt returns by preventing any player from running downfield until the ball was kicked.

Now the rule, given unanimous approval by the owners, allows for a wide receiver on each side to leave the line of scrimmage when the ball is snapped, the rest of the players after the kick.

Several teams, including Cincinnati and Oakland, experimented with the April rule change and "discovered that the man covering the punt wasn't able to get within 12-13 yards of the punt return man," Rozelle said.

Several coaches have said that if their punt coverage team couldn't get downfield, they would instruct their punter to kick out of bounds, preventing any runback.

Dick Baney praises Anderson and Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — When righthander Dick Baney starts for the Cincinnati Reds against Philadelphia Friday it will be more than just another baseball game.

"I will pitch this game harder than any other game I've ever pitched. I really want to win this game," said Baney, who was just recalled by the Reds from their Indianapolis farm team, where he was sent after a spectacularly bad spring training season that saw him achieve an earned run average of 9.00.

Baney said that after he was recalled to the Reds, team president Bob Howsam called him aside for a private talk. Baney wouldn't divulge the details but said "It was very inspirational. I never had that happen before. I really want to do well for the man."

Baney was the last player cut from the Reds this spring.

Last September, the first time the Reds called him up from Indianapolis, he was a pitching sensation and helped the Reds clinch the National League West division championship.

Once he went back to Indianapolis last spring his pitching picked up giving him a 4-2 record. His final game was a one-hitter against Tulsa.

"I was disappointed when I went back to Indianapolis," Baney said. "But (Reds manager George) "Sparky" (Anderson) handled it like a man. He left me some hope. He took all the time in the world explaining why he was sending me down and listening to what I had to say. He gave me incentive to work hard, and in baseball incentive means a lot."

Baney said he was outpitched last spring and has no gripes over having been sent back to Indianapolis for a time.

"Sparky is a man of his word," Baney added. "He told me if I did well and he needed pitching he would call me up and I was the first one he called."

Baney replaced lefty Pat Osburn who was sent to Indianapolis.

Baney starts Friday because lefthander Fred Norman has a pulled rib cage muscle.

Cincinnati picks in free agent draft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Except for Lynn Jones, a 5-foot-9, 21-year-old pitcher from Harmonsburg, Pa., the Cincinnati Reds chose all their players taller than six feet in the Major League Baseball draft.

Jones, an outfielder, was taken in the 10th round. Michael LaCoss, a 6-foot-4, 175 pound, 18-year-old pitcher from Visalia, Calif., was the tallest. He was chosen in the third round.

Others drafted by Cincinnati, included: Steve Reed, 18, pitcher, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Michael Grace, 17, third baseman, Pontiac, Mich.; James Reeves, 20, outfielder, Beaumont, Tex.; Curtis Henderson, 22, infielder, Houston, Tex.

Mark Pearson, 18, pitcher, Alton, Ill.; Brad Bush, 18, catcher, Paris, Tex.; Jeff Hansen, 18, outfielder, Sacramento, Calif.; Ron Oester, 18, shortstop, Cincinnati; Jerry Christensen, 18, pitcher, Albuquerque, N.M.

Charles Renneau, 18, pitcher, El Cajon, Calif.; Paul Marshall, 19, outfielder, Sheridan, Wyo.; Robert Constatine, 18, third baseman, Altasente, Springs, Fla.; Daniel Norman, 19, first base, Barstow, Calif.; Charles Waldrop, 18, pitcher, Herrin, Ill.; Randy Walraven, 18, pitcher,Alvarado, Tex.

Tim Doerr, 22, infielder, Los Angeles, Calif.; Brice Kinnaman, 17, catcher, Cambridge, Md.; Bill Baggett, 18, outfielder, Houston, Tex.; Charles Neal, 18, pitcher, Houston, Tex.; John Barron, 18, pitcher, Cameron, Tex.; and Dean Grauman, 21, shortstop, Granite, Okla.

Wheels blast Mustangers; Jets outlast Levi Boys

The Jets and Wheels were victorius last night and the Charge-A-Checks picked up a win on Tuesday evening in the Little League major play. The Jets outlasted the Levi Boys 10-7, the Wheels blasted the Mustangers 16-1, and the Charge-A-Checks whipped the Downtown Drug 9-2.

Slugging was the key to victory in the games as the Jets pounded out thirteen hits while receiving doubles from Clark Lee and Don Bellar. Todd Warnecke had the only extra-base hit for the Levi Boys. Dwayne Noel was the winning pitcher and Charles Wheeler was the loser.

The Wheels ripped the Mustangers' pitching for ten hits while scoring fourteen runs in the first three innings. Jack Persinger doubled twice for the winners. The winning pitcher was John Belles and Martin Leaverton took the loss.

The Charge-A-Checks got a ten-hit attack and a double from Greg Bentley and went on to defeat the Druggists. Rick Leisure took the win for the Charge-A-Checks and Earl McDaniel absorbed the loss.

In minor league action, Sagars blasted the Loafers 21-6 and County Bank whipped the Eagles 16-8. The fourteen hit Sagar attack was paced by triples by John Enocks and Brian Dunn while Fred Jones and Dunn also homered. The Loafers received a triple from Bob Smith. Ken Eddlemon got the win while Jim Chaney took the loss.

County Bank got eleven hits including triples by Mike Shaw and Jeff Hollar in addition to a homer by David Clay. Steve Vermillion got the win for the Bankers while Don Stritenberger took the loss.

Pitching marks game with Girtons, Willis

In Fayette Babe Ruth League action last night, Girtons knocked off Willis Insurance by a score of 3-2. Both teams received good pitching performances from Girtons' Jeff Elliott and Willis's Davie Van Dyke.

Elliott hurled a complete game allowing only two runs on three hits while striking out ten and walking only two. Van Dyke also went the distance and allowed only three runs on three base hits while striking out seven and walking just one.

Girtons' three hits were collected by Elliott and Shawn Riley who had two. Willis's three hits were collected by Joe Black, Gary English, and Van Dyke.

The game gives both teams identical 1-1 records for the young season. Tonight the Medics play Craigs and Sabina travels to Bloomingburg.

Toledo Mud Hens defeat Red Sox, 5-4

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Alan Bannister's 10th-inning single scored Tom Silicato with the winning run to give the Toledo Mud Hens a 5-4 International League victory over the Pawtucket Red Sox Wednesday night.

Silicato had opened the winning rally with a double to right center field against loser Dick Colpaert, 0-1, the fifth of a half-dozen Red Sox pitchers used. Silicato advanced to third on a ground out to first base by Harry Saferight and remained there as Blas Santana was given an intentional walk.

Girls' sports scores

The Advertiser played the girls from Hidy's last night and Hidys came away the winner 25-5. Sandy Hanness and Vickie Fillmore smacked home runs in the game. The game was played in the A division.

In the B division, Graham's Crackers lost to Hidy's 11-7. Joni Gardner and Becky Toole slapped home runs in this game. In another game in the B division, Mac Tools beat the V.F.W. girls by a score of 18-11. Kathy Honners smashed a home run.

Maxflis Wednesday night leaders again

Maxflis increased their lead in the Wednesday Night Golf League to a full four points behind a 16-4 shelling of the Titleists. In other action last night, the Reds whipped the Blue Max 13-7 and the Tourneys overwhelmed the Top Flites 15½-4½.

William Howard of the Tourneys carded low score for the evening with a 41. Richard Kimmett had low score for the Reds with a 42, Everett Rudolph and David Boswell carded 46's for the Blue Max, Jim Morrison fired a 43 for the Top Flites, Ralph Tate had low score for the Titleists with a 47, and Irvin Reeves, Ralph Hyer, and Gerald Begin all carded 44's for the Maxflis.

Next weeks action finds the Reds playing the Titleists, the Tourneys taking on the Maxflis, and the Blue Max squaring off against the Top Flites.

Foster weaves neat four hitter

Post 25 routed in season opener

Post 25 of Washington C. H. was tripped up by Post 62 from Chillicothe in the season opener at WSHS baseball diamond. The final score was 7-1 behind a strong pitching performance by 62's Jon Foster.

Foster hurled the entire seven innings while allowing only one earned run in addition to rendering four hits and five walks while striking out six. Post 25 used a pair of pitchers during the game. Jeff Green started the game and went five innings while allowing no earned runs, just three hits, and five walks, while striking out two. Howard Boggs came on in the sixth and gave up four runs on five hits while striking out one in his two innings.

Chillicothe drew first blood in the second inning as Mike Ratzlaff reached first on an error. He advanced to third on catcher Greg Justus' single and brother Mark Justus walked to load the bases. Foster then walked to score the first run and shortstop Mick Shoemaker's ground out scored another making the score 2-0.

Post 62 scored another unearned run in the fourth to make it 3-0. Center fielder Tim Clemmons reached first on an error, took second on the overthrow, and scored on a single to left by Mark Justus.

Chillicothe pushed across four insurance runs in the seventh to clinch the victory. Five singles by Kirk Hitchens, Mark Shoemaker, Ratzlaff, Clemmons, and Mark Justus brought the lead to 7-0.

Post 25 saved themselves from a shutout loss in the bottom of the seventh when shortstop Steve Haines was hit by a pitch, took second on a passed ball, and scored on center fielder Mark Johnson's Texas league single into right-center.

Although Post 62 outhit Post 25 8-4, perhaps the most outstanding statistic is in the defensive category. Post 25 committed three costly errors while Post 62 played errorless baseball.

Post 25, now 0-1 on the season, travel to Hillsboro on Sat. afternoon, June 8 for a doubleheader and return home the next day for a doubleheader against Greenfield.

Tribe protests forfeit to Texas

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Texas Ranger Manager Billy Martin says the Cleveland Indians management is trying to save face by filing a formal protest against the Tribe's forfeiture of the pair's violence-ridden Tuesday night baseball game.

"They should do what the President (Nixon) didn't do," Martin said. "Just come out an admit they made some mistakes and that they will do everything they can do to prevent it from happening again."

Martin said the actions of Indian General Manager Phil Seghi and Executive Vice President Ted Bonda were "ridiculous."

The Indians filed a formal protest to the forfeiture with American League President Lee MacPhail Wednesday morning.

"While we deplore the incidents which lead to the forfeiture, we also feel that there was no warning given to the fans during the course of the game by the umpires that any continuation of interruptions of play would lead to a declaration of a forfeiture of the game," the protest telegram said.

Limber Legs wins Lebanon feature

Gary Player Philadelphia Golf favorite

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Player's here. And, by his mere presence, the gritty little South African must be ranked high among the favorites for the $30,000 first prize in the Philadelphia Golf Classic.

But the diminutive golfer from Johannesburg is having trouble keeping his thoughts centered on this 72-hole test that began today on the Whitemarsh Valley Golf Club course.

His thoughts keep straying to Winged Foot at Mamaroneck, N.Y., site of next week's United States Open Championship.

"It's very much on my mind," said Player, the current Masters champion who seeks a second leg on the unaccomplished Grand Slam of Golf.

"The Grand Slam can be accomplished," Player insisted. "You have to be playing very well, of course. And your putting has to be exceptional. Winged Foot will place a premium on putting.

"And you have to have the breaks. You have to have good luck in the draw, in the half of the field you're playing in, in the weather, in a lot of factors.

"But it can be done. Oh, yes, it can be done."

It hasn't been before. No one ever has won the Masters, U.S. and British opens and the PGA in a single season. Only Player, Jack Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen have won them all in a career. Player needs another U.S. Open title to join Nicklaus as the only man to win all four crowns twice.

He said he is playing here only because of a sense of responsibility to the sponsors, who gave his friend Vincent Tshabalala, a black South African golfer, an exemption.

Tshabalala, under Player's sponsorship, is completing a three-tournament swing through the United States at Winged Foot.

Others in the 144-man field chasing a total purse of $150,000 are defending champion Tom Weiskopf, U.S. Open king Johnny Miller and Buddy Allin and Hubert Green.

Cleveland picks draftees in majors free agent draft

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Brennan, a right-handed pitcher from Lewis College, was the Cleveland Indians' first choice in the 1974 Major League baseball draft Wednesday.

Brennan is 21 and is from Oak Lawn, Ill.

The Indians picked 18-yearold Ricky Howerton second. He is a recent graduate of Taft High School in Canoga Park, Calif.

A left-handed pitcher, John Arnold, was chosen next. Arnold is 17 and from Effingham, Ill.

The Tribe then picked up Stanley Mann, 21, a shortstop from Afton, Mo.; Alonzo Bass, 21, a pitcher from Cayce, S.C.; Karl Schroeder, 17, a pitcher from Oklahoma City, Okla., and Steven Hanson, 18, a pitcher from North Linthicum, Md.

Other Indian selections were:

Michael Frazier, 21, catcher-outfielder, Houston, Tex.; Ward Wilson, 18, catcher, Dunedin, Fla.; Steven Van Deren, catcher, 19, Bayside, Calif.; Thomas Sowles, 21, outfielder, Coldwater, Mich.; Steven Widner, pitcher, 17, Corryton, Tenn.; Stanley Maffey, 19, outfielder, Boise, Idaho; David Adeimy, 18, catcher, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Steven Huusfeldt, 18, pitcher, Whittier, Calif.; Orlando Gonzalez, 21, Miami, Fla.; Hurley Mitchell, 18, pitcher, Coeburn, Fla.; Jerry Stamps, 21, Bessemer, Ala.; Michael Jones, 17, pitcher, Orlando, Fla.; Ben Heise,, a shortstop attending the University of Arizona, and David Gallino, a shortstop from El Sabrante, Calif.

Cleveland Indians purchase Joe Lis

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians purchased Joe Lis from the Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

Lis plays first base and outfield. He is hitting .175 in 23 games for the Twins. Lis is a 28-year-old native of Somerville, N.J.

Dwain Anderson, a utility infielder, was sent back to Oklahoma City to make room for Lis.

Publish or perish formula unchanged

BOSTON (AP) — A good college lecturer had better publish his thoughts if he hopes to get ahead in the academic world, a sociologist finds.

William C. Yoels, a Boston University sociologist, took a statistical look at the career of fellow sociology professors and their promotions.

He found that less than 4 per cent of the faculty in the nation's top 20 college departments of sociology got promoted without having published books and articles to buttress their teaching reputations.

Campers rent, save

NEW YORK(AP)- Camping families who want to travel long distances can save both time and money by driving or flying to a distant location and renting a camping unit. Writing in the 1974 edition of the Rand McNally Campground and Trailer Park Guide, author Connie B. Howes advises that destination-rental is a means of avoiding the investment-maintenance cost of owning a camper. It also leaves more time fore exploring the area the camper wants to visit.

The first horseless carriage with a fare meter was built by the Diamler Motor Co. and put on the streets of Stuttgart, Germany, in 1897, according to the National Geographic Society.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

There are many highly talented players who do extremely well by executing fantastic squeezes, extremely rare Deschapelles coups, and sundry other feats of magic. But the fact is that these very same players are ofttimes the victims — rather than the architects — of these exploits, and that they suffer even as you and I in such situations.

Consider this deal where the renowned expert, Benito Garozzo of Italy, held the West hand in a match against Austria. South's two club bid was strong and artificial, and Garozzo's double showed clubs. Declarer eventually got to six hearts doubled and Garozzo had to choose between a spade and a club lead.

He reasoned that declarer might be void of spades — judging from North's double of four spades and East's willingness to play four spades doubled — and accordingly Garozzo led the king of clubs. This proved to be an error — a spade lead would have stopped the slam — when declarer took the ace of clubs and played eight rounds of trumps to produce this position:

Declarer now led the five of trumps, forcing Garozzo to part with the king of diamonds, whereupon declarer discarded a spade from dummy, played a club, and so made the slam. South had caused one of his losers to disappear, just as Garozzo had so often done to so many of his opponents.

Speaking of Your Health...

The Water Diet

The water diet, which has been so popular for reducing weight, has come into unfavorable notice because of a recent study reported in the "Journal of the American Medical Association."

This diet, sometimes referred to as the Stillman diet, is based on a regime high in animal fat and protein. In addition, there is a marked restriction of carbohydrates. Fundamental to the diet is the need to drink at least eight glasses of water a day.

A group of research workers at the Harvard Medical School and the Peter Brent Brigham Hospital in Boston have found that their subjects in this "water diet" study consumed more than twice the amount of cholesterol normally found in the average American diet.

It was true that the subjects studied lost weight. There was, however, an immediate rise in the cholesterol levels of the blood. This rise was so marked that it is considered risky for people in the middle-age group, and especially for those who may have heart disease.

Although healthy young adults are not as readily harmed by such sudden increase of cholesterol, repeated, or prolonged use of such a diet, even in the young, may be potentially dangerous.

The general conclusion is that there are many safer, and more permanent, ways of losing weight.

* * *

A wave of confusing information seems to have struck the American people because of overemphasis in the media about a condition known as Reye's disease.

This rare, very rare, disease has been observed by physicians and recognized as a complication of a virus infection.

Doctors themselves have not induced in their patients any fears about this condition. But unfortunately, Reye's disease became eyecatching in the media. Symptoms, all of which could be applied to many other diseases, created panic in the minds of some mothers who identified their children's symptoms with this unusual condition.

If you are one of those who have been frightened by the reports, disregard these anxiety-producing details and continue to take the sound medical advice that only your physician can offer.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's a spewing smokestack. It's litter in the streets. It's a river where fish can't live.

You know what pollution is.

But not everyone does.

So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.

Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution.

People can stop it.

Columbus lawyer charged with contempt of court

A Columbus attorney has been held in contempt of court by Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Fred L. Newson is facing a charge of contempt of court for not informing his client, Michael Marmura, of Reynoldsburg, of his court date, which was to have been Monday.

Marmura and Robert Lemons, of Greenfield, were both scheduled to appear in court Monday to face charges of sale and possession of pornography.

Judge Coffman explained the incident this way:

Arraignments for Lemons and Marmura took place around March 20, 1974. Fred L. Newsom, an attorney from Columbus, appeared with both defendants as their counsel of record. Court files substantiate this fact.

At the arraignment, the court placed both defendants under bond and suggested three trial dates, which Newsom could consider and choose from.

By April 4, no response was given to the court as a choice a of trial date, so the court addressed a letter to Newsom and a letter to prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger, expressing no choice had been made the the court had chosen June 3 as the trial date. No one indicated any conflict.

Rules of criminal procedure provide that notice of trial date be given to counsel and if there is no counsel, then to the defendants themselves.

Attorney John C. Bryant entered his appearance as counsel for Lemons by filing a letter on april 27, which is contained in the clerk of courts file.

At no time did Newsom request the right to be withdrawn as counsel of record for either case and Marmura retained Newsom's services paid him a fee throughout the entire case.

On May 31 the court learned that Bryan and his defendant, Lemons, were not notified of the June 3 trial date.

The court immediately called Newsom for an explanation. Newsom admitted his files contained the letter sent on April 10 and he had failed to tell Lemons and Marmura of the court date, but assured the court he'd prepare himself or have another counsel prepared for the 9 a.m. trial Monday.

When Monday arrived, the jury and counsel for the state and Bryan were present in court. Neither defendant, nor Newsom were present.

At 9:45 a.m., Bryan's client, Lemons, arrived and indicated he had no notice of this trial and consequently could not notify Bryan.

Marmuar didn't appear until noon and had been advised at 8:40 a.m. Monday by Newsom that the trial was at 9 a.m. that morning, but he needn't appear because a continuance would be requested.

The court sent word to Newsom to appear and warned him about contempt for his failure to appear and for neglecting his cleints.

Around 11:45 a.m., Newsom appeared in the presence of the court and produced the letter of notification from the court of the trial date.

Neither of the defendants bonds ended up being forfeited and Newsom was held in contempt of court and judgment on this contempt will be held in the future.

The jury was dismissed in mid-morning with apologies from the court for the failure of the appearance of the necessary parties.

Lemons and Marmura's trial will be scheduled for a future date, Judge Coffman concluded.

Riding club meets

A swimming party preceded the meeting of the Happy Trails Riding Club held Monday at a Cedarhurst cottage.

The group discussed future activities and set the dates for the next two trail rides. The first will be held Saturday and Sunday at Tar Hollow, the second will be the weekend of June 22 and 23. The location of the latter ride will be announced later.

The design of a club shoulder patch will be sent to a specialty company so that members can get an estimate of cost. Possible designs for a club membership card were also discussed.

The next meeting will be held July 1 at the home of Ms. Julie Gordon, Ohio 38-N.

Authorities probe unusual accidents

Both the Washington C.H. Police Department and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported rather unusual accidents today.

When Frank J. Queen "popped a wheelie" on his motorcycle at 9 p.m. yesterday, he "popped" off, police said.

The motorcycle continued down Fourth Street, near the Maple Street intersection without him, until it collided with a parked car owned by Kenneth R. Self, 624 Fourth St.

Queen, who is 20 and lives at 530 Third St., suffered abrasions to both knees, but was not treated. The cycle and the car were slightly damaged.

Police charged Queen with reckless operation and no operator's license.

An unidentified car pulled into the door frame and several cases of beer, while attempting to enter the Sagar Dairy drive-through on W. Elm Street, at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

After hesitating a few moments, the car drove off leaving behind many broken bottles of beer and a damaged door, police reported.

The driver of the car is being sought.

Woody Hayes in hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Woodrow "Woody" Hayes, Ohio State University football coach, was admitted to University Hospital today and taken to the Coronary Care Unit.

Hospital officials refused to confirm Hayes, Ohio State's football coach for the last 24 years, had suffered a heart attack.

A hospital spokesman said, however, that the 61-year-old Hayes was "in guarded condition until such time as final diagnosis can be established."

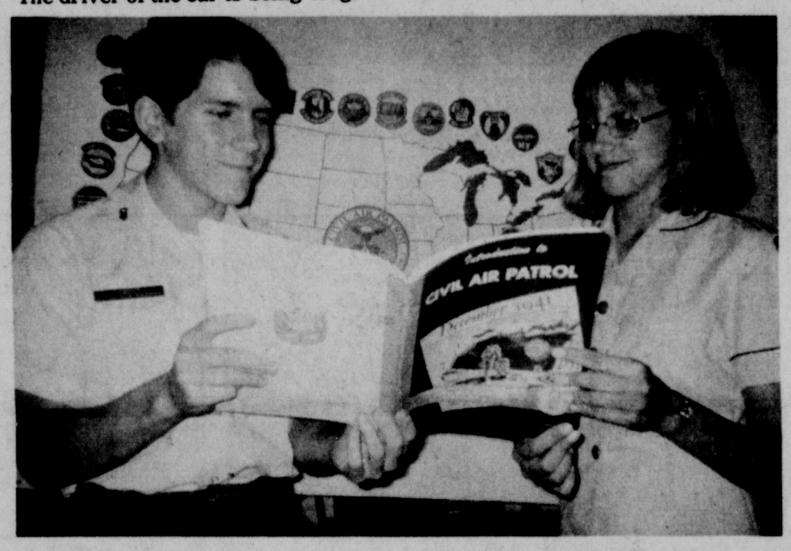

Hayes, who has produced three national and nine conference championships, was at home when he became ill early this morning. He was admitted to the hospital at 8 a.m.

The longtime Buckeye mentor was picked up at his residence by suburban Upper Arlington police and taken to the hospital.

The hospital spokesman acknowledged Hayes was being treated as a coronary type patient.

George Hill, Hayes' top assistant coach, said his boss had not complained of feeling ill in the last few days at staff meetings.

"He's been tired," said Hill, the Ohio State defensive coordinator, "but we've all been that way."

STUDING UP—Bob Rhonamus and Michelle Knisley are two members of the Civil Air Patrol who will be answering questions about the patrol. They are shown here reviewing the cadet manual to find points of special interest.

Civil Air Patrol recruiting

Civil Air Patrol Squadron 1206, of Washington C.H., will be seeking to enroll new members Friday and Saturday.

Cadets will be stationed at Buckeye Mart and Seaway as well as uptown to allow passersby to learn more about the patrol. They will be distributing pamphlets about the patrol and ink pens while accepting donations for the program.

New members must be between the ages of 13 and 18. Those who are interested should make a point to talk with one of the cadets or attend one of the patrol's meetings which are held at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Paul E. Woods, 335-4644.

Paint Creek Lake allocations set

An allocation of $762,000 for construction at Paint Creek Lake is among the five allocation, totaling more than $13 million, for public works projects in the sixth district which are included in legislation reported out of the House Appropriations Committee recently. It is expected to come up for a vote in the House Thursday, Congressman William H. Harsha said.

The other allocations for this district are Alum Creek $3.5 million; Caesar Creek $4.5 million; Chillicothe floodwall $300,000; East Fork Lake $4.5 million.

Jennifer O'Neill plans wedding

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Actress and model Jennifer O'Neill has confirmed she plans to marry Elliot Gould.

Miss O'Neill said in an interview published here Wednesday that she would probably marry the actor after they finish a film together in Europe this fall. Miss O'Neill, who has been married once before, is in Springfield filming "The Reincarnation of Peter Proud."

Gould's first marriage, to Barbra Streisand, ended in divorce. He married actress Jennifer Bogart last December, but they also have parted.

Collision kills Ohioan

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Amos Bumpers Jr., 27, of suburban Mount Healthy, was killed Wednesday in a head-on collision on Winton Road near North Bend Road, Cincinnati Police said.

Hemlock timber has many unfavorable commercial qualities but its cheapness makes it useful as coarse lumber and rough dimension stock.

Tot's life saved by firemen

The first aid knowledge the men of the Washington C.H. Fire Department possess paid off in the price of a human life at 4:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Karen Tompson, 215 Central Place, ran into the fire station screaming for help. Her nine month-old daughter, Amy, was choking.

Lt. Cecil Seaman took Amy by the feet, turned her upside down and slapped her on the back. A piece of leather came out.

Lt. Seaman then drove the child and her mother to Fayette Memiorial.

Leave Watergate to courts: Reagan

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— It's time to leave Watergate to the courts, California Gov. Ronald Reagan told Summit County Republicans on Wednesday.

"We're all upset about Watergate. We've been on the receiving end of too many such shenanigans to see any virtue in this one," the governor said.

But he added to thunderous applause that it's time for GOP standard bearers to stand and fight to save the two-party system.

Welding equipment is reported stolen

Equipment used for welding was taken from a Mount Sterling man's property and windows were broken at Milledgeville Elementary School, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. Washington C.H. Police are investigating the vandalism of eight semi trailers and reported two dog bite injuries.

An acetylene regulator valued at $141, an oxygen gauge and other items used for welding valued at $120 were taken from property in Madison Mills, owned by Herschel Mickel Sr., Mount Sterling.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported, the theft took place sometime last month.

Nine 12 inch by 20 inch windows were broken with chunks of blacktop at Milledgeville Elementary School sometime between 4:30 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies estimated the damage at $30.

Fifty-two tail lights and clearance marker lights were broken on eight semi trailers, while they were parked in the lot next to the Washington Coal Co. on West Temple Street, sometime between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The trailers are owned by National Convoy Inc., Tulsa, Okla. and damage was estimated at $100 by City Police, who are investigating the vandalism incident.

Two Washington C.H. boys were treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital after being bitten by dogs while riding their bicycles Wednesday.

John Elzy, 10, of 324 W. Market St., was bitten on the right leg at 4 p.m. at 417 W. Temple Street and Myron Brown, 7, of 1036 Willard St., was bitten on the left arm at 3 p.m., in the vicinity of 1000 Willard Street.

KIDNAPED — Lord Donoughmore, 71, an Irish peer, above, and his wife, are missing and believed kidnaped by the Irish Republican Army, according to police in Ireland. They say that three armed, masked men invaded Donoughmore's home and abducted him and his wife.

More action expected today

Assembly OKs major bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Both houses of the legislature face more major bills today following marathon sessions Wednesday that sent a packet of important bills to Gov. John J. Gilligan.

The House was set to consider a measure to regulate "twice-a-month" blood donor centers blamed for hepatitis in several cities, while senators called up a constitutional amendment to extend the term of the director of public works.

During a long day Wednesday, there were these top developments:

—Senate Republicans, clinging to their claim of a major budget surplus, added about $40 million to Gilligan's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill, most of it for tax relief.

—The House concurred in Senate amendments and sent the governor bills permitting right turns on red at intersections and letting a child 12 or over pick between separating parents in divorce proceedings.

—Senators agreed to House changes and completed passage of measures taking unemployment coverage away from nonteaching school employes during summer months, expanding urban development (impacted city) laws to include construction of parking garages, and creating a state fund for deposit of black lung insurance funds by coal operators.

—The House agreed to a joint conference committee report on a bill giving Ohio a "no fault" divorce law allowing couples to have marriages dissolved. The Senate still must act on the report.

—Senators soundly rejected a bill that would let the state regulate the use of information about citizens stored in consumer credit and other types of computers. One opponent charged it would only serve to create a state information "czar" in the Department of Administrative Services. Defeated 10-21, the bill is dead at least for this session.

—The Senate added its approval to a House measure outlawing so-called pyramid sales plans in Ohio such as chain letters and similar schemes. It now must go back to the House for consideration of amendments.

—The House approved Senate changes in a bill requiring slow moving vehicles to have lights visible from 1,000 feet at night. It goes to the governor.

—Senators approved and sent to the House a bill extending the ban against gas and oil drilling in Lake Erie from July 1, 1974 to July 1, 1976. The House already had passed a similar measure that prolongs the ban until 1977. A conference committee is expected.

—The House defeated 45-47 (with 50 required) a major bill that would let the Department of Natural Resources, with legislative approval, establish and regulate a flood plain management system for the state. Those who balked at the legislation feared it could become "a land grab," they said.

—The House approved 91-1 a major Senate bill establishing a "bill of rights" for mental patients. It clarifies commitment protections, assures periodic review of the status of patients, including hearings, and establishes their civil rights upon release, including those of employment.

Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, is sponsor of the blood donor bill aimed at newly established "plasmaphereses" centers which extract blood, remove plasma, and reinject the portion left, including red cells, back into the donor's blood stream.

More than a half dozen centers currently are operating in Columbus, Akron, Toledo, and other cities under no federal or state regulations. The new extraction process enables donors to sell their blood as often as once every two weeks.

Unsanitary conditions and other problems with the centers have resulted in at least 50 cases of hepatitis in scattered areas of Ohio, health department spokesman have tesitfied. The centers would have to obtain licenses and undergo periodic inspections under the pending bill.

If approved by both chambers, Ohioans would decide next November whether to change the term of the director of public works from one year, under the amendment before the Senate. It would let him serve at the pleasure of the governor, rather than have the chief exedcutive face the formality of an appointment or reappointment every 12 months.

GOP wants to spend more

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Majority Republicans in the Ohio Senate are ready to tack about $40 million on Gov. John J. Gilligan's $43.5 million supplemental appropriations bill.

Sen. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, reiterating his claim of a state surplus "of at least $50 million," announced the GOP "approach to state needs" Wednesday.

He is chairman of a Senate Finance Subcommittee which is considering how to spend initial profits from the new state lottery—estimated at $43.5 million by Gilligan for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Subcommittee members, three Republicans and two Democrats, get down to work on specific amendments today. Democrats will repeat their claim of no surplus.

The Republican bill, sponsored by Dennis, retains $27.4 million of Gilligan's proposal— for Vietnam bonus payments and vocational education construction—but rearranges most other priorities and adds $40.5 million in tax relief.

It takes out of the Gilligan bill such things as $4.5 million to provide free mass transit for citizens over 65.

Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, the majority whip of the Democrat-controlled House, Wednesday gave the subcommittee petitions he said contain the names of 15,000 elderly citizens who want the free transit.

Dennis did not defend GOP deletion of the subsidy, but Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said he believes "the state could help the public transit systems more by providing them with funds for capital improvements."

Also taken out of Gilligan's bill, after being labelled a "pork barrel" by Dennis, were $262,000 for the state to take over three Cleveland parks, $100,000 for Ohio's participation in the 1976 U.S. Bicentennial observation, and $2.7 million for emergency medical treatment in a half-dozen Ohio cities.

The Republican tax package, totaling $40.5 million, includes $30 million for repeal of the personal intangibles tax, $7 million for an increase in the personal exemption under the state income tax from $500 to $600, and expansion of the homestead property tax exemption to slightly higher income brackets.

New items that would be added by Dennis include $3.4 million to reimburse medium size Ohio cities for losses in school subsidies and $1.2 million to purchase military retirement credits for the State Police and Firemen's Pension and Disability Fund.

Dennis also added $5 million for tornado disaster relief for Greene and Hamilton counties.

Sens. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, and Douglas Applegate, D-30 Steubenville, listened almost without comment as Dennis explained the Republican proposal.

Ocasek did say at one point, "It looks more like a tax relief bill than a supplemental appropriations bill."

Name Ehrlichman and Mitchell top coverup figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says the Watergate cover-up by former members of President Nixon's inner circle began almost from the moment the original break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters was discovered.

The prosecutor said Wednesday that John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell "not only falsely withheld their knowledge (of the break-in) from government investigators, but also made use of that superior knowledge in performing various criminal actions designed to frustrate the investigation."

In legal briefs filed with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski said that while former White House domestic adviser Ehrlichman and former Atty. Gen. Mitchell were fully aware of the details of the break-in, they told FBI agents all they knew came from the newspapers.

"The government is prepared to prove that at the time of their respective FBI interviews each defendant had extensive knowledge of the facts surrounding the Watergate break-in, knowledge which far exceeded that of the investigators themselves," Jaworski said.

He filed the briefs in preparation for the Sept. 9 trial of Mitchell, Ehrlichman and four others accused in the cover-up.

Among other accusations, Mitchell and Ehrlichman are charged with lying to the FBI agents who interviewed them.

Both say the law under which they were charged with lying does not cover investigations like the one into the original Watergate break-in.

In his brief, Jaworski argued that while there are a few cases in which lying to FBI agents has proven to be a nonconvictable offense, this is not one of them.

Instead, he said the course of the investigation "provides an unfortunate example" of the way the Justice Department's job "can be perverted by the submission of false information to its investigators."

Sirica has scheduled hearings next week on various requests from the defendants, who are seeking dismissal of the charges, a different trial location and access to all evidence gathered by Jaworski's staff.

Also Wednesday, the President's two brothers, F. Donald and Edward Nixon, appeared before staff investigators of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., said the brothers declined to answer some questions put to them and failed to appear at a second session. An attorney for the brothers, Elmer Stone, said they were "in full compliance" with the committee's subpoena to testify in connection with an investigation of money given by billionaire Howard Hughes to C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, the President's close friend.

Earlier this year, the committee reportedly received testimony from Herbert V. Kalmbach, the President's former personal attorney, linking the brothers to gifts allegedly made from a $100,000 Hughes payment to Rebozo.

Middle East POW exchange complete

By The Associated Press

Israel and Syria exchanged their last POWs from the October war today, and Red Cross planes flew them home from Tel Aviv and Damascus.

Israeli soldiers before dawn released 367 Syrians, 10 Iraqis and five Moroccans captured on the Golan Heights and loaded them on a Swissair jumbo jetliner and a United Nations Fokker Friendship for the hour-long flight to Syria.

As the planes left Israel, a third Red Cross flight departed from Damascus with 56 smiling Israeli POWs aboard.

The Israelis, in khaki fatigues and bare headed, entered the plane under the silent gaze of hundreds of Syrian men, women and children gathered to welcome their soldiers.

The POW exchange promised in the disengagement pact negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began Saturday when Syria exchanged 12 wounded Israelis for 25 wounded Syrians and one Moroccan.

As the prisoners left for home, United Nations peacekeeping troops began patrolling the cease-fire line on the Golan Heights.

Wildly jubilant crowds of Israelis and Syrians poured onto the airfields at Damascus and outside Tel Aviv to welcome the POWs home.

Hundreds of frantic Israelis, shouting with joy after months of worry, surged around the plane from the Syrian capital and lifted the freed men onto their shoulders.

Welcoming ceremonies collapsed in chaos as the crowds fought past police barriers.

Girl soldiers in miniskirts pushed through the jostling mob, handing flowers to the bewildered POWs.

The scene at the Damascus airport was even wilder.

Thousands of jubilant Syrians broke through wire barriers and lines of paratroopers to surround the jumbo jet from Israel when it landed. The giant plane had to stop in the middle of the airfield almost a mile from the terminal as waves of men, women and children swarmed across the runways.

'Airline schedule' for space slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans only one manned space flight in the next five years. But starting in 1979, Americans will fly into orbit on an airline schedule, with 725 flights projected over a 12-year period.

That's more than one mission a week, with four to seven persons on each, including a crew of three.

Among the travelers will be men and women scientists and researchers of many lands. The flights will be for working personnel only; there will be no sightseeing trips into space.

Dr. Myron S. Malkin, director of the space shuttle program, said the cost of developing two shuttle vehicles by 1979 will be $5.15 billion—one-fifth the cost of the Apollo program.

He said NASA probably will need seven shuttles in the 1980s, with five extra craft being purchased from the contractor, Rockwell International, at about $250 million each.

To make this launch rate possible, and economical, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is developing the shuttle, a vehicle that will be launched like a rocket, fly like a spaceship and land on a concrete runway like an airliner.

The size of a DC9, an airplane that carries 90 to 110 passengers, it will be able to make 100 or more round trips into orbit.

NASA officials discussed the shuttle and its over-all space transportation plan for the 1980s at a briefing Wednesday. NASA sees itself becoming a "trucking agency" to deliver people and payloads into space for commercial users, other government agencies and foreign governments.

In effect, passengers will buy seats on a shuttle to conduct experiments in orbit for periods up to 30 days, sharing the estimated $10.5 million cost of each mission. An Apollo space mission cost $450 million, and nothing was reuseable.

John F. Yardley, associate administrator for manned space flight, said the shuttle and its two solid fuel launching rockets are reuseable. The rockets will parachute back to earth for recovery.

Initially, the shuttle will be used to place communications, weather and scientific satellites into orbit, eliminating the need for conventional throwaway rockets. If a payload should have trouble, a shuttle crew could fly up to repair or retrieve it.

Far-reaching ethics plan pushed at governors meet

SEATTLE (AP) — The nation's governors have endorsed a far-reaching ethics proposal calling for broad financial disclosure by public officials and reforms in campaign financing.

The resolution, a bid by the 66th National Governors' Conference to bolster the image of government amid the Watergate scandals, was passed unanimously on the meeting's closing day Wednesday, with two abstentions.

A move by New York's Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson to scale down the measure, offered by Wisconsin's Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and Republican Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, was rejected 16 to 9.

Although the conference ended without addressing itself directly to Watergate and the possibility of a presidential impeachment, the need for higher ethical standards in politics was a recurrent theme throughout the four-day session.

Both the governors and many outside speakers said states have outpaced the federal government in the field of political reform and in providing measures to help the nation's consumers.

The resolution declared that "a shadow has been cast across this land that can be best be erased by the bright light of public scrutiny" and pledged vigorous efforts at all levels of government in four areas:

—Campaign financing, including limits and disclosure for contributions and spending, "selected pilot projects to determine feasibility of public campaign financing," independent enforcement and strong penalties.

—Strict ethical codes for government officials, including clear definitions of conflict of interest, "appropriate and timely disclosure of personal finances" by both public officials and candidates and independent enforcement.

—Open meetings of public bodies except in "limited, specific circumstances," with penalties for noncompliance and requirements for advance public notice and written minutes.

—Registration and full disclosure of lobbying activities by all special interest groups.

The governors called on Congress to make permanent the five-year revenue-sharing program adopted in 1972, under which some $5 billion in federal funds is being returned each year to states and localities.

They urged prompt enactment of a federal health insurance program without endorsing a specific plan.

Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, a Utah Democrat, was elected to head the conference for the next year.

Milk fund tape vague, incomplete

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key tape in the milk-fund affair is incomplete and inconclusive, say several House impeachment probers who listened to it.

The recording is of President Nixon ordering an increase in federal milk price supports in 1971. Several members of the House Judiciary Committee who heard it say it neither proves nor disproves whether the President was influenced by a promise of $2 million in campaign donations from dairy cooperatives.

They also say the recording ends abruptly with an exchange between Nixon and then Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

According to Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., Connally said, "I'd like to talk to you for a couple of minutes on another matter." Nixon replied, "Sit down," and the tape recording ended, Rangel said.

The recording was furnished voluntarily by the White House several months ago before it began resisting requests for subpoenas for additional recordings. White House lawyers have said that in such tapes it gave up only portions relevant to Watergate.

The committee devoted the full day Wednesday to reviewing evidence in the milk fund affair. Today it was scheduled to review White House wiretapping of newsmen and administration officials; a plan that Nixon approved briefly to gather domestic intelligence through burglary and surveillance of mail, and activities of the White House plumbers unit that broke into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., said, "I think you can read into it what you want." Froehlich said he heard no evidence of wrongdoing by Nixon, although he said the tape shows the President raised milk prices for political reasons.

Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said: "I was of the opinion that milk prices were increased in response to a pledge of campaign contributions and nothing I heard has dissuaded me. It has only reinforced my opinion."

There was some disagreement as to whether political contributions were discussed at the meeting.

The recording is of a March 23, 1971, meeting among Nixon and seven advisers.

The day before the largest co-op, Associated Milk Producers Inc., gave $10,000 to a Nixon committee. This was the first of what was then promised to be $2 million.

A White Paper issued by The White House has said Nixon ordered the price increase during the afternoon meeting after being urged to do so by Connally. It said Nixon was influenced mainly by pressure for a price increase from Congress. It denies Nixon was influenced by the promise of money and says that although Nixon knew of the $2 million promise that nobody mentioned it at the meeting.

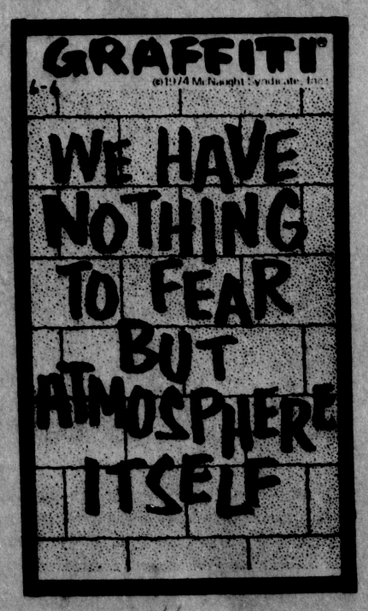

After listening to the tape behind closed doors, Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., said much of the talk dealt with efforts then under way in the House and Senate to raise milk prices through legislation.

Froehlich said that toward the end of the meeting, after Nixon ordered Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to reverse himself and raise prices, "They were talking about getting the best political mileage out of the decision."

He said someone suggested contacting House speaker Carl Albert and Ways and Means chairman Wilbur D. Mills—both of whom wanted a price increase—and using Nixon's decision to influence them to act favorably on the President's legislative program.

The committee also reviewed evidence, details of which had leaked out earlier, showing that dairy cooperative officials tried to raise a quick $300,000 for Nixon within hours after his price support decision, and even before it was announced publicly.

They also read a sworn allegation from former Nixon fund raiser Herbert W. Kalmbach who said the late Murray M. Chotiner asked a top dairy cooperative official on behalf of the White House to reaffirm the $2 million hours before the price increase was announced publicly.

Deaths, Funerals

Smith resigns post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert G. Smith, vice president for university development at Ohio State University, has resigned his post effective Sept. 1.

Grand jury voted to name Nixon as co-conspirator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair today confirmed published reports that a federal grand jury voted earlier this year to name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up.

St. Clair told newsmen he was informed of the grand jury's action three or four weeks ago by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Asked what the President's reaction was, St. Clair said, "his view, of course, is that they just don't have all the evidence ... I think he felt it was quite inappropriate ... He was confident that the true facts would come out in time and that he would be exonerated."

Unindicted co-conspirators are not charged with a crime and cannot be prosecuted under the indictment in which they are named.

The same grand jury returned indictments March 1 against seven former Nixon administration and campaign aides for allegedly conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

The grand jury also handed U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica a sealed report and a satchel filled with evidence it had accumulated on the President's alleged role in Watergate.

The Los Angeles Times reported today that the grand jury had voted 19 to 0 to include the President among the unindicted co-conspirators in the case.

The newspaper said the jurors first said they wanted to include the President among the defendants but were advised by Jaworski that there were legal questions involved in indicting an incumbent president.

St. Clair said the grand jury's action has "no legal effect."

"It wouldn't be the first time a grand jury was wrong," he said.

St. Clair made his comments as he entered a closed session of the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

Asked if they had been told of the grand jury's action, several committee members, including chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said they had not been told.

Sniper slain by policemen

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A shotgun-wielding ex-convict killed a policeman and wounded eight other officers and two civilians before he emerged from a flaming rooming house and was shot to death early today, police said.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said Elza Carr Jr., 33, had held police at bay with an automatic shotgun for more than four hours before he came out of a flaming, tear gas-filled rooming house on Omaha's Near North Side.

The chief said Carr was firing the weapon at officers as he opened a door on the porch. Police returned the fire and Carr was killed, he said.

Andersen said Patrolman Paul Nields, about 26, died at a hospital of a head wound suffered at about 12:45 a.m. when he entered the house as police urged the sniper to surrender.

Authorities said Nields, married and the father of two, was among officers who launched tear gas about 2½ hours after Carr had fired from upstairs in the two-story frame structure.

Flames engulfed the house in late stages of the incident, apparently ignited by tear gas cannisters. Three persons in the house when the shooting started managed to escape uninjured.

Andersen said pellets from the man's weapon had hit eight other officers, a man who had been visiting Carr and a bystander.

WINS GOP NOMINATION — Houston I. Flournoy, 44 California Sate Controller, reaches to shake hands with supporters at his campaign headquarters in Los Angeles after defeating California Lt. Gov. Showers and thundershowers today and tomorrow form the main Ohio weather picture under a flow of warm southerly air into the state.

Spotty showers fell in the western portions of the state during the previous 24 hours with Cincinnati having 0.14 inches and lesser amounts in other spots. High temperatures in Ohio Wednesday ranged from 79 in the Cincinnati area to 84 at Cleveland's Lake Front Airport.

The National Weather Service said the southerly flow of air over the state is likely to continue with the low pressure trough remaining over the plains and high pressure along the East Coast. While the showers are forecast over the western portions of Ohio today there is only a slight chance in the eastern portions.

Considerable cloudiness is forecast for tonight and Friday with a chance of showers over the state. Highs today are expected from 75 to 80 with lows tonight in the 60s and highs Friday in the 70s.

A chance of showers Saturday, fair Sunday and Monday. Warm and humid with highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s.

Heavy rain washes over central U.S.

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms extending from Minnesota to Kansas triggered heavy rains and scattered hail today. The Gulf states also were soaked.

The town of Franklin in southern Nebraska was swanped by 2½ inches of rain in 20 minutes. Ayr, also in southern Nebraska was swamped by 2½ inches of rain in 20 minutes. Ayr, also in southern Nebraska, was hit by golfball-size hail and winds up to 50 miles per hour.

Other storms centered over the South, and a tornado touched down at McAdam in central Mississippi.

Flooding was forecast in Nebraska and Mississippi in the wake of the downpours.

Snow fell across some mountain passes in northern Colorado, resulting in the closing of at least one road.

Clouds shrouded parts of the Far West, but most other sections outside the midcontinent and South were fair to partly cloudy.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 69 at Carlsbad, N.M., to 40 at Evanston, Wyo.

Stock prices in upswing

NEW YORK (AP) — Another prediction of a declining prime rate carried the stock market's recent rally into its fourth day today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.97 at 833.15, and gainers outpaced losers about 5-4 on the New York Stock Exchange. The advance brought the Dow to nearly 31 points above last Friday's close.

A.W. Clausen, president of the Bank of America, told a reporter this morning the prime rate seemed to be at a turning point and could decline sharply once it began heading downward from its present 11½ per cent level. He said he generally agreed with Wednesday's forecast from Walter B. Wriston, chairman of New York's First National City Bank, that the key rate on loans to big business could be as low as 7 to 8 per cent by year-end.

Universal Oil Products was the most-active NYSE issue, up a point at 16.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 83.93. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .19 to 47.72.

Reservoir work upheld by court

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A federal appeals court today upheld continued partial construction of two reservoirs in southern Ohio, despite the lack of adequate environmental impact statements. The court ruled at the same time certain conservative groups, property owners and the Ohio Contractors Association should be allowed to intervene in suits filed against the projects by the State of Ohio.

The decision by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals partially affirmed and partially reversed U.S. District Court action on the suit, which sought a halt of all work at the Caesar Creek Lake project in Warren County and East Fork Reservoir project in Clermont County.

The state last July asked for an injunction to halt both projects on grounds that the Army Corps of Engineers had violated the national Environmental Policy Act by beginning construction of the projects without filing sufficient environmental impact statements.

The state also charged the corps had violated several wildlife and water pollution acts.

The district court later last summer ordered the corps to submit adequate environmental impact statements. It ruled that future contracts would have a substantial impact on the environment and prohibited the corps from stripping away top soil, from relocating and closing roads, from clear-cutting trees, from removing brush and ground cover, and from doing anything else that would alter the natural environment.

But the district court permitted completion of specific phases of the contracts and allowed the corps to continue acquiring land for the projects.

The lower court then refused motions by other parties to intervene on grounds that until the reserviors were actually in existence, any discussion by other parties on their effects would be "speculative."

But the appellate court wrote today, "We are reluctant to prohibit persons from challenging expected violations of water quality standards until reservoirs are actually constructed if it is alleged that the present plan for construction will necessarily cause such a violation."

However, the appellate court agreed that a total shutdown of the projects would not have served the public interest.

The case was sent back to the lower court to permit intervention by the other parties.

Hoffa attacks parole limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former teamsters chief James R. Hoffa says he would have remained in prison had he been aware that President Nixon's pardon barred him from union activities until 1980.

"I would have stayed in prison for two more years. I would not have accepted the restriction," he told reporters Wednesday during a recess in arguments on his suit to eliminate the curb.

Hoffa's attorney, Leonard B. Boudin, contended—and the government conceded—that Hoffa was not told of the restriction until after his release from prison Dec. 23, 1971.

Appeal studied in reserve case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The executive director of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) says the organization will discuss a possible appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court of an appeals court decision in the Reserve Mining Co. case.

A three-judge panel of the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of appeals ruled Tuesday that Reserve's practice of dumping taconite wastes into Lake Superior does not constitute an immediate health hazard.

The appeals court sent the case back to U. S. District Court, however, with instructions that the parties find an acceptable method of disposing of the waste rock on land.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Columbus man fell from the prow of a boat and drowned in 15 feet of water at Hoover Reservoir Wednesday evening.

Police said Bill Suttle apparently lost his balance and fell from the boat.

Alabama girl spelling champ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie Ann Junkin, 12, of Gordo, Ala., won the 47th annual National Spelling Bee today by spelling hydrophyte correctly.

Miss Junkin, representing the Birmingham Post-Herald, won out over Gail Meier, 14, of Bartlett, Tenn., representing the Memphis Press-Scimitar, who mispelled mantelletta.

Miss Junkin then correctly spelled mantelletta and then went on to spell the winning word.

Hydrophyte means a plant growing in water and mantelletta means a knee-length outer garment worn by prelates.

Chocolate pie ends libel suit

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Faced with a choice between a libel suit or surrendering a reporter to be hit with a pie, the University of Washington Daily opted for pie.

At issue was a file photograph of Diane Cheap, a 1970 graduate, as she received a debating award. It was reprinted in the Daily's April 16 issue to illustrate John Snell's column poking fun at beauty contests.

Mrs. Cheap, a high school teacher in Snohomish, Wash., said through her attorney and former debate partner, Arthur D. McGarry, that the article was libelous, slanderous and made her the subject of ridicule among her students.

She threatened a $1,000 libel suit unless the Daily agreed to turn over the person responsible to be hit with a custard pie.

"My first idea was to dump a batch of Kool-Aid on his desk, but I was afraid he'd sue me," she said.

The Daily consulted with college lawyers who said her case looked pretty solid. So on Wednesday afternoon, Snell, McGarry and Mrs. Cheap held a brief ceremony outside the Communications Building.

Snell stood in a bathing suit, swimming flippers and a Tshirt emblazoned with the words "Daily Libel Team."

Mrs. Cheap, switching from custard to chocolate cream at the last minute, piled on a massive helping of whipped cream and let fly.

"If this makes her feel better, it's cool," said Snell, a sophomore from Walla Walla, Wash.

"I've had clients who have gotten more money out of a settlement but not more satisfaction," McGarry said. "If only all libel suits could be so easily settled."

War veterans and officials mark anniversary of D-Day

ST. LAURENT, France (AP) — War veterans and officials from seven countries mark the 30th anniversary of D-Day today with a ceremony at the vast U.S. military cemetery near this Normandy village.

Almost 10,000 servicemen are buried in the cemetery on a cliff overlooking Omaha Beach, the bloodiest of five beaches the Allies stormed on June 6, 1944.

Gen. Omar Bradley, who commanded the Americans at Omaha and adjoining Utah Beach, heads the American delegation to the two-day celebration. About 1,500 Allied veterans of the landing are attending the observance, the biggest ever, of the invasion.

Bradley, at 81 the only living five-star general in the U.S. Army, attended a dinner Wednesday night and the dedication of a museum at Ranville but missed other events. Aides said he found the pace tiring and had to rest.

Ceremonies were held Wednesday at the eastern end of the 40-mile invasion front, where the British, Canadians and a French unit landed at 7:30 a.m. on D-Day.

Two other events were scheduled today to commemorate American feats of arms on DDay.

A unit of U.S. Rangers stationed in Germany was to reenact the climb 225 Rangers make under withering fire up a 100-foot cliff to capture a German strongpoint at Pointe du Hoc. The men of the 2nd Ranger Battalion used ropes and wooden ladders borrowed from the London Fire Brigade to scale the crags.

Some surviving Rangers were on hand to watch the re-enactment.

Some 120 civilian and military parachutists were to jump into the village of Ste. Mere l'Eglise, where the first American paratroopers, from the 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions, landed in France. They met with devastating fire in the square at St. Mere l'Eglise but regrouped and pushed on.

Astronaut Alan Shepard was to be a guest for the jump and later was to show a film of his moon landing.

The longest game of tiddly-winks was played in 1970 by eight Chicago students. The game lasted more than 120 hours.

Investors exercising judgment

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A fascinating change in the investment scene that might pose big problems for professional money managers, but which often is overlooked, is the tendency of investors today to exercise more independence of judgment.

In the 1960s, millions of Americans turned over their savings to money managers with only one request: "Make me some money." The money managers agreed to the arrangements, and sometimes they produced results, too.

Then the disillusionment. The stock market broke, and with it snapped the untested faith of customers in their advisers. So also did the myth of superior wisdom and insight.

Unlike the 1960s, when playing the game was easy, money managers now are being tested. Month after month the assets of mutual funds decline as customers redeem their shares, often at big losses.

To a much greater extent, it seems, small investors are relying on their own wits and knowledge, which in some instances is superior to the advice that was offered by the socalled experts.

Many brokerage houses also are having a tough time competing, even though competition is reduced by the demise of scores of firms.

Money managers can't seem to develop selling programs that have appeal — which is understandable, profit being the only story that all investors believe in. And profits can't be shown in today's market.

In a paper prepared for a Conference Board panel here today on "Portfolio Strategies for the Seventies," the vice president of a major fund group asked:

"Do any of you here really feel that you can set forth a definitive strategy today that you could leave unchanged for a year, much less four or five?"

If this is so, what program can the funds and the brokers sell to their customers? The fund vice president reached this conclusion:

"A soundly conceived and administered investment decision-making process is today's best bet for sound strategy in the 1970s. Our life style is too difficult for it to be otherwise."

1970s. Ten years ago he mightn't have hesitated before putting up his money, and might even had admired the appearance of wisdom.

Anderson Fork hearing set for Sabina June 26

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in cooperation with the Anderson Fork Creek Watershed Steering Committee, will conduct a public hearing in Sabina Wednesday, June 26, to review a request for planning assistance for a watershed project covering a 37-square-mile area in Clinton and Greene counties.

The hearing will start at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Sabina Elementary School, two blocks west of Ohio 729 on Ohio 3. The steering committee's pending application for planning assistance under the federal Small Watershed Act of 1954 will be reviewed at the meeting.

The watershed act authorizes the federal government to give technical and financial help to local organizations in planning and carrying out watershed projects. Local, state and federal units of government cooperate in flood prevention and control, land drainage and the management of water and related land resources. The law is administered by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The application for planning assistance was filed in 1959 and amended in 1970 by the county commissioners of Clinton and Greene counties and the soil and water conservation districts of the two counties. The proposed project area would include the watershed of Anderson Fork in northern Clinton County and southeastern Greene County.

Representatives of the Department of Natural Resources' watershed planning section will be at the meeting to explain the current requirements for carrying out a program under the Small Watershed Act, to assess the watershed community needs and to determine the level of public support for the project.

As stated in the application, the watershed project was requested to reduce flooding and sediment damages to agricultural lands, to reduce erosion, to improve agricultural drainage, to improve wildlife habitat and to enhance agricultural productivity. Although the project is in a pre-planning stage, the sponsors and steering committee forsee the utilization of stream channelization as a part of the project.

Interested citizens are encouraged to attend the hearing to better understand the economic, social and environmental implications of a watershed project for individuals and communities in the watershed area and the surrounding region.

Written statements of support and opposition will be accepted at the public hearing and may also be sent before July 26 to Director William B. Nye, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, 43224.

Ethics probe data sent to Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown has sent transcripts of hearings on alleged campaign abuses to the attorney general to determine if perjury charges should be brought against two witnesses.

Brown said Gary Vigorito and Don L. Hanni Jr., two former campaign workers for U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn, denied under oath they had any part in distributing literature about Glenn's Democratic primary opponent, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum.

Brown said his review of the transcripts showed that four witnesses accused Vigorito, Glenn's former northeastern coordinator, of delivering illegal bumper stickers to Glenn's Youngstown headquarters.

The stickers did not list a source, which is a violation of state election laws.

Two witnesses also said Vigorito delivered to the Mahoning County headquarters a letter linking Metzenbaum with Red Front groups.

Glenn defeated Metzenbaum in the May 7 primary and now faces Republican candidate Ralph Perk, Cleveland mayor, in the November election.

Four witnesses testified that Hanni, formerly Glenn's Mahoning County coordinator, passed out both the letter and the bumper sticker.

Hanni had accused Vigorito of bringing the materials to Youngstown.

The charges came to light after Hanni publicly announced his resignation from the Glenn campaign, in protest, he said, of the campaign literature.

The election law violation carries a $200-$2,000 penalty. Perjury can mean 1-10 years in prison.

OARDC seeks federal aid

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center will seek federal disaster assistance to repair $60,680 tornado damage at its western branch near South Charleston in Clark County. Authorization to apply for the federal aid was among actions recommended by Director Roy M. Kottman and approved recently by the center's board of control, meeting on the campus of Ohio State University.

In other actions, the board approved these appointments to the OARDC faculty. Receiving courtesy appointments were John D. Walker, William E. Gill, and Wilbert C. Geiss.

Dr. Walker was appointed assistant professor in the Department of Agronomy. He is head of the crops technology curriculum at Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute at Wooster, and will cooperate in studies on herbicides and weed control in field crops.

Gill, an Extension agricultural engineer at OSU, was appointed associate professor in the Center's Department of Agricultural Engineering. He will cooperate in research with big-package haymaking machinery and will initiate new research on improving bottom unloaders for silos.

Geiss was appointed to the rank of instructor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. He is an agricultural economics instructor on the ATI faculty and will cooperate in marketing research.

The Board approved a new contract and two industrial grant-in-aid agreements. Total funds involved amount to $40,110.

The contract provides $9,700 from the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to support development of a feasible solid waste management plan for Wayne County. The systems approach study will be conducted by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology.

Coal mine dust hassle develops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers union has accused Consolidation Coal Co. of deliberately falsifying underground mine dust sampling records supplied to the federal government.

The union, in an article in the June 1-15 edition of the UMW Journal, said the U.S. Department of Justice has "launched a major investigation into the allegations," centering on Consolidation's Central Division in eastern Ohio.

A Consolidation spokesman in Pittsburgh confirmed Tuesday that the federal government is apparently conducting an investigation.

However, vice president Hazlett Cochran said, "we have convinced ourselves that we are complying with that law (Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Law) at the present time, with respect to our dust sampling procedures."

The Journal article said Consolidation "allegedly has been substituting dust samples taken during idle shifts when little dust is present in place of regular samples taken during working shifts that proved the company was regularly violating respirable dust regulations."

The story said company officials have allegedly been opening dust sampler cassettes and removing dust to reduce the dust level and falsifying miners' signatures to date cards attesting to the dust levels.

In May, Cochran said, U.S. Marshals appeared at the Central Division office in Cadiz, Ohio, "and took into their possession certain equipment and records pertaining to our dust sampling program . . . .

"Now Consol's policy, and we have also always so instructed our employes, is to fully comply with all laws appliable to our business."

Cochran said Consolidation is cooperating with the federal investigation and is conducting a investigation of its own.

Why Fulbright lost

Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas accepted his defeat for re-election with notable grace and civility, but he was plainly shocked by the size of the vote against him. Gov. Dale Bumpers clobbered him in the Democratic primary, and the question is: Why? The answer seems to lie in a combination of factors.

Bumpers is young, personable, folksy, a prime exemplar of that overused word, "charisma." He has it in abundance, and made excellent use of it. There is little doubt that his popularity brought him many votes.

Bumpers pretty much shied away from explicit discussion of issues. He talked mostly in generalities, and except on one occasion talked at debating his distinguished opponent. This placed Fulbright at a great disadvantage. He is a politician who likes to explore issues; his reputation in the Senate is based on just such a thoughtful approach. Under the circumstances, however, he was unable to draw clear lines between his views and those of his opponent.

Then there was the "throw out the rascals" aspect of the campaign. While Governor Bumpers did not put it quite so crudely, he did dwell on the importance of sending to Washington new men capable of restoring confidence in government. In the Watergate era it was a telling argument.

Fulbright was vulnerable, too, as one who had in some measure lost touch with his constituents while building a national and international reputation as chairman of the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee. The people of Arkansas seem to have concluded that, while this well deserved reputation sheds some glory on their state, they prefer having a senator who will pay more heed to the folks at home and less to foreign affairs. It is a preference they resoundingly expressed. In consequence the Senate has lost one of its ablest members.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by John P. Roche

What era of detente?

There is a fine educational story about a young lady in the third grade who, in connection with a sex education course, interrogated her family.

"How was Mommy born?" she asked her grandmother. Grandma, prepared for almost any problem, replied, "Why, dear, one morning the stork came and left her off with Gramp and me." Dissatisfied, she went to her mother. "Mom, how was I born?" "Well, love, one morning we came down and found you in the middle of the rose garden." The child subsequently reported to her class, "Not a normal birth in our family in three generations."

I was reminded of this by the superb letter about detente that Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn wrote to some members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Congressmen Benjamin Rosenthal (D., N.Y.) and Don Fraser (D., Minn., and National Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action) invited the Soviet exile to testify on the general subject of U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations. Both Representatives have, despite all the evidence to the contrary, persisted in announcing that the "Cold War" is over and a new, harmonious era of detente has replaced it. Rosenthal, in particular, has demonstrated bitter hostility towards the roles of Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe in presenting to the people behind the Iron Curtain certain facts of contemporary life. For example, the role of the Soviets in the Yom Kippur War against Israel.

I never fly false colors. I am, as I told Rep. Rosenthal at a hearing of the House Foreigin Affairs Committee last year, a dedicated supporter of "symmetrical detente," that is, genuine conciliation in which each side gives and each side takes. I am also one of the five-member, bipartisan, United States Board for International Broadcasting, nominated by the President and approved by the Senate, which has the task of overseeing the work of these two radio stations. In short, I admit that I have a, perhaps, irrational addiction for freedom and have no favorite dictatorships. In addition, I do not believe that babies are brought by storks or found in rose gardens. So much for the confessional.

But back to the important matter: Solzhenitsyn's letter. Apologizing for his inability to testify in person, he wrote: "First, what I do not consider to be a relaxation of international tensions is a pseudo-detente. This is a situation when. . .sacramental significance is attached to the signatures and even verbal promises of rulers, who even in their own country never supported their constitution.

"When one side grants a certain number of smiles and even signs agreements, guaranteed by nothing, while the other side generates an endless number of real concessions and services to strengthen (the other). When, with belated astonishment, the agreements signed are discovered to have been interpreted and carried out NOT AS had been understood and expected, so that again and again delegations are sent out to obtain, through additional concessions, the original interpretation."

Solzhenitsyn continued with his indictment of pseudo-detente: "I think that I am not speaking too paradoxically or come too close to the absurd by suggesting that, if during some 10-14 troublesome days the rest of Europe is occupied by, without much effort, by victorious (Soviet) armies, your trans-oceanic country's wrath—and even the drastic measures taken then by your government to end cultural exchange in ballet and operatic performances—will be quickly protested by indignant and reasonable voices in the press and the Senate saying that (Americans) should not ignore reality, that what has happened shouldn't be taken more seriously than what took place in Eastern Europe, that resistance to the aggressor may only enrage his and intensify reactionary forces, and that efforts should be doubled and tripled to achieve further 'dentente'."

Solzhenitsyn has done his homework: when the Soviets invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968, the United States promptly retaliated by cancelling a visit to the "socialist homeland" by the University of Minnesota Band.

But his conclusion is vital: "Detente is not only necessary but mankind's only salvation. . .but it must be truly guaranteed detente. This principle must not be allowed to reel down the treacherous road of self-deception." In short, Congressmen Rosenthal and Fraser: babies are not brought by storks.

"WELL, LOOK WHO'S NOW PAYING FOR A SHORTAGE PROBLEM."

Southeast Ohio 'poor relations'

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's Appalachia Region and the nation's Appalachian states should form a partnership to find a "meaningful solution to their mutual problems, an Athens publisher said Wednesday.

G. Kenner Bush, publisher of the Athens Messenger, said "perhaps a new and highly motivated regional organization could carry a big enough stick" to make somebody listen.

Bush told a luncheon meeting of the Southeastern Ohio Highway Users Conference that the state's 11 Appalachian counties had always been "poor relations" when it came to funding highway projects.

He noted that nine years after its authorization, the 172-mile Appalachian Highway is only half completed.

"Yet during that same period, the state spent $4 billion on interstates up north, and proudly points out that the system is about 95 per cent complete," he said.

Bush, director of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, said the region's efforts for improved highways have found support from the Ohio Contractors Association, U.S. Rep. Clarence F. Miller, R-Ohio, and Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Bush said Gilligan's recent effort to include funding for the Appalachian Highway in a supplemental appropriation's bill "didn't get off first base. But as recently as last week, the governor assured us he would find another way."

The Highway Federation is a national business league which involves more than 600 roadway-rubber tired vehicle companies.

Robert L. Pendergast, the federation's Ohio representative, estimates that about $2 billion is needed for Southeastern Ohio generally during the next 16 years to bring the region's roads, Interstate, primary, secondary and Appalachian to standards necessary to support a potentially strong growth in the region's coal, water and electrical power industries.

"The money would come from the federal aid highway bill and Ohio's constitutional earmarking of gasoline tax money and from other highway users' fees," Pendergast said.

But Bush noted that southeastern Ohio is near the bottom of the list in the share of federal expenditures.

The heart of the state's Appalachian region includes Lawrence, Gallia, Athens, Washington, Meigs, Monroe, Vinton, Jackson, Morgan, Hocking and Noble counties.

Although these counties comprise one-third of the state's land area, they contain only 10 per cent of Ohio's population, Bush said.

"Therein lies the basis of our problem," Bush said. "In Ohio when you're out looking for votes you go north, not southeast.

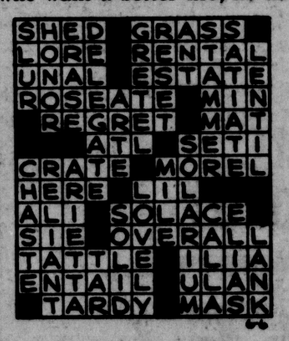

Bush said that the Appalachian highway is more than "just another highway," to the region's residents. "It's the hopes and aspirations of people" who want a better life, he added.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Ignorance is a state of meaning

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the socially active university professor with a Ph.D. who wasn't sure of what R.S.V.P. meant until he saw it in your column: You replied "Ignorance is simply the absence of knowledge which is no crime. We are all ignorant, only on different subjects."

Abby, ignorance is "not knowing something we should know." Nescience is "not knowing something one would have no reasonable expectation of knowing."

Your not knowing the distinction between "ignorance" and "nescience" is nescience on your part. The professor's not knowing the meaning of R.S.V.P. is ignorance on his part. P.J.R.: WORD FREAK

DEAR FREAK: Since words are my tools, I felt ignorant not knowing the meaning of the word "nescience." Then I polled three newspaper editors, two lawyers, a psychiatrist, the heads of the English department in three of our leading universities, a world famous novelist, a United States Supreme Court Justice, and an expert who writes a syndicated column on words, and not ONE of them have ever heard of the word "nescience." So, now I feel more nescient than ignorant.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl, and my problem involves my psychiatrist. I trusted him completely and told him things I never in a million years would tell my mother, because he led me to believe that everything I told him would be held in strictest of confidence.

Can you imagine how I felt when I overheard my mother telling a relative on the phone some of the things I had told my psychiatriast? I can't tell you how this upset me!

In high school I stayed away from counselors, teachers, shrinks, etc. in order to avoid this.

When I saw my pshchiatrist, I asked him why he did this to me. At first he denied it, then he told me that my mother had become "concerned" about me, so he told her everything. Abby, I thought I could trust him, and he betrayed me!

What is the law concerning a doctor's keeping information confidential? He said he had a right to talk to my mother without my permission. Did he? I am not a minor.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Your doctor has committed a breach of ethics, and you would be perfectly justified in reporting him to the Ethics Committee of your local county medical society and-or psychiatric society. I suggest you do just that.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get a reply from a place of business when I write them requesting specific information?

I wrote to these people three times—and even then I was ignored. I didn't ask for any special favors; I inquired about buying something they sell. What is the matter with people these days? Please tell me how to get an answer out of them.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: To insure a reply-and usually a prompt one, enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. If you are ignored, give up. They probably don't need the business, and they certainly don't deserve it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self addressed envelope, please.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, June 6, the 157th day of 1974. There are 208 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1944, Allied forces landed on the Normandy beaches of France. It was DDay of World War II.

On this date —

In 1660, the Peace of Copenhagen ended war between Sweden and Denmark and opened the Baltic to foreign warships.

In 1755, the American patriot, Nathan Hale, was born in Coventry, Conn.

In 1871, Alsace was annexed to Germany after the French were defeated in the FrancoPrussian war.

In 1942, the U.S. aircraft carrier, "Yorktown," was sunk in the Pacific War battle of Midway.

In 1966, the first Black admitted to the University of Mississippi, James Meredith, was slightly wounded by a gunman as Meredith marched along a highway in Mississippi to protest racial policies.

In 1967, Israeli forces carved a 30-mile front along Egypt's Mediterranean coast in the Six-Day War. Egypt closed the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: President Charles de Gaulle of France declared that Communist China must be an integral part of any world peacemaking.

Trash eyed as energy source

Trash is one of Ohio's most abundant potential resources, and the Ohio Enviromental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) is developing a program to harness that potential through energy and resource recovery.

"Ohio has a big solid waste disposal problem," said Dave Sharp, Ohio EPA's solid waste program coordinator, "and we're just recovering from the effects of fuel shortages and scarcities of raw materials."

"By developing a comprehensive state program for resource and energy recovery from trash, we'll be solving a problem with a problem."

Sharp explained that $1 billion worth of energy is contained in the national annual accumulation of trash, equivalent to 290 million barrels of oil. Metals, paper, glass, and other valuable materials can also be removed from the trash for recycling and reuse.

"Right now, we're using garbage disposal methods that were begun by the ancient Romans, like pit burial and burning," Sharp said. "Often, municipal landfills and incinerators results in air and water pollution problems. Even the best systems are having a tough time keeping up with the tremendous yearly increase in trash accumulation," he added.

"It's time to bring solid waste management into the twentieth century."

Sharp said the Ohio solid waste plan, which was announced by Governor John J. Gilligan in April, would strive to establish resource recovery and energy producing facilities in most densely populated sections of the state. Smaller communities would probably find it more feasible to contract with neighbors to promote a regional waste disposal system.

Sharp said that financing a resource-energy recovery operation will be a responsibility of the Ohio Water Development Authority (OWDA), which already has the authority to issue revenue bonds for the construction and operation of such plants. This facet of OWDA's program has been largely inactive until now.

"Local communities in Ohio are already spending almost $300 million on solid waste management, and that cost is expected to increase, even with present conventional disposal methods," said Sharp. "What we are offering is a plan which may decrease solid waste costs while recovering valuable energy and materials. It's both environmentally and economically smart."

"It's the ultimate in recycling; the justification for all the volunteers who have manned local recycling centers for the past four years trying to show that waste materials could be reused."

Sharp said a package of legislation is expected to be introduced into the Ohio Legislature by early 1975, giving local governments and the Ohio EPA the capability to implement the solid waste program.

For more information on Ohio's proposed solid waste program, write the Ohio EPA Public Interest Center, Box 1049, Columbus, 44216.

Beauty queen overdose victim

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The mother of deposed Miss World Marji Wallace says her daughter took an overdose of sleeping pills because "she may have felt it wasn't possible to go on."

Mrs. Alice Wallace said Wednesday told newsmen her daughter was responding to treatment but was still in critical condition from the overdose Monday.

Miss Wallace, 20, was a close friend of racing driver Peter Revson, who was killed recently in an accident. She was stripped of her beauty title because of publicity surrounding her relationship with English soccer star George Best.

Campaign literature transcripts forwarded

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has forwarded to the attorney general the transcripts of his May 2 and May 22 investigative hearings into the alleged distribution of illegal campaign literature in the Glenn-Metzenbaum contest for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Ohio law requires the chief election officer to investigate violations of the election laws and report his findings to the attorney general for possible prosecution. Ted Brown said that his review of the transcripts indicates that four witnesses accused Gary Vigorito of delivering the illegal stickers to the Youngstown headquarters, while two witnesses also accused him of delivering the illegal flyer.

The transcripts also list four witnesses who identify Don Hanni, Vigorito's chief accuser, as a distributor or an accomplice in the distribution of the illegal stickers. The testimony of both Hanni and Vigorito conflicted with that of other witnesses, giving rise to the additional possibility of perjury charges against one or both of the men. Both men denied any role in the distribution.

Brown explained that the law requires all publications promoting the election or defeat of a candidate to contain the name and residence address of the person responsible for its issuance or distribution, or of the chairman or secretary of the organization responsible. Neither of the campaign pieces that were the subject of the hearing (a bumper sticker linking Senator Metzenbaum with President Nixon as "tax consultants" and a letter linking the Senator with Communist-front groups) contained the required identification.

Secretary of State Brown said that the purpose of the law is to prevent the dissemination of spurious charges. "The philosophy of the statute is that one will think twice before making reckless charges if the statements must be tied to their source. If he must stand up and be counted, he is less likely to make statements he is not prepared to back up."

Terming the present law against campaign abuse "not very comprehensive, Brown pointed out that there is no way to compel a prosecution or to correct an abuse while the campaign is still underway. The chief election officer says that the newly created Ohio Elections Commission should be required to investigate complaints of improper campaign activities, hold hearings on the complaints, and issue cease and desist orders enforceable in court.

Secretary Brown submitted his proposal to the legislature in both 1973 and 1974, but said the proposal "got lost in the shuffle" as legislators gave priority to other matters. He said he will submit the bill again in the next legislative session.

Latin aid under fire from Hays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, asserted Wednesday that military credit sales to Latin America are actually a giveaway program "because those people are never going to pay us back."

Hays challenged Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger about the administration's request for $200 million for the program in fiscal 1975.

The Ohio congressman charged that U.S. arms sold to Latin American nations "are used to fasten dictatorships more tightly around the necks of the people."

Schlesinger responded by saying that United States military programs are a "force for liberalization in Latin America."

The exchange occurred as Schlesinger testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Hays challenged Schlesinger to mention a single instance in which a Latin American country aided the United States in any war over the past 60 years. He charged that Latin American nations use U.S. arms only against each other or against their own people.

Schlesinger replied that Brazil was "one of our most faithful allies" in Italy during World War II and again in Korea in the 1950s.

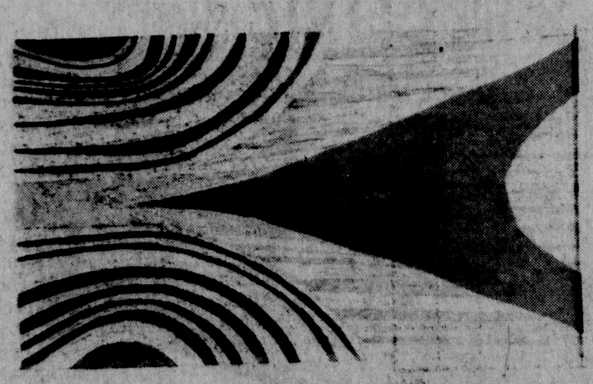

Hays said Brazilian troops in Italy "were never closer to the battle front than 500 miles behind the lines.

"That doesn't fit my definition of assistance," he added.

Former resident weds in Baylor University chapel

MRS. LARRY R. GERFEN

Miss Velinda Jo Melton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jo Melton, Russellville, Ala., former residents of Washington C.H., exhanged marriage vows with Larry Ray Gerfen, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Raymond F. Gerfen of San Antonio, Tex.

The Rev. Marshall Edwards of the Columbus Avenue Baptist Church in Waco performed the double-ring marriage ceremony. Jill Seifert of Tennessee, organist, and Vanessa Hyatt of Georgia, vocalist, presented wedding music.

Three large baskets of gladioli and palms formed the background with a kneeling bench from which the couple took Holy Communion.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Melton chose a formal organza and Chantilly lace princess A-line gown with lace bib bodice, high ruffled neckline, with long fitted sleeves, bedazzled with a crochet beading and a deep lace flounce hemline swept to a cathedral train. The bride wore a gold locket-watch, a gift from the bridegroom.

Her jeweled lace Juliet cap held the tiered English illusion lace-edged veil. She carried a nosegay bouquet of two white orchids bordered by stephanotis and lace with pearl streamers.

Maid of honor, Linda Siemoneit of Richardson, Tex., and bridesmaid Paula Gerfen of San Antonio, Tex., wore matching floor-length pink floral A-line gowns of voile with high neckline, biship sleeves, banded at the empire bodice and a flounced hemline. They wore matching hair braid pictured hats with crystal trim. Each carried a bouquet of two purple orchids bordered by pink loveknots.

Chantele Aldridge of Lakeland, Fla., the flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of pastel pink organza, a headpiece of pink carnations, and carried a white basket of pink carnations.

John White of Waco, Tex., served as best man. The groomsman was Joseph Dougherty of Chicago, Ill., and the ushers were Dan Melton and Perry Melton, brothers of the bride of Russellville, Ala., Michael Flannigan of Waco, Tex., Michael Smith of Midland, Tex., and Jim Dykes of Irving, Tex.

The bride's mother chose a floor length lavender gown with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a formal length pink gown with which she combined matching accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Hostesses for the reception held in Memorial Hall drawing room at Baylor University were Vicki Oslin, Lorrie Laurel and Ann Wright. The rice attendants were Kristi and Kim Daykes, and Gina Dykes presied at the guest book.

The bride's table held a three-tiered pink cake decorated with pink roses, lavender grapes and love doves, flanked by a silver punch bowl and an arrangement of white flowers. The groom's table held a chocolate cake with green trim.

The rehearsal dinner took place at the El Matador Inn in Waco, with the groom's parents as hosts.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Gerfen left for New Orleans, La., she was wearing a white linen pantsuit trimmed in white satin, white picture hat and matching accessories. She wore the two ordhids from her bridal bouquet.

The couple is residing in Waco, Texas.

Hamburger fry is planned by Auxiliary

The meeting of the Burnett-Ducey VFW Auxiliary 4964 was opened in ritualistic form by Mrs. Clark Rumer for the 15 present.

Mrs. Kenneth Harley gave the secretary's report and it was announced that several of the members are ill. Reports of visits with some of them were made. Mrs. Maurice Farmer won the attendance award and business of a general natural was discussed.

Mrs. Farmer and Mrs. Jess Whitmer served refreshments.

The next meeting will be June 17 when a hamburger fry will be a feature. The men of the Post will be hosts.

There will be one meeting in July, one in August and one in September due to Labor Day.

All members are urged to help at the lunch stand and at the next Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collector's Association show, June 22 and 23.

Mrs. Florence Harper, 396 Ely St., and her sister, Mrs. Laura Gabelman of Columbus, attended the graduating ceremonies for Mrs. Harper's youngest grandson, John Roger Keaton of Middletown on May 31. John will enroll in a college this fall.

Noon luncheon enjoyed by Methodists

The United Methodist Women of Grace United Methodist Church met Wednesday for the noon carry-in luncheon with the Copley Circle as host.

Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee opened the meeting by reading an inspirational prayer. Mrs. Paul Ream was in charge of preparing the devotion center and devotions. Her theme was "Seeing God in Nature," and she read from Psalms 19. She also read poems relating to the beauty of nature.

Mrs. Suzanne Sams read minutes of the previous meeting, gave roll call and read correspondence. The treasurer's report was made by Mrs. C. L. Lewellen. It was voted to give a gift to each of the graduating seniors of the church.

Rev. Allen Puffenberger was introduced by Mrs. Ralph Child. He presented the program and conducted an interesting discussion as to how the parable of the prodigal son could apply to lives today. Everyone enjoyed a recording by Dr. Clarence Jordan, of Georgia, and a Baptist, who told the parable 'The Prodigal Son' in the 'Cottonpatch version.'

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Club meets for luncheon

Mrs. Hugh Smith entertained The Stitch and Chatter Kensington Club at a dessert luncheon Monday at The Sulky.

Following the luncheon, the group assembled at the nearby home of Mrs. J. G. Jordan, Carolyn Rd., for an afternoon of sewing and conversation. Just before the departure to their various homes, Mrs. Jordan served brownies and iced tea.

Those sharing in the pleasant afternoon were: Miss Norma Dodd, Mrs. Claude Davis, Mrs. Thomas Willis, Mrs. Ernest Brookover, Mrs. John Case, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jordan. The time and place for the next meeting will be announced later.

Maple Grove social planned

The menu for the annual social to be held at the Maple Grove United Methodist Church June 12 consists of chicken and ham sandwiches, escalloped chicken, homemade noodles, potato salad, baked beans, cake, ice cream and homegrown strawberries.

Serving will begin at 5 p.m.

Beta Omega chapter lists activities

The Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met in the home of Mrs. Charles Moore for the business meeting. Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, president, led the Opening Ritual followed by a pinning ceremony for Mrs. Steve Jennings.

Members voted to send a contribution to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund. Mrs. Wayne Clark told members that approximately $450.00 will be given to Fayette Memorial Hospital, from the proceeds of the annual Spring Charity Ball held in April, sponsored by the Beta Omega and Alpha Theta chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority.

Mrs. Gary McMurray, president for 1974-75, took charge of the meeting. Members decided to have a garage and bake sale at the home of Mrs. Lester Bowers, 1025 Leesburg Ave., from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. June 22.

Members also voted to have the following projects during the year: a concession stand at Old-Fashioned Bargain Days, a stand at the Flea Market, make visits to the Quiet Acres Nursing Home each month, sponsor Daffodil Day, Planned Parenthhood and the annual Spring Charity Ball.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Shoemaker, outgoing president, for a job well done during the 1973-74 year.

Mrs. Moore served refreshments to Mrs. Ralph Leeds, Mrs. Harry Haines, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. Jennings.

Couple resides in New York City

Miss Patricia Ann Hayward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hayward, Rt. 2, (Leesburg Rd.), became the bride of Michael J. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael V. Stewart of New York City, N.Y.

The Rev. Mark Dove, associate minister of Grace United Methodist Church, performed the double ring ceremony before brass candelabra with emerald green foliage and ivory satin bows, and standing baskets of white marguerite daisies. The aisles were marked with white maguerite daisies, and ivory satin bows.

Mrs. Emily King, vocalist, sang "Never My Love" and "Follow Me" as the bride approached the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She sang "Hawaiian Wedding Song," and during the marriage ceremony, "One Hand, One Heart" as the couple knelt at the altar. Mrs. Gene P. Hughes was the organist.

The bride chose for her wedding day a formal gown of candlelight imported satin organza and French handmade lace, styled with a high neckline, long full sleeves with wide cuffs overlaid with lace and fastened with tiny pearl buttons. The lace bodice, sheer lace yoke and high neckline of lace were re-embroidered with miniature seed pearls. The gracefully flared skirt and the wide detachable circular train were enhanced with triangular overlays of the candlelight lace. A cap of the handmade French lace re-embroidered in pearls held her three-tiered bouffant veil of imported English illusion with scattered lace appliques touched with pearls. Her pearl earrings were a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried a cascade of white snowdrift pompoms, sonia roses and gypsophelia, with showers of ivory bridal satin and green smilax.

Matron of honor Mrs. Janet Bishop, of Ann Arbor, Mich., wore a floor-length gown of aqua spring print in soft shirtwaist styling with small rounded collar and long full sleeves, and self material belt at the waistline. The collar and cuffs were edged with ruffled lace and the softly flared skirt was finished with a ruffled flounce topped with lace edging.

Bridesmaids Miss Joan Hanratty of Long Island, N.Y., Miss Joanie Fuchsman of New York City, and Miss Jeanie Geanvito of Columbus, wore peach print gowns styled identically to the honor attendants's. The little flower girl, Jeneen Hayward, niece of the bride, wore a dainty floor-length frock of peach print in similar styling. All wore wide-brimmed picture hats of beige milan straw trimmed in chiffon with flowing streamers that matched their gowns.

They carried bouquets of sonia roses, and marguerite daisies with gypsophelia and showers of green smilax with matching ribbon. The flower girl's bouquet was a smaller design with a single rose.

Karl Bohn of New York City, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Bill McSherry, and John Stewart, both of New York City, the latter brother of the groom, and Keith Hayward of Rochester, Minn., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Hayward chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length sleeveless gown with halter design bodice with front V-neckline and demurely open at the back. The bodice and flowing skirt were fashioned of wide striped aqua, peach and beige jersey. A wide aqua and peach belt with gold buckle encircled the waistline. She carried a purse corsage of Gemini roses.

The formal length aqua chiffon gown worn by the mother of the bridegroom was designed with a bodice threaded with silver, with V-neckline and long full matching chiffon sleeves with silver threaded cuffs and a skirt of chiffon over matching taffeta. Her shoulder corsage was of Gemini roses.

Hostesses for the buffet reception and dance held at the Snow Hill Country Club, Wilmington, were Mrs. Vicki Stepp, sister of the bride, Mrs. Sandy Hayward, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mark Henson of Leesburg, junior host. Centerpieces of aqua, peach, yellow and white spring flowers centered the bride's table. The wedding cake was topped with sonia roses and aqua marguerite daisies, and encircled with green smilax aqua daisies and white snowdrift pompoms. Individual tables were centered with brandy snifters filled with aqua daisies and beige, aqua and peach candles in crystal holders.

The grandmothers wore white daisy corsages.

The rehearsal dinner was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The new Mrs. Stewart was wearing a green linen shirtwaist dress with beige accessories when the couple left for a wedding trip to Virginia.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Ohio University, Athens, is a buyer in a New York buying office. Her husband, a 1969 Fordham University graduate, is engaged in banking with a New York bank. They are now residing in New York City.

Circle 2 welcomes new member

Circle 2 of the Women's Association met Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Grove Davis, leader, opened the meeting with group singing, devotions on the need for Christian interest and a prayer.

Sixteen members responded to roll call. Mrs. Vina Wood, a new member, was welcomed into the circle. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Lillian Dellinger, treasurer, reported $333.00 received and receipts of the 'least coin' collection.

Mrs. Avonelle Stonebreaker gave devotions and prayer for the 'least coin' collection. Mrs. Gerald Wheat read the letter of mission interpretation and Mrs. Louise Drake read locations and work of the missionaries of the month from the Yearbook of Prayer. Mrs. Emma Kelley reported on a visit with the Rev. and Mrs. Hand family in Canton

Mrs. Maryon Mark led in the Bible Study from "The Sayings of Jesus."She described the ways of atonement in the Jewish and Christian faiths, and closed with "A Woman's Prayer."

Following the benediction, the group enjoyed visiting around a lovely tea table with Mrs. George Kratz, Mrs. G.E. Bidwell, Mrs. C.S. Kelley, Miss Etha Sturgeon and Mrs. I.L. Pumphrey serving as hostesses.

Washington Garden Club program on 'flower arranging'

The June meeting of the Washington Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Eulahlia Wade with 12 members present. Roll call was answered by naming things that interested you at Wahkeena.

Club members told of interesting wild flowers, trees and mosses they had seen on the recent trip to Wahkeena at Lancaster.

June 18 is Fayette County Workshop for all garden clubs to be held at the Fish and Game Association Lodge, Stafford Rd. A carry-in dinner will be featured. Mrs. Howard Junk will be guest speaker for the morning session on "Flower Arranging." In the afternoon, club members will make their own flower arrangements.

The Ohio Association of Garden Clubs State Convention will be July 31, Aug. 1 and 2 at Stauffer's Inn in Cincinnati. Reservations are to be sent to Mrs. Dorsy Bumgardener by June 30.

Mrs. Robert Wilson led the program on a discussion of flower arranging. She told of the different types of flower arrangements. One is a line arrangement in which the lines are the most important feature and in which the plant material is sparse. There is no massing of plant material at the base; when that is done the arrangement becomes line-mass. A minimum of material may be added at the base for weight and stability.

A massed-line arrangement may be defined as one in which both line and mass are important to the design. This is the style which one sees most frequently today in America.

A mass arrangement may be defined as one in which a large mass of flowers is emphasized rather than the individual flower heads. In always has a fullness, and a minimum of voids. There are two types of mass period arrangement and contemporary stylized mass arrangements.

She also told of designs, line, form, texture, pattern and color that the designer uses when arranging flowers. She made a flower arrangement using driftwood, lily, honeysuckle vine.

Mrs. Orville Hurtt was winner of a contest and Mrs. Bud Hooks received a prize.

Mrs. Wade and Mrs. T. N. Willis served refreshments. The July meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Wilson with Mrs. Jean Craig as assisting hostess.

40-horse hitch to visit Kings Island

KINGS MILLS — The famed Schlitz 40-Horse Hitch is coming to Kings Island. The $50-million family entertainment center on Interstate Highway 71, 20 miles north of Cincinnati, will be the first theme park visited by the Schlitz Forty. It will be at Kings Island June 13-16.

The Forty will be on public display in a 200-foot long tent in front of the main entrance to the park, and will be driven around the massive Kings Island parking lot once each day while it is here.

Often billed as America's greatest parade spectacle, the 40-Horse Hitch is a re-creation of the 19th century circus feature. The new "Forty" was organized and is driven by Dick Sparrow, 44, an Iowa farmer and horseman.

Since its debut in the July 4, 1972, Schlitz Circus Parade in Milwaukee, Wis., the new Forty has appeared at a number of major events, such as the Cotton and Rose Bowl parades. It recently appeared at the Derby Festival Parade in Louisville, Ky., and in the "500" Festival Memorial Parade in Indianapolis, Ind. In 1973, the Forty was at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus.

The Belgian draft horses in the Schlitz team are harnessed four abreast in 10 ranks. Altogether, with the giant circus band-wagon pulled by the Forty, the rig stretches out 135 feets.

Sparrow's road show consists of 50 or more horses including the 40 Belgians on the first team, plus a few spares and several saddle horses used by outriders. The horses travel in four semitrailer trucks. A fifth semitrailer hauls the bandwagon, the first vehicle of its type built in more that half a century. It was completed last year, built especially for the Forty. It is 22 feet long, 12 feet high and weighs five tons.

The Belgian horses weigh an average of one ton. They stand 16½ to 18 hands (a hand is four inches), are color-matched (light sorrel) and have blond manes and tails. Their harness was hand made by Amish craftsmen.

Belgians are the most numerous draft breed in the United States. Other heavy draft breeds are Clydesdale, Percheron, Shire and Suffolk.

"The Belgian is the only breed we could have used for a 40-horse hitch," Sparrow said, "because there are so many of them in this country. I had my pick of the right horses for certain positions in the hitch, as to size, color and temperament."

Temperament? "Sure," says Sparrow. "Horses are just like people. Some of them are as eager to please as some people are, and some can be just as ornery."

Privacy bill loses out in Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators have turned down a major bill that would let the state regulate the use of credit and other personal information stored in computers.

After prolonged debate, the vote Wednesday was 10 for to 21 against.

Sponsoring Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, conceded the bill is dead for now.

Aronoff's bill, introduced last January, would have allowed Ohioans to take exception to information about them in computer banks, and forbid the transfer of such information without their permission.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-8 Cincinnati, led the floor fight against the bill. He said it was poorly-prepared and would create an information "czar" in the Department of Administrative Services.

Maloney's reference was to a provision in the bill that would require that the location of each computer and the type of information it contained be reported annually to the director of the department.

"I'll vote for privacy legislation that protects the privacy of the people of this state," Maloney added.

Body is identified as that of Ohio girl

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say dental records have established the identity of a body found here as being that of Taunye Lynn Moore of Mount Gilead, Ohio.

The hacked and dismembered body of the teen-age girl was found April 9 stuffed into three plastic bags in an alley near a motel.

The apple remains the most important fruit grown in Canada.

Pesticide payoffs to become limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has boosted pesticide indemnity payment rates for beekeepers, but officials say tighter qualification rules will lessen the sting for taxpayers.

Congress set up the indemnity program in 1970 farm legislation to help compensate beekeepers for accidental losses due to pesticides. The law also stipulated beekeepers could seek payments for losses dating back through 1967.

As of May 30, USDA officials said Wednesday, indemnity payments for losses in 1967 through 1973 totaled $12.6 million paid to approximately 1,800 individual beekeepers.

Lately, a spokesman said, the payments have been averaging about $2 million per calendar year. The higher payment rates announced by USDA are expected to increase total payments "some but not much" in 1974, he said.

As approved, the new indemnity procedure calls for payments of $22.50 for a bee colony destroyed by pesticide, a $7.50 increase from the previous scale; $15 for a severely damaged colony, up $5; $7.50 for a moderately damaged colony, up $2.50 and $7.50 for each queen nucleus destroyed, up $2.50.

Officials said beekeepers no longer will be paid for more than one loss to a colony in the same calendar year. Multiple losses to a single colony can occur during repeated mishaps with pesticides.

"The beekeeper who suffers multiple losses of the same colony will be permitted to claim the most severe damage suffered by a colony during the year," the department said.

Further, a previous option which permitted beekeepers to make claims on the basis of net loss of income has been eliminated. All future claims must be filed on the basis of the flat rates just announced.

Officials say there is evidence bee losses due to pesticides are declining, partly because in many areas beekeepers have had harsh words with commercial pesticide applicators.

In 1972, according to USDA, indemnities were paid on pesticide damage to 207,000 bee colonies, down from 284,000 in 1971. Although final totals have not been complete, the indications now is that payments were made on 145,000 colonies last year, officials said.

Nationally, about 4.1 million bee colonies are kept for commercial honey production in the United States. Leaders include Florida, California, Minnesota and South Dakota.

No accord in walkout

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— More than 4,000 construction workers remained on strike in the Cincinnati area today, but more negotiating sessions have been scheduled today and Friday.

Seven unions remained out, including the 300 members of key Local 100 of the Teamsters Union, which is striking seven local ready mix concrete firms.

Some 300 rodmen settled for a 75-cent-an-hour raise Wednesday night, bringing base pay for journeymen to $9.64½ cents an hour.

The 800-member electricians union ratified a two-year contract with a 75-cents-an-hour raise this year and an 80-cent raise next year. Base salaries will increase to $10.80 an hour in the second half of the contract, union officials said.

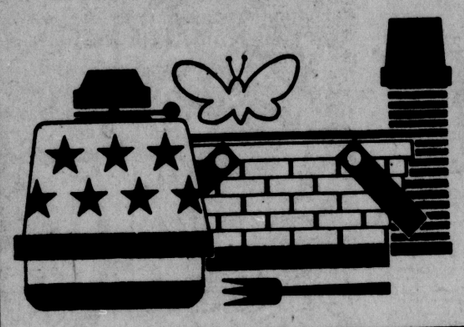

Carpenters, Millwrights and Operating Engineers settled earlier. The strike began Friday.

Still on strike, aside from the Teamsters, are the asbestos workers; laborers; pipe fitters; plumbers, and marble, tile and terrazzo helpers.

Taft, Metzenbaum cast opposing votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two U.S. senators cast opposite votes Wednesday when the Senate rejected 59-31 an amendment by Sen. George McGovern to slash funding for the B1 bomber.

Republican Robert Taft Jr. voted with the majority while Democrat Howard Metzenbaum favored the amendment.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Kelly Garrett, who has left a Broadway musical to star in CBS' summer revival of "Your Hit Parade," won't exactly be traveling down memory lane to reach her new destination.

She says she does recall the show starred Gisele MacKenzie and Dorothy Collins, among others, "but I don't ever remember watching the show."

Miss Garrett, of Santa Fe, N.M., who comes from a family of 10 children, says her home lacked a TV set.

"We never had television in Santa Fe," she said. "With 10 kids, you were lucky to have food, forget television."

The old "Hit Parade" show had its heyday in the mid-1950s but folded in 1959. It's coming back Aug. 2 for five weeks with Miss Garrett and three other regulars who haven't been named yet.

Miss Garrett, an ebullient soul, credits the new job to the rave reviews she recently received for her singing in "Words and Music," a Broadway showcase of tunesmith Sammy Cahn's hit songs over the years.

She said her career started taking off when she got good reviews two years ago while in another Broadway show, "Mother Earth." It led to major TV guest shots and work in the nation's better night clubs.

A key part in her career struggle involves music arrangements. Young saloon singers who are just starting out frequently are dismayed to learn one simply doesn't tell the house pianist, "Maestro, 'Fever' in the key of C, if you please."

One needs prepared musical arrangements. And they cost dough, as much as $700 a song when prepared by top craftsmen.

Miss Garrett was asked how she overcame her musical balance of payment problems when she first sought Hollywood night club work.

"I was very lucky," she said. "When I went there, I met some very talented people who believed in me. One was a fine piano player, Bill Baker, an arranger who'd worked there for years.

"He did me so many favors. If I had an audition, he'd play for me free. I never had any money, but he'd put together arrangements for me when I was going into a club. You don't forget people like that."

Lottery ticket sale set Aug. 12

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ohio will have its first lottery-made millionaire sometime in late fall, Deputy Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said today.

"We expect the first lottery tickets to go on sale around the state on Aug. 12," Ferguson said.

Ferguson said the first $300,000 drawing will be held Aug. 29 during the Ohio State Fair.

Griffiths awarded optometry degree

ALLEN GRIFFITHS

Allen D. Griffiths, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Griffiths, 620 Highland Ave., was awarded the degree Doctor of Optometry from Ohio State University at the June 7 commencement exercises in Saint John Arena.

Dr. Griffiths is a member of the American Optometric Association, Ohio Optometric Association, Optometric Extension Program, Beta Sigma Kappa (professional honorary fraternity), Alpha Tau Omega, Social Fraternity, Central Ohio Association of Children with Learning Disabilities, Council for Exceptional Children and Saint Anthony's Catholic Church in Columbus.

Because of his interest in the visual and perceptual problems of children with learning disabilities, he has, along with his wife who is presently a teacher in the Worthington School district, co-authored an article: "Learning Disabilities: Etiology", which will soon be appearing in the "Optometric Weekly."

His present plans are to practice optometry part-time with his father in Washington C.H. and part-time in association with James C. Bieber, O.D. whose office is in the Tremont Medical Center in Upper Arlington. He will also be doing graduate work in the College of Education at Ohio State, Department of Exceptional Children.

Allen and his wife, the former Patty Wilson, both 1965 graduates of Washington High School are currently living in Columbus.

Middletown man killed by locomotive

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Raymond Wright, 52, of Middletown, was killed Wednesday night when he was struck by a Penn Central freight train.

Police said Wright was apparently standing or sitting on the tracks at the underpass at Roosevelt and University Boulevards.

Plan recovery of materials from old tires

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. says it has a plan to help clean up the environment and ease the energy crisis at the same time.

The key is 200 million tires worn out each year in the U.S., according to Charles J. Pilliod Jr., chairman of Goodyear, and H.I. Koolsbergen, chairman of the Oil Shale Corp.

Pilliod and Koolsbergen announced plans Wednesday to use oil shale recovery technology to recover energy and reusable materials from scrap tires.

The executives say that heating eight million tires with hot ceramic pellets and refining the result could yield 15 million gallons of oil, 73 million pounds of carbon black and two million pounds of steel.

Transport center dedication set

EAST LIBERTY, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's $30 million Transportation Center, under construction the past four years and billed as one of the top safety testing facilities in the country, will be dedicated July 10.

Attending the ceremonies at the 8,100-acre center near this Logan County village will be safety experts and vehicle and transportation leaders from across the nation.

James F. Asmus, center director, said the center is ready to be opened officially, although construction of the facility will not be completed until 1975.

The dedication will include demonstrations on the 50-acre asphalt vehicle dynamics testing area, on the 2,500-foot skid pad and on the 7½-mile test track.

Films will be shown of an actual test in the crash simulator, the largest impact testing equipment in the Western Hemisphere.

Four major testing areas are in use and additional ones are under construction.

Also being built is a circular brake soak tank near the dynamics testing area in the center of the large test track. It is designed to contain as much as two feet of water so that autos and trucks may be driven in the water to soak brake systems prior to testing.

Completed facilities, in addition to service buildings, include a fuel plaza, weigh scales with a special split platform to allow weighing of various vehicles at a maximum capacity of 30 tons and a brake slope test facility.

The latter features two steep slopes which allows the testing of holding power of truck and auto brake systems.

The U.S. Transportation Department plans to construct a $9.6 million National Vehicle Compliance Test Facility at the southern edge of the high speed test track.

The facility will be operated by the National Highway Safety Administration to test motor vehicles, tires and other motor vehicle equipment to determine if manufacturers are complying with federal standards.

Asmus said private commercial developers already are making plans to construct housing developments near the center.

Tape gap caused by recorder?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Loose or bent contact points or a vibrating recorder motor could have caused the now famous 18½-minute gap in a White House tape, two Cleveland Heights men claimed Wednesday.

James R. Jordan and his brother, Arthur K. Jordan; told newsmen their analysis contradicts the report issued Tuesday by a court-apointed panel of tape experts.

The Jordans' report has been filed with U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica in Washington, D.C., the brothers said.

The panel determined that five erasures had been made by using the controls of Presidential Secretary Rose Mary Woods' Uher 500 recorder.

The Jordans, who operate a radio-television repair service, said the panel's report showed no indication that Miss Woods' recorder had been examined for short circuits. The brothers' report was filed by Miss Woods' lawyers to support her contention that the erasure was not deliberate, the Jordans' said.

Using a Uher 500 and a copy of a White House tape, the Jordans demonstrated for newsmen Wednesday that loose contact points in the plug that connected Miss Woods' foot pedal to the recorder could have caused the machine to switch from "play" to "record," erasing the tape.

Artificial blood researcher eyes more funding

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati medical inventor, basking in publicity over the possible development of an artificial blood, hopes it will mean money for research.

"It was time something like this happened," said Dr. Leland Clarke Jr., 55, research professor at the University of Cincinnati Children's Research Center.

"It gives me a start to realize that when I open my mouth for these interviews people abroad hear what I say."

Clarke has nearly completed pre-clinical work on an industrially produced coolant liquid — called fluorcarbon. He said it could be used both as an artificial blood and as a breathable, oxygen-bearing liquid.

Military chief wins approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Gen. George S. Brown has been confirmed by the Senate to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Confirmation came Wednesday for Brown, 55, currently Air Force chief of staff. He will succeed Adm. Thomas H. Moorer in a two-year term in the nation's top military post.

Believe Beatles to stay apart

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr is willing to bet $2,400 the Beatles will never play together again.

"I'll bet anyone 1,000 pounds that we don't play together again this year or, for that matter, ever," the former Beatles drummer told newsmen as he arrived at London Airport on Wednesday from Los Angeles.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I follow your questions and answers in the paper regularly and now I have a question that I hope you can answer for me. The home I live in has redwood on the outside. I want to put on aluminum siding, but have been told that it should not be used over redwood. Is this true?

A. — This is an unusual question, since most persons like redwood as an exterior material. But there is no reason why aluminum siding cannot be used over redwood. As with any other material, the important thing is to build out the old surface to provide a good nailing surface. This may necessitate partial or complete furring of the present siding. Furring strips, as you probably know, are narrow strips of wood or other material used to get an even surface. The care with which furring is done saves much time and work on the other stages of the project.

Q. — In painting a room, should the woodwork and trim be done before or after the walls and ceiling?

A. — The best procedure is to paint the ceiling first, then the walls and, after those are completely dry, the woodwork and trim.

Q. — I have to paint some masonry. My grandfather says he used to make his own masonry paint when he was young and that it was excellent. Unfortunately, he can't remember the exact ingredients. Can you help me?

A. — Yes, but in your grandfather's time, the quality of masonry paint wasn't as good as it is today. However, here's the way to make home'mixed masonry paint: Mix 5 parts of white portland cement with one part of hydrated lime. Add water until the mixture has the consistency of condensed milk. Mineral coloring may be added to obtain a light tinting. Dampen the surface before applying the paint. Use a brush, roller or spray equipment. Using a short, stiff-bristled brush will help fill the pores of the masonry. After the paint becomes firm, keep it damp with sprayed water for several days. Once the surface has been painted with this type of paint, you can't put some other kind over it without using a sealer. Incidentally, if you are going to use the mixture on rough cinder block, add 2 parts of fine sand to the mix. This will more effectively fill the pores of the block. Or you can buy a block filler at some paint stores.

Q. — A friend of mine says you told a reader some time ago that a wall should be washed from the bottom up. I maintain that this can't be so, as dirty water will keep running down on the cleaned section. Can you tell my friend that his memory of what he read isn't very good?

A. — Sorry, but your friend remembers exactly what he read. While it is true that if you start at the bottom and work upwards, some dirty water may run down the wall, it can be wiped off quickly and easily with a clean cloth. On the other hand, if you start at the top of the wall, dirty water running down the wall will settle on the uncleaned surface, making it far more difficult to remove. Actually, if you work carefully, little or no dirty water should run down the wall. Starting at the bottom assures that, if it does, it can be wiped off without any trouble.

South Koreans leaving shacks as living conditions improve

SEOUL, Korea (AP) - Ko Hung-choo is on his way up in the world after starting out as a poor laborer's child and then living with his own family in a squatter's shack on Seoul's outskirts.

The stocky 40-year-old father of three boys has now quit his job as a barber and with his savings is getting ready to buy a vegetable store. And Ko has moved out of that hated squatter's shack and into a city-built, low-income apartment.

Ko's gradually improving life and way of thinking probably show a lot about millions of South Koreans who have benefited from the nation's striking economic growth in recent years.

Most of these people seem willing to put up with the increasingly dictatorial rule of President Park Chung-hee as long as the economic gains continue.

..KO SAYS his income has jumped from the equivalent of $30 a month five or six years ago to about $75 before he quit working at a nearby barber shop to buy a store. Being a merchant, he thinks, will move him even farther up the economic scale.

"Things are getting better partly because the pay of workers is up . . . and partly because of the government's efforts to see that the living standards of the general public get better," Ko said in an interview at his home.

His small two-room apartment is in one of 17 austere brick and cement, five-story buildings perched on a rocky hill on Seoul's northwest outskirts. Thousands of shacks used to fill the area, but they were torn down to make room for the governments low-in-come apartments.

This is a modern building with a toilet and water and the heating system isn't bad. It's much better than before," Ko said.

HE PAYS only about $5 a month on a 15 year mortgave for his two rooms. And rerents one of the rooms to another man. Ko, his three sons and wife all live in the other 6-by-12-foot room.
live in the other 6-by-12-foot room.

Heat from the charcoal briquets used for cooking warms the traditional Korean "ondol" floor. He has jammed a television, stereo , several chests and other odds and ends into their single room.

At night there is barely room for all five of his family members to lie down to sleep. But Ko likes the added income from renting the other room, and he hopes some day to be able to move out and into his own house.

The Kum Wha "citizens apartments" where Ko lives are only a few years old, but already the buildings are looking shabby. One of them is being torn down because it was so poorly built that officials were afraid it might collapse on the residents.

The problem that is bothering Ko the most is inflation. Prices have gone up more than 20 per cent so far this year. He and his wife now spend about $60 monthly for food and other household necessities, about 50 per cent more than last year.

SOUTH KOREA's economy has grown at an average of nearly 10 per cent over the past decade under President Park's leadership.

Last year it grew by almost 17 per cent, but this year growth is expected to be about 8 per cent, according to the government

Park took power in a coup in 1961 . He was elected to three four-year terms and then declared martial law in 1972 and had the constitution altered to give him dictatorial powers.

Successful author blends writing with law career

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Books Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Unable to decide whether to be a lawyer or a writer, George V. Higgins decided to be both.

So, while working fulltime as an attorney during the day, Higgins spent his nights and weekends at the typewriter. After six weeks he'd produced the first draft of what went on to become the successful novel, "The Friends of Eddie Coyle."

His next two novels — like "Coyle" about the Boston area underworld — took a little longer. Higgins estimates "The Digger's Game" took over 15 or 16 weeks at the typewriter while "Cogan's Trade" required 8 or 9.

The modishly-dressed, fast-talking Higgins, who seems to have a knack for blending jobs, says he learned to write quickly while working as a reporter — a job he had while attending law school at the same time.

"You learn to come to the point as a reporter," the 34-year-old Higgins says, adding that it was while covering a variety of trials as a newsman that he became interested in the law. "Watching trials you get to see what lawyers do," Higgins says, "which is something you don't get in college."

HIGGINS, who lives with his wife and two children in Hingham, Mass., gave up reporting after he got his law degree and went to work for the Massachusetts Attorney General's office.

"I tried my first case the day after I was sworn in at the bar," he recalls with a smile. "Not only did I win it, I got the defense lawyer to take me to lunch. I wanted that case real bad.

GEORGE V. HIGGINS

Actually I want them all so bad I can taste them."

In his off-hours he wrote, "something I always wanted to do — write books. I started writing when I was in high school. I wrote, maybe, a dozen novels before "Coyle." None of them was published. Thank heavens! That wasn't my reaction then, but now I 'm glad they weren't picked up."

Higgins, whose books have brought him enough money to set up his own law firm in Boston, says he used to do his writing at home but now does it at the office "to keep from waking the kids up.

"THE TOUGHEST part of writing for me is getting the first sentence. I might have to try 14 or 15 times before I get that sentence but once I do I'm in business and I go. I get impossible. I just don't want to quit. There have been times when I've written 40 pages in a day and other times when I started at 7 a.m. on a Saturday and kept on going — with breaks, of course — until 3 p.m. the following day. I love to write. I think it's the most fun there is next to trying cases and I really don't know which I like best."

Higgins, who says "I have destroyed eight typewriters in my lifetime," currently has "two novels waiting to be published. One's about cops and the other's about people in politics. Note that it's not about politics just like my first three novels were not crime novels but books about people in crime.

"Speaking of those, I think 'Cogan's Trade' will be the last, because I can't go any further at this time with novels about hoods."

HIGGINS is also working on a book about Watergate and when that is finished there ought to be another in the works because "I get severe attacks of anxiety if I've got a book.coming out and I don't have another one under way."

Then, with a laugh, he concludes: "I always said that if once I could get started in writing they couldn't stop me."

Actor's son given sentence

BRIDGEPORT, CALIF. (AP) Scott Newman, son of actor Paul Newman, has been fined $1,000 and placed on two years' probation for kicking a law officer who was transporting him to jail after a Feb. 5 arrest for drunkeness.

A Mono County Superior Court judge who handed down the sentence found Newman, 23, innocent of felony battery, the original charge.

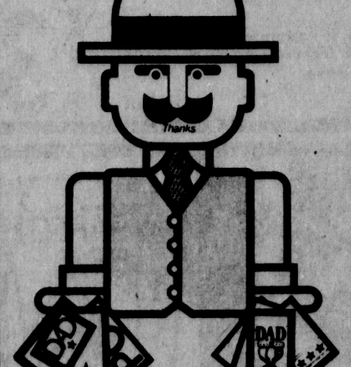

LEAVING COURT — Former Teamsters president Jimmy Hoffa, above, leaves court in Washington, D.C., after President Nixon's claim of executive privilege was upheld in a subpoena of documents relating to the conditions of clemency granted to Hoffa. (AP Wirephoto)

When Eileen Widder of Forest Hills, N.Y., sought a new photographic challenge, she turned to photographic needlepoint.

"Needlepoint's popularity with both men and women seeking a creative diversion is really booming," she says. "It's challenging and yet relaxing. The results are colorful, decorative and long-lasting. . . and by combining two hobbies, designs from your own photographs can be adapted to add a unique personal touch."

Eileen is the prettier half of the Widder team, well known in Photographic Society of America salon circles as the husband-and-wife duo with the highest ratings and as top award-winners in world-wide salon competitions. They specialize in all types of techniques involving color which they process and print in their apartment.

Getting materials for needle-point work has become fairly easy now because specialty shops offering supplies, instructions and designs have sprung up in almost all communities throughout the country.

"To adapt photos for needlepoint work, however," Eileen cautions, "avoid subjects with too much fine detail or soft focus areas. The photos must be suitable almost as graphic designs or have poster-style impact."

In creating a needlepoint portrait of her husband, Albert, she used the positive print as a paper negative, contact-printing it on high-contrast Kodalith film. From this she made a high-contrast print, then copied it again on Kodalith film to achieve a black-and-white negative with no middle tones.

The process of transferring images from negative to positive on high-contrast film until a photo is reduced to to its simplest graphic design, is one of the usual creative techniques in photography.

The next step is to transfer the design to the needlepoint fabric. Eileen describes several methods of accomplishing this and suggests that a No. 14 canvas (14 threads to the inch) is best for portraits. The finer the canvas, the easier it is to interpret detail.

"I put the high-contrast negative into an enlarger and project the image to a desired size on a sheet of white paper," she reports. "Then I trace the design with a bold marking pen. No more darkroom work is needed.

"The needlepoint canvas is placed over the drawing and it is traced onto the canvas. The canvas is quite coarse so the picture underneath is seen easily. Use only waterproof marking pens or India ink, otherwise the ink might bleed when the canvas is blocked."

Though this is the simplest and quickest way to get the design onto the fabric, some people might prefer to make a photographic print the desired size from which to make a tracing.

Others may find it easier to work from graph paper designs. In that case, the enlarger image may be projected on graph paper instead of plain white paper, and then drawn. Or, for a photographic graph paper design, procure a transparent sheet of black squares — 10 or 20 to the inch — from an art supply store, place it on the enlarging paper for an exposure, then make another exposure of the design enlarged in the usual way on the same sheet of paper. The result will be a design on a graph paper background.

Still another way is to use the transparent sheet of black squares as a negative. Put it in the enlarger negative carrier and double-print it with the negative of the original design. The size of the graph squares can be varied with this method.

To make a needlepoint of one of her solarized color photographs which appeared on a PSA Journal cover, Eileen Widder used a different technique. She molded a clear plastic wrap over the cover to protect it, then placed the needlepoint canvas over it. Following the original colors, she painted what she saw with acrylic paint. The paint can be diluted with water and it becomes waterproof when dry. Then she followed the colors with matching yarn to make an artistic needlepoint facsimile.

Photo hobbyists who are slide fans, but who do not have a darkroom enlarger, may project effective transparencies on white paper and sketch the picture for needlepoint adaptation. That's substituting a slide projector for an enlarger or a case of being resourceful.

NEEDLEPOINT PORTRAIT of Albert Widder was created by his wife, Eileen, from a photo. It was reduced to a simple black-and-white design by copying and recopying on high-contrast film and then traced on needlepoint canvas with waterproof ink. The final stitching with yarn makes a unique, decorative conversation piece of home decor.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

Ford tells Ohioans 1974 elections crucial

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford told a Republican fund-raiser here Wednesday night that Watergate would have nothing to do with the 1974 elections.

"There is no Republican candidate I know of on the ballot who has anything whatsoever to do with Watergate," the vice president said at the $125-aplate Central Ohio Republican dinner.

As the estimated 1,000 GOP faithful from 40 counties applauded, Ford voiced faith that President Nixon had nothing to do with Watergate or any cover-up that followed.

"It is my judgement," he said, "that the President of the United States is innocent of any involvement of the break-in of Democratic headquarters.

"It is my personal judgement . . .," he added, "the proponderance of the evidence is that he is innocent of any involvement in any cover-up."

Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, GOP nominee for the U. S. Senate, introduced Ford.

Former Gov. James A. Rhodes, the nominee again for that office left to make a commencment address before Ford's talk.

A host of other state candidates and several congressmen were on hand. U. S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. sent regrets, saying a pending vote in the Senate kept him from attending.

Ford attacked the Democratic-dominated Congress for "attempting to tie the hands" of Nixon in his upcoming negotiations with Moscow by making further cuts in his defense budget for the coming fiscal year.

"Those forces in the Congress of the United States want to gut it at the wrong time," he said of plans to reduce the troop strength from 2.2 million to 1.3 million.

Nixon, he said, plans to negotiate with Russia's leaders on reducing military strength in Europe by both sides, and a congressional limit on troops would be "a disservice to the United States."

Ford also defended the President's actions in the energy crisis, claiming Congress wanted to limit the supply of fuel and allocate it.

"That doesn't help anybody," he said.

"The only way you can reduce energy costs is to increase the supply," he said.

About 100 demonstrators carrying signs reading, "Throw the Bum Out," marched across the street from the hotel where Ford spoke.

Ford was already in the hotel when they arrived.

The former Michigan congressman said Republicans should concentrage on this year's elections and not worry about 1976.

"If the Republican party takes a disastrous defeat in 1974, 1976 may be irrelevant," he said.

"If the Republican party stands up and can be strong in 1974 it can prevail in 1976," he said. "1974 is the crucial test."

Ford spent about 5½ hours in Columbus. On his arrival at Rickenbacker Air Force Base Wednesday afternoon, he was greeted by Republican State Chairman Kent McGough, Columbus Mayor Tom Moody and Col. Myron Bowen, base commander.

Before going to the hotel, Ford attended a private reception with major contributors at Darby Dan Farms, owned by land developer and sportsman John Galbreath.

The three All-America Rose Selections Award winners this year should please fanciers of the grandiflora, hybrid tea and floribunda roses. The three champions of 1975 include one of each, Arizona, Oregold and Rose Parade.

Arizona is a bronze and copper grandiflore; Oregold, pure yellow hybrid tea, and Rose Parade, coral pink floribunda.

Arizona was originated by Olie Weeks of Ontario, Calif., who also produced 1973 and 1974 winners, Gypsy and Perfume Delight, and shared in the development of many other AARS selections, including Royal Highness, Angel Face and Mister Lincoln.

Arizona is as colorful as the state for which it was named and it has the unusual combination of bronze and copper, with shadings of yellow, red, pink and orange. It has a light tea fragrance, well-shaped buds that open into 3½ to 4-inch blooms.

The plant grows vigorously, has good sturdy stems, each carrying several blossoms in candelabra effect, satisfactory for cutting. The new foliage is shiny, mahogany, turning dark green with leathery texture.

The AARS reports Arizona is quite free from mildew and has above average resistance to blackspot.

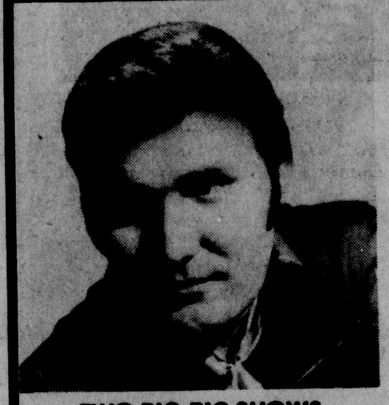

Oregold, an import from the German nursery of R.M. Tantau, is described as one of the rare good yellow roses. It has pointed buds of buttercup yellow that spiral open into high-centered, five-inch blooms. It has the fine form of Peace rose, with 35 to 40 petals of heavy substance. The blooms generally are borne singly on eight to 14-inch stems, providing nice, long cut flowers.

The plant grows three to four feet tall, is bushy and compact, but quite thorny.

Parents of Oregold are Picadilly X Konigin der Rosen and its ancestry includes winners Tropicana, Kordes Perfecta and Peace.

Floribunda Rose Parade is an attractive blend of light coral pink, with 2½-inch flowers shaded with peach, contrasting with the dark green foliage. It is of medium height with full-petaled blooms much of the season, excellent for mass plantings. The blooms have a rich perfume.

Benjamin Williams of Maryland was the hybridizer of Rose Parade.

Tips on tipping given by expert

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Are you one of those people who never knows how much to tip, withers under the glare of waitresses or perfunctorily leaves 15 per cent?

If so, take a tip from John Schein, a traveling salesman from Oshkosh who has taken it upon himself to straighten out the world's convoluted tipping systems.

"All we're trying to do is restore tipping to its original concept," said Schein, the founder two years ago of Tippers International, which he says now has a membership of 2,500.

"We want to give tips for good, prompt service, not because we are embarrassed or feel guilty."

Schein recommends sticking to the usual 15 per cent for good service, with up to 20 per cent for exceptional service and down to nothing for rotten service.

"Things are out of hand when you're expected to tip 20 to 25 per cent for average or substandard service," said Schein, a nuts and bolts salesman.

He says a kind word often achieves the same result as money.

"Find out the name of your waitress, talk to the hostess, compliment the chef and bartender. You can actually leave smaller tips and get better service," he said.

Schein says the experienced tipper learns a few tricks of the "art," such as flipping silver dollars to the doorman and porter when checking into a hotel for a few days—"I never have any trouble getting a cab or help with my bags."

Schein's list of standard tips includes:

Fifteen per cent for waitresses, bartenders, cabbies and room service; 10 to 25 cents for restroom attendants; 20 per cent for beauticians; 50 cents for barbers; $1 for wine stewards; 25 cents for grocery boys; 50 cents per bag for bellboys and skycaps, and 75 cents for errands by hotel personnel.

Little girl dies in home blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dangie Tucker, 4, was killed in a fire that swept through her downtown Cincinnati home early today.

Firemen said the girl's father told them he escaped through an outside stairwell and her mother was not home.

Neighbors said they heard an explosion just before the fire.

The girl's body was found by firemen under a living room couch, three feet from the front door of the house.

School paper staff fights censorship

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A federal appeals court today was to be asked to rule whether a high school principal violated students' constitutional rights by suppressing an issue of the school newspaper.

Oral arguments were to be presented before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on a suit filed by a group of Reynoldsburg, Ohio, High School students against principal Joseph Endry and the Reynoldsburg Local School District.

Attorneys for the students maintained in briefs filed with the court that Endry violated students' rights of freedom of speech by refusing to distribute the Nov. 22, 1971 issue of the school's newspaper, "Doubloon."

The case was dismissed earlier in U.S. District Court in Columbus.

In testimony earlier in district court Endry said he had refused to distribute the issue in question because of an editorial entitled "Where Are You Mr. H.S. Athlete," which he said he considered inflammatory and which he feared might lead to fights among students.

The editorial claimed the archetype high school athlete was dead at Reynoldsburg High School and that the kind of school spirit his type engendered was gone.

"Some of our boys in sports are not true athletes. A number habitually smoke and even more frequently drink," the editorial said. The editorial and the other articles in the issue had been approved by a faculty advisor.

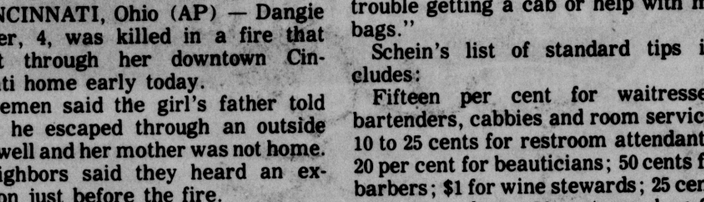

Attorneys for Endry argued in their briefs that he had 22 years of school experience at the time of the incident and that "...it is clear that the First Amendment does not give minor high school students the right to openly invite the disruption, or actually disrupt, the educational process."

Danish youth to become MT's 6th foreign student

Bent Emil Lyngholt Hansen, 18, of Varde, Denmark, will be the sixth foreign exchange student to attend Miami Trace High School under the American Field Service program.

The 176-pound, six foot Bent, with reddish blond hair, will arrive here next fall to enter high school as a senior.

Bent's father, Johannes Verne Hansen, is a farmer and Bent also is interested in farming, according to the information sent by the AFS to the high school. In school in Denmark, his studies included three years of German and three hours a week for five years of English, which should simplify his life here in America.

He will make his home for the school year with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, Ohio 38-NE, where he will see farming American-style close up. His American brother will be Bill Schaefer, an MTHS senior, who is active in vocational agriculture. Also in the Schaefer family are another son, Tim, 13, who will be a freshman at MTHS next year, and a daughter, Sandy, 12, who will be in the seventh grade at Bloomingburg. Bent is sponsored by the AFS adult chapter at MTHS.

The other AFS students who have attended MTHS are Grete Havag, of Norway, Evelyn Baldovino, of the Philippines, Gabriel Blanco, of Spain, Claudia Becht, of Germany, and Sheila Gordon, of South Africa.

Population growth for the United States from 1970 to mid-1972 was 2.46 per cent. Population growth for the Appalachian region was 2.44 per cent.

GENEVA (AP)- High regard for the Swiss continues as Switzerland emerged as the most trusted nation in a poll conducted in France, Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium by Ronald Inglehart of Michigan State University and David Handley, University of Geneva, in cooperation with the European Communtiy Information Center.

In a field of eight countries Switzerland ranked first with a trust rating of 7i per cen against a negative total of 11 per cent.

12-year-old boy found hanged

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Richard Blust Jr., 12, of Cincinnati, was found hanged in a wooded area near his home Wednesday. A baseball glove was found nearby.

His parents spent the night looking for him after he failed to show up for baseball practice at Ryan Park for the St. Catherine Roman Catholic school team.

His father is athletic director for church activities. Richard had been deeply involved in all sports plus many extra school activities for the past five years, police said.

"I'm not sure he really liked sports, at least not baseball," said his manager Carl Buschbacher. "He wasn't that enthusiastic about it.

"He was a starter on the team but several weeks ago he began missing practices. Then he didn't show up for one of our games and I started someone else in his place."

Police investigators learned the boy told his mother that his arm hurt Tuesday and didn't want to go to practice. She told him that he had the responsibility to show up and tell the manager.

His father, in a telephone call said the same thing, police said.

"He never showed up for practice," Bushbacher said.

Sister Paula, principal of the school, said the seventh grader was a Boy Scout, served mass and had a paper route in addition to playing sports.

"He was always cheerful and good humored and performed his duties at mass very faithfully," she said. "He was the kind of boy you never thought this would happen to."

At our recent basketball tournament," Buschbacher recalled, "Richard ran the popcorn machine and dispensed soft drinks every night.

"He worked as hard as any adult.

"I wonder if I pushed him too hard? I've been asking myself that over and over again since it happened and can honestly say I don't think so.

"His father has a very responsible position as athletic director. He coordinates our entire sports program, which has a $10,000 to $11,000 budget. But he didn't push him that hard either."

A veteran policeman wondered whether Richard was involved in too many activities he wasn't mature enough to handle. But maybe that's not the answer either, said the detective, who asked not to be quoted by name.

"How could anything be so bad that a 12-year-old boy would take his own life? What went through his mind?

"We have been having increasing problems with teenage and sub-teen suicides. Perhaps one of the troubles is that they don't think of death as being permanent. They see it every day on television," the detective said.

A $25-million convention center under construction in Kansas City will more than double the city's current $30-million annual convention business volume by 1976, says Mayor Charles Wheeler.

MT student Norway-bound

Vernon Stanforth, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stanforth, Pleasantview Road, Jeffersonville, will leave June 24 for a summer in Norway in the American Field Service program.

Stanforth will be staying in Skein, Norway, which is just south of Olso. He will be making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Oystien Lunden.

Stanforth's Norweigna stay will last 10 weeks.

Sheila Gordon, 18, who recently completed a year at Miami Trace High School,, will be leaving June 28. She has been makin her home with Mr. and Mrs. Will Braun, 1188 Hess Road.

Miss Gordon will join other AFS students for a few weeks of travel around the United States and will leave for her native South Africa in mid-July.

American Legion Post 25 will host district meeting

Paul H. Hughey Post 25 of the American Legion will host the Legion's seventh district convention Saturday and Sunday.

The guest speaker for the meeting will be David A. Cropper, of Portsmouth, who is the state commander of the American Legion of Ohio. A World War II veteran, he is a member and past commander of James Dickey Post 23 in Portsmouth, Ohio's largest American Legion Post. It has more than 2,000 members.

DAVID A. CROPPER

The seventh district is composed of 33 posts in eight south central Ohio counties, with a total membership of 6,700.

The district attained an all-time high in membership this year and led all Ohio districts in recruiting new members. To honor its achievement, the district will be given priority seating and will lead the parade at the state convention in July.

The agenda for the district meeting includes the election of new officers in addition to receiving reports on various Legion programs.

Several local Legionnaires are serving as officers this year. They include Eugene Ladrach, district commander; Phil Ford, district adjutant; Vora Brown Jr., sergeant at arms; and R.B. Tharp, judge advocate.

Troop slash being sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration forces are rallying opposition as the Senate nears a vote on proposals to force major U.S. troop reductions overseas.

Secretary of State Heenry A. Kissinger, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger on Wednesday all argued against troop reductions.

The Senate votes today on an amendment by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield to force a reduction within 18 months of 125,00 U.S. ground troops and airmen stationed on foreign soil.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was ready to propose a 100,000-man reduction if the Mansfield amendment failed.

Kissinger warned in a letter to Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee that a major troop reduction overseas could undermine negotiations with Russia for mutual reductions in Europe and could jeopardize efforts to achieve a permanent peace in Asia.

Kissinger said the U.S. already has cut its troops in Europe from 400,000 in the early 1960s to about 300,000.

In the same period, he said, Soviet forces in Eastern Europe increased from 475,000 in 1962 to 575,000 now.

One-sided reduction by the United States, he said, would remove Soviet incentives to agree to mutual and balanced reductions by NATO and Warsaw Pact nations in negotiations under way in Vienna.

It takes from 30 to 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Bible scholars to work on translation

NEW YORK — Twenty-eight Bible scholars will spend the summer in Scotland, working in four editorial committees on the translation of 12 books of the Old Testament.

This is but one phase in the 10-year process of translating the entire Bible, a project sponsored by the New York International Bible Society.

The new translation, called "The Holy Bible - New International Version", when complete is the work of over 100 Bible scholars from five different countries of the world.

The New Testament is already in print, and so far nearly a million copies have been printed. It has met with such success, according to Dr. Edwin H. Palmer, Executive Secretary of the project, that many are asking for portions of the Old Testament, particularly the Psalms. He added:

"We will try to complete the Old Testament as quickly as possible, but we do not wish to rush into print and thereby sacrifice the quality secured in the New Testament by a constant checking and rechecking through several successive committees.

"It is far more difficult to translate the Old Testament than the New. One problem is to know what certain Hebrew words really mean. In the case of Greek, the language of the New Testament, there is a great body of literature outside the Bible, so that it is possible to ascertain the meaning of the New Testament Greek words. In the case of the Old Testament, however, there is very little contemporary literature outside the Old Testament itself in Hebrew."

The Ugaritic language, related to Hebrew, has been helpful since a quantity of literature in it was found in 1929. Said Dr. Palmer:

"Many of our men who will be in Scotland are specialists in Ugaritic. In addition, some of the scholars who will be at work in Scotland this summer are up to date on the newer archaeological discoveries in the Holy Land." Dr. Palmer added:

"Some of our men go to Israel on summer archaeological expeditions. This year they are spending their time with us giving the new translation the benefit of their extensive knowledge and experience."

Sessions of translation will be held at Scotland's oldest university in St. Andrews, from June 17 through August 24.

The Rev. Youngve R. Kindberg, President of New York International Bible Society, said that it is hoped that the complete Bible will be translated and available to the public by 1978. He added:

"It is not merely a revision or paraphrase of the Bible as are many of the versions done since the King James was published in the 17th century. It is an entirely new, highly readable translation whose every word and phrase will speak to people, especially young people, in the language of our time."

The New York International Bible Society had its beginnings in 1809 as a ministry to seamen who thronged New York City's port areas. Before its first birthday it had become national and worldwide in scope. It now services more than 8½ million requests annually for Bibles, New Testaments and Bible booklets published in many languages.

The publishing of the new Bible in the United States will be handled by Zondervan Bible Publishers of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Nixon meets high-level Arab group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is welcoming a high-level Arab delegation to the White House as he continues to stress improved U.S. relations with the Middle East nations he will tour this month.

The group headed by Prince Fahd, Saudi Arabia's interior minister and second deputy prime minister, was invited to Nixon's Oval Office for mid-morning talks to be followed by a working luncheon.

A White House spokesman said the discussion would center on ways "to expand U.S.Saudi Arabian cooperation in the economic, industrial, scientific and technological fields and in the area of the Kingdom's defense requirements."

Prince Fahd's oil-rich country is one of five Middle East nations Nixon will tour June 12-18. The others are Egypt, Israel, Syria and Jordan.

In a major foreign policy address at Naval Academy commencement ceremonies, Nixon said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's negotiation of Israeli-Arab disengagement removed a roadblock to Middle East peace.

JUVENILE TRAFFIC

Larry D. Davis, 17, son of Mrs. Sarah Davis, Sabina, was adjudged a juvenile traffic offender by Judge Rollo M. Marchant for driving an automobile with a raised bumper. The judge ordered that the youth not operate the vehicle until the bumper was corrected.

Dennis P. O'Cull, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Cull, Stuckey Rd., was found to be a juvenile traffic offender for driving with a raised bumper. Judge Marchant approved of the discipline of the parents.

DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Phyllis A. Newland, Greenfield, has filed in Common Pleas Court for divorce from Glenn W. Newland on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Nov. 19, 1956 in Liberty, Ind., and have four children. The plaintiff is seeking alimony, custody and support.

Dale E. Everhart, 1127 Lakeview Ave., has filed for divorce from Betty Everhart on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Jan. 4, 1974 in Newport, Ky., and have no children by this marriage.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Dennis L. Stepter, 6 Sunny Dr., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Paula Stepter, New Haven, Conn., on grounds of neglect of duty. The defendant was adjudged by the court to be a suitable person to have custody of the parties' minor child. She was therefore awarded custody and support.

OSU builds helicopter tie-downs

COLUMBUS — Construction started last week on 40 new paved helicopter tie-downs and paved hoverlanes at Ohio State University's Don Scott Field.

Designed by Bender, Grindle, Raike, Inc., engineers, architects, surveyors of Ashland for the Ohio Adjutant General's Department, the new facility will be one of the most modern in the United States. It will feature flush-mounted in-pavement lighting to insure safe operation of hovering aircraft.

Area floodlights and fencing will also be installed as part of the project to improve security of the installation.

With approval of the National Guard Bureau in Washington D.C., the contracts for both general construction and lighting were awarded to Jess Howard Electric Co. of Blacklick in the amount of $453,014.22.

Traffic Court

Only two persons were scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Wednesday on traffic charges.

Acting Judge John P. Case found Ray V. Blair, 38, of 919 Pam Dr., guilty of driving while under suspension of his operator's license, sentencing his to 30 days in jail and ordering that the defendant pay a fine of $100. The judge suspended 20 days of the jail term.

Three persons forfeited bond on charges of disorderly conduct filed on private warrants.

Nancy L. Clifton, 20, Columbus, and Jess and Norma Redman, 59 and 43, respectively, of Mount Sterling forfeited $25 bond each.

The first known Olympiad was held in 776 B. C.

AAA opposes truck weight increases

Ohio AAA Clubs do not favor increased weights and sizes of trucks combinations on Ohio highways because of safety factors involving the motorist and the increased cost in millions of dollars necessary for additional maintenance and upkeep says Mrs. Fred Shoop, Secy-manager of the Fayette County Automobile Club.

Representing the Ohio AAA Clubs, Clifford E. Reich, director of research and development for the Ohio AAA Association, testified last week in opposition to House Bill 1303 before the House Transportation Committee in Columbus, pointing out that "present truck combinations are large enough in Ohio."

The bill in its present form would increase the size and weights of trucks on Ohio's highways from 19,000 to 20,000 pounds for single axle load; from 32,000 to 34,000 pounds for any two successive axles; from 38,000 to 40,000 pounds for any two successive axles spaced eight feet or more apart; from 78,000 to 90,000 pounds for total weight permitted; from 55 to 60 feet for the overall length of a commercial tractor and semi-trailer and from 65 feet to 70 feet for any other combination of vehicles.

Reich explained that "permitting longer, heavier trucks on Ohio's highways would jeopardize the safety and well being of every motorist in Ohio and would hasten deterioration of our highways and destruction of our bridges.

Several county engineers testified before the same committee that this would be a definite cause for deterioration if truck weight and size would be increased because of the repetitive trips.

The AAA official cited safety factors that would be involved "such as drivers being fearful of the wind blast effect caused by trucks when they are passing or are being passed, and that an AAA study shows that where tractor-trailer trucks are involved in accidents, they are twice as likely as passengers cars to be fatal."

Reich urged the committee to give serious examination before recommending any increase in size or weight for trucks and called to the attention of the committee the influx of many more smaller cars on the highways because of the energy crisis and that both the truck and passenger car speed limit is the same.

In addition to costing additional millions of dollars annually to offset the increased wear on highways and bridges if HB 1303 were to become law, the AAA spokesman said that if the bill is passed the state would fave the possibility of losing Federal aid highway funds since the weight and size regulations would be in excess of Federal standards adopted in 1956.

J. Philip Richley, Ohio Department of Transportation Director, corroborated this fact in his testimony, suggesting that no action be taken now to increase weights and sizes until there is further federal action. Richley pointed out that the trucks trips do not start and end on the freeway system and that city streets, county, township and state roads are used by the big truck combinations.

Colorado, Montana and Nebraska rescinded previous executive orders that allowed trucks at the higher state weight limits to operate on the Interstate System to prevent loss of Federal aid highway funds so sorely needed by state and local communities.

Vietnam veterans can change preference on bonus request

COLUMBUS — John W. Bush, director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission today announced that according to a recent ruling, a veteran can request the preference he has made on his application be changed from educational assistance to a cash bonus.

"This can be done," Bush said, "if the veteran does so before any part of the educational assistance bonus has been applied to its intended use, that is, paid either to the veteran, or to the educational institution or training school."

He further stated that an applicant could request a change from his choice of a cash bonus to educational assistance, if he had not cashed his cash bonus check.

"insofar as reimbursement to the veteran is concerned," Bush added, "payment will only be made for education or training received after Jan. 1, 1974, regardless of when tuition or training fees were paid."

Director Bush said that the first Educational Certificates of Entitlement will be mailed at the same time as the first bonus checks, beginning June 7.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

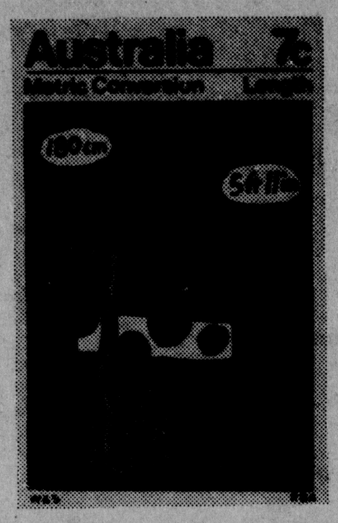

By SYD KRONISH

Stamps in cartoon style are being used by Australia to help publicize its changeover to the metric measurement system.

Lionel Bowen, Australia's postmaster general, said that the stamps are intended to create public awareness of the switch and to draw attention to the four aspects of the metric system — length, volume, mass and temperature. He feels certain that the stamp illustrations in the form of cartoons have "humanized" the subjects and have created visual messages which emphasize how metric conversion affects people's lives.

The four new stamps all have the same value, 7 cents. The stamp for length shows a cartoon character saying "5 ft. 11 in. is 180 cm." The one for mass has the stylized man quipping "15 stone is 1100 kg." The temperature stamp blurb is "100 F is 38 C." On the volume illustration, the character stipulates "7 fl. oz. equals 200 ml."

Your local dealer should have these stamps available at approximately 36 cents for the set. For further information Australian stamps you may write directly to the Australian Information Bureau, 636 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10020.

The Republic of China on Taiwan has issued four more stamps in its 1974 Taiwan scenery set. The first group of adhesives was released last March.

The lowest value shows the Dr. Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall dedicated by Chiang Kai-shek Nov. 12, 1965, the 100th birthday of Dr. Sun. Another stamp depicts the Reaching Moon Tower at Tapei Lake. The third in the set features the landscape of Lanyu located Southeast of Taiwan. The highest value illustrates the modern inter-island bridge at Penghu connecting 64 isles in the Straits of Taiwan.

In the summer of 1976, Canada will host the Summer Olympic Games. In honor of this occasion, the Canada Post Office is issuing a series of commemorative stamps during the next two years and collectors will want to acquire them for their regular or specialized albums.

The first Canadian Olympic commemorative was issued in September 1973. It was a set of two gold and silver stamps, each bearing the Canadian Olympic logo of five inter-locking rings crowned with an "m" to symbolize the three-tier champions' podium and Montreal the host city.

The second issue, released in March of this year, consisted of four 8-centers showing the summer sports of hiking, cycling, jogging and swimming. The third set issued in April was composed of three semipostals, the first surcharged postage stamps in Canada's history.

The trio of issues, as well as first-day covers, can be purchased directly from the Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Canada, KLA OB5. A postcard will get you all the details as to how much money to send for the various items.

Many stamp collectors are also becoming coin collectors. So here are a few new books which may help you in this hobby. "Coin Collecting As a Hobby" by Burton Hobson presents all aspects of the hobby, including U.S. and foreign paper money. "How To Build A Coin Collection" by Fred Reimfeld tells the beginner how to start, develop and maintain both U.S. and foreign currency. "The Coin Makers" by Thomas W. Becker is also good background for a neophyte collector, since it features 107 photos of coins, old and new, noting how coinage began and its history over the years. The coin books are available at your local stamp or coin store or department.

Thief lifts surprise tapes

DALLAS (AP) - The thief who stole a tape recorder and several tapes from the car of Francis Andrews of Tomball is in for a surprise—the only sounds recorded on the tapes are heart sounds.

Andrews, 42, who lists his occupation as "hearsounds" work, told police he was in Dallas working at the Veteran Administration Hospital when someone broke into his car and stole the tapes. Also lifted was a "digital heartsound scope" he invented and values at $25,000.

'King of Herm' presides over tiny realm in Britain's Channel Islands

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - He was wearing a pink shirt and pink and black tie instead of royal robes, and there was no crown on his silver hair—but the "King of Herm" had a regal demeanor befitting the sole "ruler" of the smallest of Britain's Channel Islands.

As such he presides over a school, a hotel, a quaint pub, a 900-year-old church, 45 residents and more than 100 purebred Guernseys, each with its own name.

When he isn't being addressed by his unofficial title King Peter, he is known as Maj. Peter Wood, Tenant of Herm, an island a half mile wide and one and a half miles long.

It was in an effort to lure more U.S. tourists to the Channel Islands, which are tucked in between England and France, that he was in this country.

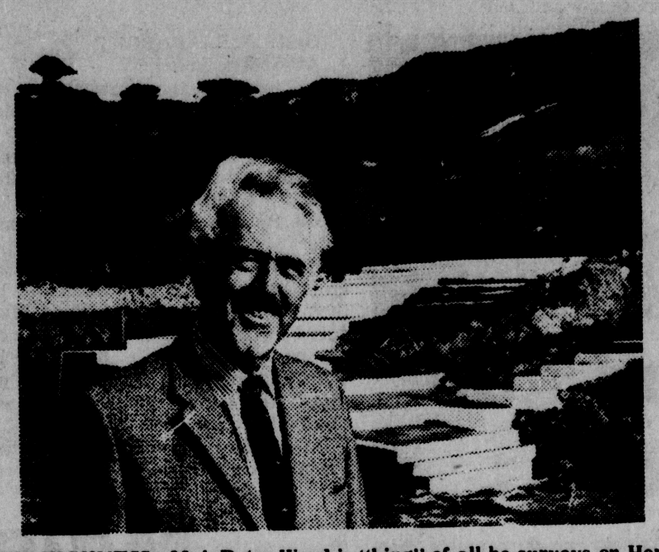

..WOOD, former major in the Royal Engineers, fell in love with his miniature empire on a holiday visit.

He leased the island in 1949 from the States of Guernsey, with whose help he has changed it from a weed-grown eyesore to a successful farming and vacation spot.

Everything was completely derelict after Herm's occupation by the Germans during World War II," he recalled. "There was no electricity, and we had to have drinking water shipped in,. There were so many things to be done. That first winter I listed them all and picked out the five most important to get at first."

His priorities included establishing a water supply system, putting in a sewage disposal plant and underground electric cables, rebuilding the houses, establishing communications such as telephones and a ferry to Guernsey, and developing a means of earning a living.

"We have the biggest milk producing farm in the Channel Islands," Wood said. "Besides the raw milk that is shipped across and bought by the Guernsey government, we export daffodils - and tourism.

HIS HIGHNESS—Maj. Peter Wood is "king" of all he surveys on Herm, smallest of Britain's Channel Islands, which he has leased since 1949 from the States of Guernsey

"I converted the cottages around the harbor into groups of hotel bedrooms, all operating around the country house which is the main building. There are about 90 beds for overnight visitors, but we have 500 or 600 daily visitors from Guernsey."

What is there for guests to do on an island without cars, without organized activities or formal entertainment?

"There is nothing to do there at all but to walk and make your own entertainment," Wood admits. "The first day is often frustrating, but when people are thrown back on their own resources they get immense pleasure out of the fact that they can entertain themselves.

"People who live in motorized areas feel guilty that they don't use their legs more, and on Herm you have to walk everywhere. There are lovely hills and valleys, absolutely clear air, heavenly views, exhilarating sea. There are dances in the evening. We have a gramophone and a piano and the guests themselves get things going. And there's a sweet little fisherman's pub."

..THERE ARE some dozen families residing permanently on the island, with all the men working for Wood in various capacities.

A few farm and garden, others are engaged in maintenance of the service systems and as carpenters, and there is a hotel manager and an accountant.

"To all the children who grow up on Herm, their father is not a shadowy character who disappears by day," noted Wood, who has six children, of whom four were born on the island. "Because they see him at work they know that what he's doing is necessary to the community."

There is a school for the four or five children of elementary school age, built on the side of the cottage of the fully-qualified teacher. If a doctor is needed he comes from Guernsey, which is three miles away.

"The church is a little stone-roofed building, pure Norman, the oldest intact building and the only one I didn't have to do any repairs on. You get the feeling it is a holy place - it gives a sense of peace. I hold what I call a family service and people are welcome to come in their beach clothes," said Wood, a trim, bearded man in his late 50's.

"If I can deal with it myself I do so," he said of the rare cases of crime that come up and that otherwise are referred to authorities on Guernsey. " We have an ancient jail on Herm, but it hasn't got a door."

Fly-in slated at airport this Sunday

The annual Fly-In at the Fayette County Airport will be held Sunday, weather permitting.

Sponsored by the Fayette County Pilots Association, the Fly-In provides pilots throughout the state an opportunity to visit the airport and participate in a number of flying competitions.

At the same time it offers community residents the opportunity to view the wide variety of aircraft flown by the pilots who participate. In past years this has included antique and experimental aircraft.

Breakfast will be available from 8 a.m. until noon, and sandwiches, pop and ice cream will be available throughout the day.

The competition will include bomb dropping and spot landing events, and a group of U.S. Air Force F-100 jets have scheduled a flight over the airport. A number of trophies will be awarded, including recognition of the youngest and oldest pilots, and the pilot who arrives from the most distant point of origin.

Proceeds will become part of the airport improvement fund.

The rain date for the event has been set for June 16.

Injuries prove fatal

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Joseph Delaney, 70, of Cincinnati, died at a hospital late Wednesday of injuries received when he drove his car into the path of a bus at Sasmann Avenue and Reading Road, police reported.

More automobiles are assembled in Kansas City than in any American city except Detroit.

County unemployment rate 8.5 per cent

Approximately 8.5 per cent of Fayette County's total civilian labor force of 10,550 was unemployed in April, according to the report of the Division of Research and Statistics of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services released today.

Included in this estimate, were 9,650 employed and 900 (275 women) who were without work. The population of the county in 1970 was approximately 25,500, an increase of 700 during the previous 10 years. About half of the people live in Washington C. H. and half in the rural area.

In greatest demand in the county last April, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services notes, were registered and practical nurses, computer analysts, operators, programmers and supervisors, draftsmen, tool and die makers and construction laborers.

The average starting hourly wage schedule in industry here for both men and women is: unskilled $2 to $2.50; semiskilled $2.50 to $3; skilled $3 to $4.

In recent years, the average weekly earnings of factory employes in the county have been about one-sixth below the state average, the Employment Bureau reports.

According to the Census Bureau's 1970 tabulation about one-fifth of the county's population commuted to work in neighboring counties.

During last April, more than one-fourth of all the workers living in the county were on factory payrolls, one-seventh were government employes and nearly one-tenth were employed in agriculture.

The principal manufacturing industries are food, fabricated metals, lumber, electrical equipment, paper products, machinery, chemicals, electrical equipment and printing and publishing. Products of these industries include processed food, fabricated millwork articles, prefabricated steel buildings, electric motors, electric bench grinders, radio-controlled garage door openers, mortician's supplies, mobile homes and insulated clothing and gloves.

Among the men seeking work through the Bureau of Employment, three-tenths had structural work backgrounds, about one-seventh were in machine trades and one-tenth were clerical, sales or service personnel.

Of the women registered with the Employment Service here in April, nearly one-third were in the clerical-sales classification, one-fourth had held service positions and about one-sixth were bench workers.

Approximately five-sixths of the total seeking jobs through the Employment Service were under 45 years of age. Some of them, both men and women, had previous experience as material handlers, assemblers, truck trivers, machine operators, clerks, cooks and waitresses.

Area man guilty of false try for auto license

An area resident was found guilty in Municipal Court Wednesday of two charges filed by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Terry L. Lowe, 18, Ohio 41-S, was found guilty by acting Judge John P. Case of making a false application for an operator's license and of driving while his license was under suspension.

Lowe was fined $200 and sentenced to 60 days in jail, 58 of which were suspended.

The longest hunger strike recorded was one of 94 days by nine inmates of Cork Prison, Ireland, from Aug 11 to Nov. 12, 1920.

Five homers smashed by Indians

Cleveland overwhelms Rangers, 9-3

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The fans left the fireworks to the baseball team in Cleveland Wednesday night.

Home runs exploded at Municipal Stadium instead of people. It resulted in a 9-3 Cleveland victory over the Texas Rangers in relative peace and quiet.

"I really liked it when the fans stood up and cheered our boys when they hit their homers," noted Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte. "That's the kind of fans we want to come out and see us. They can enjoy our success with us. Those others, I don't ever want to see around."

It was a far more civilized scene than Tuesday night when their game was torn apart by a riot. Hundreds of fans, apparently hyped up by "10-cent beer night," threw debris and flooded the field, chasing the players to cover. The Indians had to forfeit the game.

On Wednesday night, only about 8,000 persons showed up—about one-third of Tuesday night's audience. The public address announcer told them that fines would be levied if anyone ran on the playing field. And they cheered the announcement.

There were mostly cheers from then on, as Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan hit three-run homers for the Indians in a seven-run sixth inning. The only boos through the entire evening came when Texas Manager Billy Martin walked to the mound to change a pitcher.

In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Kansas City Royals 5-4; the Oakland A's blasted the Detroit Tigers 9-1; the California Angels turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5; the Chicago White Sox stopped the New York Yankees 7-6 in 15 innings and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

Orioles 5, Royals 4

Mark Belanger's bloop double with two out in the ninth inning scored Frank Baker from first base, capping a three-run rally that lifted Baltimore over Kansas City.

A's 9, Tigers 1

Gene Tenace blasted a 415-foot grand slam home run in the fifth inning, leading Oakland over Detroit.

Vida Blue, 5-5, scattered four hits in seven innings for his fourth consecutive victory and fifth in his last six decisions.

Angels 6, Brewers 5

Joe Lahoud blasted a two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning, giving California a victory over Milwaukee.

White Sox 7, Yankees 6

Jorge Orta's one-out double in the 15th inning scored Dick Allen from second base and gave Chicago its victory over New York.

Red Sox 5, Twins 3

Luis Tiant scattered 10 hits and Rick Burleson knocked in the winning run with a single in the sixth inning, pacing Boston past Minnesota. Tiant posted his fifth straight victory and boosted his record to 7-5.

Dodgers and Rau whip Pirates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It didn't bother Doug Rau to see Richie Hebner heading for first base with Pittsburgh's first hit after 7 1-3 no-hit innings Wednesday night as much as its did to see Richie Zisk hightailing it for the plate with the Pirates' first run.

"I wasn't really concerned about the hit, although I thought about a no-hitter in the fifth inning," the Los Angeles left-hander said. "The hit didn't get me down as much as the run since it made it a one-run game again."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies held off the Atlanta Braves 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the San Francisco Giants 4-1, the Montreal Expos trounced the Houston Astros 8-3 and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3. Cincinnati and New York were not scheduled.

Phillies 4, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt's three-run homer, his 12th, and Bob Boone's solo shot produced a four-run third inning that gave Jim Lonborg all the support he needed to keep the Phillies one-half-game ahead of runner-up St. Louis in the National League East.

Cardinals 4, Giants 1

Lou Brock and Tom Heintzelman cracked three hits apiece and Brock stole his 33rd and 34th bases of the season while Sonny Siebert gained his sixth victory with last-out relief help from Orlando Pena.

Expos 8, Astros 3

Willie Davis, Bob Bailey and Hal Breeden drove in first-inning runs against Claude Osteen and Mike Jorgensen and Jim Cox drove in two runs apiece in the last two innings. Mike Torrez pitched eight innings for Montreal before Chuck Taylor finished up.

Padres 4, Cubs 3

Fred Kendall doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth after the Cubs had tied the score in the top of the inning on Bill Madlock's pinch single.

Major league baseball drafts; over five hundred players chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball dipped into the lucrative free agent market place again today, completing the summer draft of high school and collegiate prospects.

Scouts and farm directors ran through 23 rounds of the regular draft Wednesday, picking 523 players in the hopes of duplicating the 1973 success of teams like the San Diego Padres, Texas Rangers, Minnesota Twins and Milwaukee Brewers, who all came up with instant major leaguers from their draft choices.

San Diego, which drafted outfielder Dave Winfield straight into a major league uniform last year, had first choice this time around and selected shortstop Bill Almon of Brown University.

Almon, who set eight season records at the Ivy League school, has not hired a professional negotiator and plans instead to do his own contract bargaining with the Padres.

After San Diego drafted Almon, Texas had the second choice. A year ago, the Rangers chose and immediately signed a local prospect, pitcher David Clyde. Perhaps Clyde's success influenced this year's home state selection, right-handed pitcher Tom Boggs of Austin. Then, midway through the second round, the Rangers announced they had signed Boggs, just as they had signed Clyde during the draft last year.

Milwaukee, which drafted shortstop Robin Yount into the majors a year ago, picked Claude Edge, a right-handed pitcher from Sacramento, Calif., first this time. Shortstop Ted Shipley of Vanderbilt University was Minnesota's first round pick. A year ago, the Twins drafted pitcher Eddie Bain straight into a major league uniform.

Shipley was one of six shortstops chosen in the draft's first round. The one who got the most attention was Eddie Ford of The University of South Carolina, son of New York Yankee pitching coach Whitey Ford.

The younger Ford was selected by the Boston Red Sox after the Yankees had selected another shortstop, Dennis Sherrill of Miami. "I think he would have liked to go to the Yankees," said Ford's father, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this summer. "I'm sure he's disappointed."

NFL eyes league for Europe soon

NEW YORK (AP) — First Seattle, then the world.

That seems to be the general direction of expansion as the National Football League brought Seattle into its ranks, then on Wednesday seriously was considering opening a separate pro league in Europe next spring.

The NFL owners, who wrap up their three-day meeting today, took Seattle into the fold Tuesday. On Wednesday, the owners modified the punt return rule again, then expressed enthusiasm over the proposal of a six-team, six-week league in Europe, recommended to start next spring.

Bob Kap, active in European soccer and instrumental in bringing several soccer-style kickers to the United States, presented the plan. The teams would be stocked by players from the NFL, who would return then to the U.S. for the regular NFL fall season.

The proposed cities are: Istanbul, nicknamed the Conquerors; Rome, nicknamed the Gladiators; West Berlin; Barcelona; Munich, and Vienna. Except for Istanbul, which has a stadium that seats 55,000, all these cities have stadiums with seating capacities of more than 75,000.

Seattle and Tampa, which was voted into the NFL in April, raised the NFL ranks to 28 teams. Both clubs are to begin play in 1976, although the timetable could be moved moved up a year, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle says.

As for the punt rule, last season, any player on the punting team could race downfield to cover the kick when the ball was snapped. In April, the NFL attempted to stimulate more punt returns by preventing any player from running downfield until the ball was kicked.

Now the rule, given unanimous approval by the owners, allows for a wide receiver on each side to leave the line of scrimmage when the ball is snapped, the rest of the players after the kick.

Several teams, including Cincinnati and Oakland, experimented with the April rule change and "discovered that the man covering the punt wasn't able to get within 12-13 yards of the punt return man," Rozelle said.

Several coaches have said that if their punt coverage team couldn't get downfield, they would instruct their punter to kick out of bounds, preventing any runback.

Dick Baney praises Anderson and Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — When righthander Dick Baney starts for the Cincinnati Reds against Philadelphia Friday it will be more than just another baseball game.

"I will pitch this game harder than any other game I've ever pitched. I really want to win this game," said Baney, who was just recalled by the Reds from their Indianapolis farm team, where he was sent after a spectacularly bad spring training season that saw him achieve an earned run average of 9.00.

Baney said that after he was recalled to the Reds, team president Bob Howsam called him aside for a private talk. Baney wouldn't divulge the details but said "It was very inspirational. I never had that happen before. I really want to do well for the man."

Baney was the last player cut from the Reds this spring.

Last September, the first time the Reds called him up from Indianapolis, he was a pitching sensation and helped the Reds clinch the National League West division championship.

Once he went back to Indianapolis last spring his pitching picked up giving him a 4-2 record. His final game was a one-hitter against Tulsa.

"I was disappointed when I went back to Indianapolis," Baney said. "But (Reds manager George) "Sparky" (Anderson) handled it like a man. He left me some hope. He took all the time in the world explaining why he was sending me down and listening to what I had to say. He gave me incentive to work hard, and in baseball incentive means a lot."

Baney said he was outpitched last spring and has no gripes over having been sent back to Indianapolis for a time.

"Sparky is a man of his word," Baney added. "He told me if I did well and he needed pitching he would call me up and I was the first one he called."

Baney replaced lefty Pat Osburn who was sent to Indianapolis.

Baney starts Friday because lefthander Fred Norman has a pulled rib cage muscle.

Maxflis Wednesday night leaders again

Maxflis increased their lead in the Wednesday Night Golf League to a full four points behind a 16-4 shelling of the Titleists. In other action last night, the Reds whipped the Blue Max 13-7 and the Tourneys overwhelmed the Top Flites 15½-4½.

William Howard of the Tourneys carded low score for the evening with a 41. Richard Kimmett had low score for the Reds with a 42, Everett Rudolph and David Boswell carded 46's for the Blue Max, Jim Morrison fired a 43 for the Top Flites, Ralph Tate had low score for the Titleists with a 47, and Irvin Reeves, Ralph Hyer, and Gerald Begin all carded 44's for the Maxflis.

Next weeks action finds the Reds playing the Titleists, the Tourneys taking on the Maxflis, and the Blue Max squaring off against the Top Flites.

Wheels blast Mustangers; Jets outlast Levi Boys

The Jets and Wheels were victorius last night and the Charge-A-Checks picked up a win on Tuesday evening in the Little League major play. The Jets outlasted the Levi Boys 10-7, the Wheels blasted the Mustangers 16-1, and the Charge-A-Checks whipped the Downtown Drug 9-2.

Slugging was the key to victory in the games as the Jets pounded out thirteen hits while receiving doubles from Clark Lee and Don Bellar. Todd Warnecke had the only extra-base hit for the Levi Boys. Dwayne Noel was the winning pitcher and Charles Wheeler was the loser.

The Wheels ripped the Mustangers' pitching for ten hits while scoring fourteen runs in the first three innings. Jack Persinger doubled twice for the winners. The winning pitcher was John Belles and Martin Leaverton took the loss.

The Charge-A-Checks got a ten-hit attack and a double from Greg Bentley and went on to defeat the Druggists. Rick Leisure took the win for the Charge-A-Checks and Earl McDaniel absorbed the loss.

In minor league action, Sagars blasted the Loafers 21-6 and County Bank whipped the Eagles 16-8. The fourteen hit Sagar attack was paced by triples by John Enocks and Brian Dunn while Fred Jones and Dunn also homered. The Loafers received a triple from Bob Smith. Ken Eddlemon got the win while Jim Chaney took the loss.

County Bank got eleven hits including triples by Mike Shaw and Jeff Hollar in addition to a homer by David Clay. Steve Vermillion got the win for the Bankers while Don Stritenberger took the loss.

Pitching marks game with Girtons, Willis

In Fayette Babe Ruth League action last night, Girtons knocked off Willis Insurance by a score of 3-2. Both teams received good pitching performances from Girtons' Jeff Elliott and Willis's Davie Van Dyke.

Elliott hurled a complete game allowing only two runs on three hits while striking out ten and walking only two. Van Dyke also went the distance and allowed only three runs on three base hits while striking out seven and walking just one.

Girtons' three hits were collected by Elliott and Shawn Riley who had two. Willis's three hits were collected by Joe Black, Gary English, and Van Dyke.

The game gives both teams identical 1-1 records for the young season. Tonight the Medics play Craigs and Sabina travels to Bloomingburg.

Cincinnati picks in free agent draft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Except for Lynn Jones, a 5-foot-9, 21-year-old pitcher from Harmonsburg, Pa., the Cincinnati Reds chose all their players taller than six feet in the Major League Baseball draft.

Jones, an outfielder, was taken in the 10th round. Michael LaCoss, a 6-foot-4, 175 pound, 18-year-old pitcher from Visalia, Calif., was the tallest. He was chosen in the third round.

Others drafted by Cincinnati, included: Steve Reed, 18, pitcher, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Michael Grace, 17, third baseman, Pontiac, Mich.; James Reeves, 20, outfielder, Beaumont, Tex.; Curtis Henderson, 22, infielder, Houston, Tex.

Mark Pearson, 18, pitcher, Alton, Ill.; Brad Bush, 18, catcher, Paris, Tex.; Jeff Hansen, 18, outfielder, Sacramento, Calif.; Ron Oester, 18, shortstop, Cincinnati; Jerry Christensen, 18, pitcher, Albuquerque, N.M.

Charles Renneau, 18, pitcher, El Cajon, Calif.; Paul Marshall, 19, outfielder, Sheridan, Wyo.; Robert Constatine, 18, third baseman, Altasente, Springs, Fla.; Daniel Norman, 19, first base, Barstow, Calif.; Charles Waldrop, 18, pitcher, Herrin, Ill.; Randy Walraven, 18, pitcher, Alvarado, Tex.

Tim Doerr, 22, infielder, Los Angeles, Calif.; Brice Kinnaman, 17, catcher, Cambridge, Md.; Bill Baggett, 18, outfielder, Houston, Tex.; Charles Neal, 18, pitcher, Houston, Tex.; John Barron, 18, pitcher, Cameron, Tex.; and Dean Grauman, 21, shortstop,

Toledo Mud Hens defeat Red Sox, 5-4

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Alan Bannister's 10th-inning single scored Tom Silicato with the winning run to give the Toledo Mud Hens a 5-4 International League victory over the Pawtucket Red Sox Wednesday night.

Silicato had opened the winning rally with a double to right center field against loser Dick Colpaert, 0-1, the fifth of a half-dozen Red Sox pitchers used. Silicato advanced to third on a ground out to first base by Harry Saferight and remained there as Blas Santana was given an intentional walk.

Girls' sports scores

The Advertiser played the girls from Hidy's last night and Hidys came away the winner 25-5. Sandy Hanness and Vickie Fillmore smacked home runs in the game. The game was played in the A division.

In the B division, Graham's Crackers lost to Hidy's 11-7. Joni Gardner and Becky Toole slapped home runs in this game. In another game in the B division, Mac Tools beat the V.F.W. girls by a score of 18-11. Kathy Honners

Good Hope hands Bloomingburg 10-1 loss

Good Hope's Little League team won their second victory in as many outings from Bloomingburg by a score of 10-1. Jim Perrill was the winning pitcher while Randy Robinson absorbed the loss. Scott Grooms tripled in the game while Perrill slapped a home run.

Foster weaves neat four hitter

Post 25 routed in season opener

Post 25 of Washington C. H. was tripped up by Post 62 from Chillicothe in the season opener at WSHS baseball diamond. The final score was 7-1 behind a strong pitching performance by 62's Jon Foster.

Foster hurled the entire seven innings while allowing only one earned run in addition to rendering four hits and five walks while striking out six. Post 25 used a pair of pitchers during the game. Jeff Green started the game and went five innings while allowing no earned runs, just three hits, and five walks, while striking out two. Howard Boggs came on in the sixth and gave up four runs on five hits while striking out one in his two innings.

Chillicothe drew first blood in the second inning as Mike Ratzlaff reached first on an error. He advanced to third on catcher Greg Justus' single and brother Mark Justus walked to load the bases. Foster then walked to score the first run and shortstop Mick Shoemaker's ground out scored another making the score 2-0.

Post 62 scored another unearned run in the fourth to make it 3-0. Center fielder Tim Clemmons reached first on an error, took second on the overthrow, and scored on a single to left by Mark Justus.

Chillicothe pushed across four insurance runs in the seventh to clinch the victory. Five singles by Kirk Hitchens, Mark Shoemaker, Ratzlaff, Clemmons, and Mark Justus brought the lead to 7-0.

Post 25 saved themselves from a shutout loss in the bottom of the seventh when shortstop Steve Haines was hit by a pitch, took second on a passed ball, and scored on center fielder Mark Johnson's Texas league single into right-center.

Although Post 62 outhit Post 25 8-4, perhaps the most outstanding statistic is in the defensive category. Post 25 committed three costly errors while Post 62 played errorless baseball.

Post 25, now 0-1 on the season, travel to Hillsboro on Sat. afternoon, June 8 for a doubleheader and return home the next day for a doubleheader against Greenfield.

Tribe protests forfeit to Texas

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Texas Ranger Manager Billy Martin says the Cleveland Indians management is trying to save face by filing a formal protest against the Tribe's forfeiture of the pair's violence-ridden Tuesday night baseball game.

"They should do what the President (Nixon) didn't do," Martin said. "Just come out an admit they made some mistakes and that they will do everything they can do to prevent it from happening again."

Martin said the actions of Indian General Manager Phil Seghi and Executive Vice President Ted Bonda were "ridiculous."

The Indians filed a formal protest to the forfeiture with American League President Lee MacPhail Wednesday morning.

"While we deplore the incidents which lead to the forfeiture, we also feel that there was no warning given to the fans during the course of the game by the umpires that any continuation of interruptions of play would lead to a declaration of a forfeiture of the game," the protest telegram said.

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Limber Legs caught Hickory Stout at the wire and won the $1,000 featured pace mile at Lebanon Raceway by a nose Wednesday night in 2:07.1-5.

Gary Player Philadelphia Golf favorite

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Player's here. And, by his mere presence, the gritty little South African must be ranked high among the favorites for the $30,000 first prize in the Philadelphia Golf Classic.

But the diminutive golfer from Johannesburg is having trouble keeping his thoughts centered on this 72-hole test that began today on the Whitemarsh Valley Golf Club course.

His thoughts keep straying to Winged Foot at Mamaroneck, N.Y., site of next week's United States Open Championship.

"It's very much on my mind," said Player, the current Masters champion who seeks a second leg on the unaccomplished Grand Slam of Golf.

"The Grand Slam can be accomplished," Player insisted. "You have to be playing very well, of course. And your putting has to be exceptional. Winged Foot will place a premium on putting.

"And you have to have the breaks. You have to have good luck in the draw, in the half of the field you're playing in, in the weather, in a lot of factors.

"But it can be done. Oh, yes, it can be done."

It hasn't been before. No one ever has won the Masters, U.S. and British opens and the PGA in a single season. Only Player, Jack Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen have won them all in a career. Player needs another U.S. Open title to join Nicklaus as the only man to win all four crowns twice.

He said he is playing here only because of a sense of responsibility to the sponsors, who gave his friend Vincent Tshabalala, a black South African golfer, an exemption.

Tshabalala, under Player's sponsorship, is completing a three-tournament swing through the United States at Winged Foot.

Others in the 144-man field chasing a total purse of $150,000 are defending champion Tom Weiskopf, U.S. Open king Johnny Miller and Buddy Allin and Hubert Green.

Cleveland picks draftees in majors free agent draft

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Brennan, a right-handed pitcher from Lewis College, was the Cleveland Indians' first choice in the 1974 Major League baseball draft Wednesday.

Brennan is 21 and is from Oak Lawn, Ill.

The Indians picked 18-yearold Ricky Howerton second. He is a recent graduate of Taft High School in Canoga Park, Calif.

A left-handed pitcher, John Arnold, was chosen next. Arnold is 17 and from Effingham, Ill.

The Tribe then picked up Stanley Mann, 21, a shortstop from Afton, Mo.; Alonzo Bass, 21, a pitcher from Cayce, S.C.; Karl Schroeder, 17, a pitcher from Oklahoma City, Okla., and Steven Hanson, 18, a pitcher from North Linthicum, Md.

Other Indian selections were:

Michael Frazier, 21, catcher-outfielder, Houston, Tex.; Ward Wilson, 18, catcher, Dunedin, Fla.; Steven Van Deren, catcher, 19, Bayside, Calif.; Thomas Sowles, 21, outfielder, Coldwater, Mich.; Steven Widner, pitcher, 17, Corryton, Tenn.; Stanley Maffey, 19, outfielder, Boise, Idaho; David Adeimy, 18, catcher, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Steven Huusfeldt, 18, pitcher, Whittier, Calif.; Orlando Gonzalez, 21, Miami, Fla.; Hurley Mitchell, 18, pitcher, Coeburn, Fla.; Jerry Stamps, 21, Bessemer, Ala.; Michael Jones, 17, pitcher, Orlando, Fla.; Ben Heise,, a shortstop attending the University of Arizona, and David Gallino, a shortstop from El Sabrante, Calif.

Cleveland Indians purchase Joe Lis

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians purchased Joe Lis from the Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

Lis plays first base and outfield. He is hitting .175 in 23 games for the Twins. Lis is a 28-year-old native of Somerville, N.J.

Dwain Anderson, a utility infielder, was sent back to Oklahoma City to make room for Lis.

Publish or perish formula unchanged

BOSTON (AP) — A good college lecturer had better publish his thoughts if he hopes to get ahead in the academic world, a sociologist finds.

William C. Yoels, a Boston University sociologist, took a statistical look at the career of fellow sociology professors and their promotions.

He found that less than 4 per cent of the faculty in the nation's top 20 college departments of sociology got promoted without having published books and articles to buttress their teaching reputations.

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — Lester B. Dill, who operates Meramec Caverns here, was asked by a tourist what attracted Jesse James to hide out in the cave.

"Free admission," Dill replied.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

There are many highly talented players who do extremely well by executing fantastic squeezes, extremely rare Deschapelles coups, and sundry other feats of magic. But the fact is that these very same players are ofttimes the victims — rather than the architects — of these exploits, and that they suffer even as you and I in such situations.

Consider this deal where the renowned expert, Benito Garozzo of Italy, held the West hand in a match against Austria. South's two club bid was strong and artificial, and Garozzo's double showed clubs. Declarer eventually got to six hearts doubled and Garozzo had to choose between a spade and a club lead.

He reasoned that declarer might be void of spades — judging from North's double of four spades and East's willingness to play four spades doubled — and accordingly Garozzo led the king of clubs. This proved to be an error — a spade lead would have stopped the slam — when declarer took the ace of clubs and played eight rounds of trumps to produce this position:

Declarer now led the five of trumps, forcing Garozzo to part with the king of diamonds, whereupon declarer discarded a spade from dummy, played a club, and so made the slam. South had caused one of his losers to disappear, just as Garozzo had so often done to so many of his opponents.

Speaking of Your Health...

The Water Diet

The water diet, which has been so popular for reducing weight, has come into unfavorable notice because of a recent study reported in the "Journal of the American Medical Association."

This diet, sometimes referred to as the Stillman diet, is based on a regime high in animal fat and protein. In addition, there is a marked restriction of carbohydrates. Fundamental to the diet is the need to drink at least eight glasses of water a day.

A group of research workers at the Harvard Medical School and the Peter Brent Brigham Hospital in Boston have found that their subjects in this "water diet" study consumed more than twice the amount of cholesterol normally found in the average American diet.

It was true that the subjects studied lost weight. There was, however, an immediate rise in the cholesterol levels of the blood. This rise was so marked that it is considered risky for people in the middle-age group, and especially for those who may have heart disease.

Although healthy young adults are not as readily harmed by such sudden increase of cholesterol, repeated, or prolonged use of such a diet, even in the young, may be potentially dangerous.

The general conclusion is that there are many safer, and more permanent, ways of losing weight.

* * *

A wave of confusing information seems to have struck the American people because of overemphasis in the media about a condition known as Reye's disease.

This rare, very rare, disease has been observed by physicians and recognized as a complication of a virus infection.

Doctors themselves have not induced in their patients any fears about this condition. But unfortunately, Reye's disease became eyecatching in the media. Symptoms, all of which could be applied to many other diseases, created panic in the minds of some mothers who identified their children's symptoms with this unusual condition.

If you are one of those who have been frightened by the reports, disregard these anxiety-producing details and continue to take the sound medical advice that only your physician can offer.

Campers rent, save

NEW YORK(AP)- Camping families who want to travel long distances can save both time and money by driving or flying to a distant location and renting a camping unit. Writing in the 1974 edition of the Rand McNally Campground and Trailer Park Guide, author Connie B. Howes advises that destination-rental is a means of avoiding the investment-maintenance cost of owning a camper. It also leaves more time fore exploring the area the camper wants to visit.

The first horseless carriage with a fare meter was built by the Diamler Motor Co. and put on the streets of Stuttgart, Germany, in 1897, according to the National Geographic Society.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's a spewing smokestack. It's litter in the streets. It's a river where fish can't live.

You know what pollution is.

But not everyone does.

So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.

Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution.

People can stop it.

Columbus lawyer charged with contempt of court

A Columbus attorney has been held in contempt of court by Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Fred L. Newson is facing a charge of contempt of court for not informing his client, Michael Marmura, of Reynoldsburg, of his court date, which was to have been Monday.

Marmura and Robert Lemons, of Greenfield, were both scheduled to appear in court Monday to face charges of sale and possession of pornography.

Judge Coffman explained the incident this way:

Arraignments for Lemons and Marmura took place around March 20, 1974. Fred L. Newsom, an attorney from Columbus, appeared with both defendants as their counsel of record. Court files substantiate this fact.

At the arraignment, the court placed both defendants under bond and suggested three trial dates, which Newsom could consider and choose from.

By April 4, no response was given to the court as a choice a of trial date, so the court addressed a letter to Newsom and a letter to prosecuting attorney James A. Kiger, expressing no choice had been made the the court had chosen June 3 as the trial date. No one indicated any conflict.

Rules of criminal procedure provide that notice of trial date be given to counsel and if there is no counsel, then to the defendants themselves.

Attorney John C. Bryant entered his appearance as counsel for Lemons by filing a letter on april 27, which is contained in the clerk of courts file.

At no time did Newsom request the right to be withdrawn as counsel of record for either case and Marmura retained Newsom's services paid him a fee throughout the entire case.

On May 31 the court learned that Bryan and his defendant, Lemons, were not notified of the June 3 trial date.

The court immediately called Newsom for an explanation. Newsom admitted his files contained the letter sent on April 10 and he had failed to tell Lemons and Marmura of the court date, but assured the court he'd prepare himself or have another counsel prepared for the 9 a.m. trial Monday.

When Monday arrived, the jury and counsel for the state and Bryan were present in court. Neither defendant, nor Newsom were present.

At 9:45 a.m., Bryan's client, Lemons, arrived and indicated he had no notice of this trial and consequently could not notify Bryan.

Marmuar didn't appear until noon and had been advised at 8:40 a.m. Monday by Newsom that the trial was at 9 a.m. that morning, but he needn't appear because a continuance would be requested.

The court sent word to Newsom to appear and warned him about contempt for his failure to appear and for neglecting his cleints.

Around 11:45 a.m., Newsom appeared in the presence of the court and produced the letter of notification from the court of the trial date.

Neither of the defendants bonds ended up being forfeited and Newsom was held in contempt of court and judgment on this contempt will be held in the future.

The jury was dismissed in mid-morning with apologies from the court for the failure of the appearance of the necessary parties.

Lemons and Marmura's trial will be scheduled for a future date, Judge Coffman concluded.

Riding club meets

A swimming party preceded the meeting of the Happy Trails Riding Club held Monday at a Cedarhurst cottage.

The group discussed future activities and set the dates for the next two trail rides. The first will be held Saturday and Sunday at Tar Hollow, the second will be the weekend of June 22 and 23. The location of the latter ride will be announced later.

The design of a club shoulder patch will be sent to a specialty company so that members can get an estimate of cost. Possible designs for a club membership card were also discussed.

The next meeting will be held July 1 at the home of Ms. Julie Gordon, Ohio 38-N.

Authorities probe unusual accidents

Both the Washington C.H. Police Department and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported rather unusual accidents today.

When Frank J. Queen "popped a wheelie" on his motorcycle at 9 p.m. yesterday, he "popped" off, police said.

The motorcycle continued down Fourth Street, near the Maple Street intersection without him, until it collided with a parked car owned by Kenneth R. Self, 624 Fourth St.

Queen, who is 20 and lives at 530 Third St., suffered abrasions to both knees, but was not treated. The cycle and the car were slightly damaged.

Police charged Queen with reckless operation and no operator's license.

An unidentified car pulled into the door frame and several cases of beer, while attempting to enter the Sagar Dairy drive-through on W. Elm Street, at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

After hesitating a few moments, the car drove off leaving behind many broken bottles of beer and a damaged door, police reported.

The driver of the car is being sought.

Woody Hayes in hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Woodrow "Woody" Hayes, Ohio State University football coach, was admitted to University Hospital today and taken to the Coronary Care Unit.

Hospital officials refused to confirm Hayes, Ohio State's football coach for the last 24 years, had suffered a heart attack.

A hospital spokesman said, however, that the 61-year-old Hayes was "in guarded condition until such time as final diagnosis can be established."

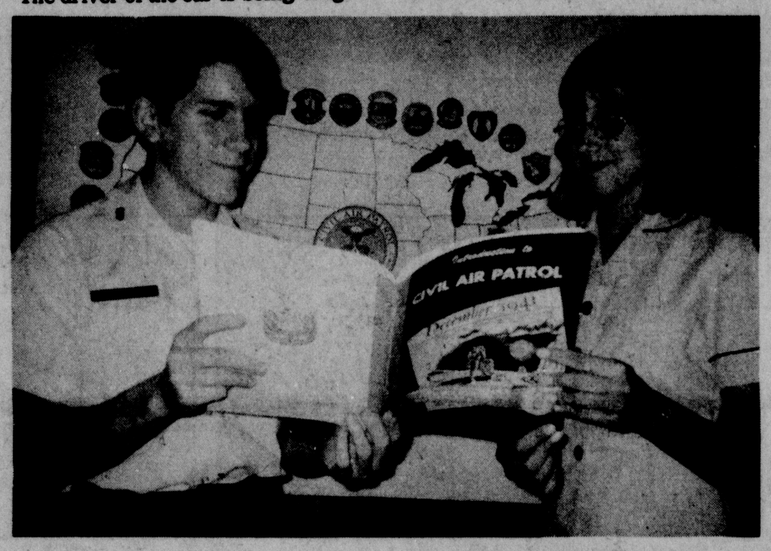

Hayes, who has produced three national and nine conference championships, was at home when he became ill early this morning. He was admitted to the hospital at 8 a.m.

The longtime Buckeye mentor was picked up at his residence by suburban Upper Arlington police and taken to the hospital.

The hospital spokesman acknowledged Hayes was being treated as a coronary type patient.

George Hill, Hayes' top assistant coach, said his boss had not complained of feeling ill in the last few days at staff meetings.

"He's been tired," said Hill, the Ohio State defensive coordinator, "but we've all been that way."

STUDING UP—Bob Rhonamus and Michelle Knisley are two members of the Civil Air Patrol who will be answering questions about the patrol. Thev are shown here reviewing the cadet manual to find points of special interest.

Civil Air Patrol recruiting

Civil Air Patrol Squadron 1206, of Washington C.H., will be seeking to enroll new members Friday and Saturday.

Cadets will be stationed at Buckeye Mart and Seaway as well as uptown to allow passersby to learn more about the patrol. They will be distributing pamphlets about the patrol and ink pens while accepting donations for the program.

New members must be between the ages of 13 and 18. Those who are interested should make a point to talk with one of the cadets or attend one of the patrol's meetings which are held at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Paul E. Woods, 335-4644.

Paint Creek Lake allocations set

An allocation of $762,000 for construction at Paint Creek Lake is among the five allocation, totaling more than $13 million, for public works projects in the sixth district which are included in legislation reported out of the House Appropriations Committee recently. It is expected to come up for a vote in the House Thursday, Congressman William H. Harsha said.

The other allocations for this district are Alum Creek $3.5 million; Caesar Creek $4.5 million; Chillicothe floodwall $300,000; East Fork Lake $4.5 million.

Jennifer O'Neill plans wedding

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Actress and model Jennifer O'Neill has confirmed she plans to marry Elliot Gould.

Miss O'Neill said in an interview published here Wednesday that she would probably marry the actor after they finish a film together in Europe this fall. Miss O'Neill, who has been married once before, is in Springfield filming "The Reincarnation of Peter Proud."

Gould's first marriage, to Barbra Streisand, ended in divorce. He married actress Jennifer Bogart last December, but they also have parted.

Collision kills Ohioan

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Amos Bumpers Jr., 27, of suburban Mount Healthy, was killed Wednesday in a head-on collision on Winton Road near North Bend Road, Cincinnati Police said.

Hemlock timber has many unfavorable commercial qualities but its cheapness makes it useful as coarse lumber and rough dimension stock.

Tot's life saved by firemen

The first aid knowledge the men of the Washington C.H. Fire Department possess paid off in the price of a human life at 4:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Karen Tompson, 215 Central Place, ran into the fire station screaming for help. Her nine month-old daughter, Amy, was choking.

Lt. Cecil Seaman took Amy by the feet, turned her upside down and slapped her on the back. A piece of leather came out.

Lt. Seaman then drove the child and her mother to Fayette Memiorial.

Leave Watergate to courts: Reagan

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— It's time to leave Watergate to the courts, California Gov. Ronald Reagan told Summit County Republicans on Wednesday.

"We're all upset about Watergate. We've been on the receiving end of too many such shenanigans to see any virtue in this one," the governor said.

But he added to thunderous applause that it's time for GOP standard bearers to stand and fight to save the two-party system.

Welding equipment is reported stolen

Equipment used for welding was taken from a Mount Sterling man's property and windows were broken at Milledgeville Elementary School, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. Washington C.H. Police are investigating the vandalism of eight semi trailers and reported two dog bite injuries.

An acetylene regulator valued at $141, an oxygen gauge and other items used for welding valued at $120 were taken from property in Madison Mills, owned by Herschel Mickel Sr., Mount Sterling.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported, the theft took place sometime last month.

Nine 12 inch by 20 inch windows were broken with chunks of blacktop at Milledgeville Elementary School sometime between 4:30 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies estimated the damage at $30.

Fifty-two tail lights and clearance marker lights were broken on eight semi trailers, while they were parked in the lot next to the Washington Coal Co. on West Temple Street, sometime between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The trailers are owned by National Convoy Inc., Tulsa, Okla. and damage was estimated at $100 by City Police, who are investigating the vandalism incident.

Two Washington C.H. boys were treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital after being bitten by dogs while riding their bicycles Wednesday.

John Elzy, 10, of 324 W. Market St., was bitten on the right leg at 4 p.m. at 417 W. Temple Street and Myron Brown, 7, of 1036 Willard St., was bitten on the left arm at 3 p.m., in the vicinity of 1000 Willard Street.
